THE WAYNE- WESTLAND board of education will meet at 7 tonight in a different location — the John Glenn High School auditorium, on Marquette west of Wayne Road.

The switch of the meeting from the usual location of the nearby administrative offices was made to handle an expected large crowd. The meeting is the first business session since voters narrowly rejected a millage rate increase on Wednesday March

THE HUNT is on Saturday in Central City Park.

Children ages 1 through 9 may participate in the Easter
"Cottontail" Hunt at 12:30 p.m., come rain or shine. And what, you might ask, is a cottontail hunt? No, there's no rabbit hunting. Cottontail, in this case, means marshmallows.

Hundreds of marshmallows will be sprinkled on the ground in areas roped off for three age groups — 1 to 3, 4 to 6 and 7 to 9.
Children may bring baskets and bags, and the "cottontails" will be turned in at the end of the hunt for a small bag of Easter goodies.

"No one goes home empty-handed," according to the sponsors, which include Westland Citizens, Westland Jaycees, Westland Rotary, Westland Fire Department, Westland Cultural Society and Westland Parks and Recreation Department.

The park is on the south side of Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh, behind city hall and Bailey Recreation Center.

THE EASTER flower sale sponsored by the Westland Rotary Club will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the corners of Wayne-Warren.
Wayne-Cherry Hill, Wayne-Palmer and Warren-Merriman.

Easter mums are $8 per plant.
The annual sale is the club's major fund-raiser, and proceeds are used to support such local activities as scholarships for high school students, senior citizen and recreation programs and the anti-drugs DARE program, among other projects.

THE WESTLAND Sports Arena, 6210 N. Wildwood, will have a special open skating for Easter break 2-3:45 p.m. on Monday, April 1, Tuesday, April
2, Thursday, April 4, and Friday, April 5. Cost is $2.50 for adults and $2 for students. Skate rentals are $1. For more information, call 729-4560.

SOVIET HOCKEY players will begin challenging local teams this week as part of their visit to Westland in return for a visit area hockey players made to Leningrad two years ago. The teen-age Soviets will challenge the Michigan Nationals Bantam Major team at 4 p.m. at Westland Arena. The games will continue next Monday, when the Soviets will challenge Little Caesars Bantam Major at 8 p.m.
The game with the Westland All-Stars Fun Skate Team has been scheduled for 9 p.m. Thursday, March 28.

DO YOU KNOW an outstanding youth between the ages of 14 and 22? If so, you're invited to contact U.S. Rep.
William Ford's Medal of Merit for Outstanding Youth Committee before today's deadline passes. The youngster does not necessarily have to have outstanding academic standing, but should be in some way helpful to the community. To nominate a youngster, please call 722-1411.
Nominees must be legal residents of the 14th Congressional District, which includes Westland.

Trendy show their colors with temporary tattoos

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Forget your fears of dusty, backroom tattoo parlors.

Tattoos are in, and they're painless.

Hip, trendy, flashy, they're showing up on models in magazines such as Cosmopolitan and Seventeen.
Even Geraldo Rivera has caught on.

Teens in malls, schools, dance clubs and video arcades are sporting them. They've even been seen in corporate offices.

They're in Westland, too.

Why the sudden interest in tattoos?

It's easy. The newest fad — temporary tattoos — lets you put them on yourself and remove them whenever you want.

Men and women alike have begun decorating their bodies with these tattoos. And more than a few teens have played pranks that caused premature aging in parents.

"It seems to be a real fad that hasn't reached its peak yet," said Al Victor, who sells the tattoos at Victor Music Studio, 2146 S. Wayne Road, Westland. "People have even used them to cover up real tattoos."

They remind Michelle Audet, 22, of those lick-and-stick tattoos of childhood. But they're much more elaborate and colorful, and they remain on the skin for several days.

"I THINK they're neat," said Audet, first runner-up in the Miss Westland Summer Festival
pageant last year.

They're also affordable. Prices at Victor's range from $2.75 to $24.50.

These tattoos use a special ink printed on a thin sheet of backing paper. And the directions are simple.

City fireman takes heat for eviction theft

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Westland fire battalion chief Paul Bush, accused of taking personal property from an apartment tenant he helped evict, received a six-month suspension Friday from a civil service commission that blamed him for unethical behavior.

The three-member panel also demoted Bush from battalion chief to driver engineer — a two-rank drop that means pay cut of nearly 12 percent.

Though Mayor Robert Thomas said Friday he thought Bush should be fired, he added that he's "satisfied" with the decision, which came three weeks after the commission concluded a series of hearings in Bush's case.

"At least this is more than just a slap on the hand, and others will take heed," Thomas said. "Maybe I would like to have seen a stronger message, but we can't always get what we want."

Neither Bush nor his Livonia attorney, James V. Fowler, could be reached for comment Friday.

BUSH AND firefighter Mark Wilhite were fired Oct. 3 after they were accused of taking personal property belonging to tenant Elaine Bolz during a June 22 eviction from the Hawthorne Club Apartments, on Merriman between Ann Arbor Trail and Warren roads.

Bush was acting as a bailiff for Westland's 18th District Court during the eviction.

'At least this is more than just a slap on the hand, and others will take heed.'

— Mayor Robert Thomas

A hearing scheduled Monday for Wilhite has been postponed at his attorney's request.

In its ruling on the Bush case, the civil service commission found that Bush's firing was "inappropriate" because of his 20-year tenure with the fire department and statements made on his behalf by department employees.

The six-month suspension, retroactive to Oct. 26, will allow Bush to return to work on April 26 without loss of seniority or pension benefits.
However, he will receive no pay for the time off.

Both firefighters and their union had sought job reinstatement with back pay.

Fire Chief Larry Lane, when asked whether he considered the ruling fair, said, "I really have no comment on that at all."

Bush's demotion will result in his annual base salary dropping from $40,323 to $35,545.

IN ITS nine-page decision, the civil service panel found that a television and typewriter belonging to Bolz were in Bush's van, partially

Trial ordered in fatal crash

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A Romulus woman accused of causing a head-on collision that killed two teenagers in Westland has been ordered to stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court on two counts of manslaughter.

The ruling came Monday as Alita
Bell, 21, appeared before Westland District Court Judge Thomas G.
Smith for a preliminary examination stemming from the deaths of Amy Lynn Alexander, 18, of Westland, and Frances Carol Roehl, 19, of Waterford.

Testimony indicated Bell had been drinking beer and driving at 79 miles per hour when she crossed the center line and slammed headlong into the other vehicle at 2:20 p.m. Aug. 8 on Hines Drive near Merriman.

Bell, who is pregnant, remains free on a $5,000 personal bond. She declined to comment on Smith's decision and began weeping as she left the courthouse with relatives Monday morning.

Bell's attorney, David Blake, said she would plead not guilty April 4 during an arraignment scheduled in Recorder's Court.

The victims' mothers, carrying framed pictures of their daughters, hugged one another outside the courtroom.

"THANK GOD," Virginia Roehl,
Frances' mother, said of Smith's ruling. Then, in a teary outburst, she pointed to her daughter's photograph and said, "This is my girl. This is my baby. This is the one that was killed."

Linda Alexander, Amy's mother, appeared more calm.

"This is what I hoped for," she said, after Bell's case was bound over to Recorder's Court.

The dramatic conclusion of Monday's hearing followed testimony in which witnesses said Bell had been driving a 1983 Pontiac Firebird be-

State brings home the need for temporary foster parents

More foster parents are needed to temporarily take care of small children.

That was the message from Michigan Department of Social Services officials who held a "Communities Working Together for Children" seminar Wednesday to encourage Wayne County parents to volunteer to house children.

Aileen Gelman, DSS recruitment specialist who helped plan the seminar, said the program was aimed at community leaders who know of the need for foster parents in Wayne and Oakland Counties.

Those leaders include clergymen, block club members, social service agency representatives, and other foster parents.

Gelman said there are currently 600 foster parents in Wayne and Counties with 150 additional children sent to her agency each month.

One foster parent, Linda Slade of Taylor, told the workshop audience of about 60 persons of her experiences four years ago when she took in an 8-month-old infant girl.

"We were told at first that she was normal and cross-eyed," Slade said. "But two months later, she was diagnosed as having cerebral palsy. A doctor at Children's Hospital told us (referring to Slade and her husband, Ed) to 'get rid of her,' meaning that the infant be returned to the agency which provided her for us."

"The doctor also gave the infant about one year to live."

BUT THE Slades, which received a financial state subsidy for the infant's care, didn't accept the doctor's ent tissue paper. Place the tattoo face down on your skin. Holding it in place, dab the backing paper with a washcloth or sponge. Press firmly for 20 seconds. Remove the backing paper, let your skin dry for a minute, then pat it dry.

Voila.
Some fans say the temporary tattoos look better than the real thing. They remain on the skin up to two weeks, and they won't wash off in the shower.

However, if you tire of your tattoo, it's easily removed with baby oil. The perfect fashion accessory, some say.

"They're removable. That's why people really go for them," Victor said.

No longer must you go through life tattooed with the name of someone you long ago stopped loving.

THOUGH VICTOR began selling the tattoos two years ago, their popularity has increased in the last six months. About 60 percent of the buyers are female. A typical customer is 15 to 25 years old.

Victor sells tattoos of hearts, roses, peace signs, eagles, flags, serpents and dragons, among some 100 other designs. He buys the Japanese-made tattoos from an East Coast supplier.

Victor advertises the tattoos in magazines such as Us and Guitar World. Orders have come from as far away as Australia.

Some fans use the tattoos on cars, cups, toys, windows, guitars, baseball bats, refrigerators and other places, where they usually last longer than on the skin.

They not only kept the girl but later decided to adopt her.

The girl, Crystal, is now 5½ and improving.

Although she was initially described as "defective," Crystal improved so much she was picked a United Foundation Torch Drive poster child.

"She's the best she can be," Mrs. Slade said. "God only gives us what we can handle."

"Foster children aren't catchy, they only have problems."

The Slades are on the board of directors of the Michigan Foster and Adoptive Parents Association.

Mrs. Slade urged her audience to recruit foster parents through their churches, school PTA chapters and local businesses.

Another speaker, Guadalupe Lara,

Discussing a seminar to recruit foster parents are Ed Slade, wife Linda Slade (center) and Aileen Gelman, a DSS staffer who helped plan the program. The program was filmed for potential use on suburban cable TV systems.

director of social work services for Children's Hospital, urged potential foster parents to allow the minority children under their care to know of their heritage.

"Don't take the ethnic child from a minority ethnic background and force different cultural values on them," she said.

PART OF the workshop dealt with the proposed budget cuts in human services programs and foster family subsidies by Gov. John Engler.

Mrs. Slade said the proposed 22 percent state cutbacks would mean $250 a month less for providing important medical help for Crystal.

Ed Overstreet, workshop panel moderator and assistant to the executive director of Boysville, said that the "politicians will pay the price" in the human services spending because he projects a "backlash" from persons who will protest the cutbacks.

covered by plastic bags, during the eviction. Bush told onlookers the property had been abandoned.

During his hearing, Bush strongly denied taking any property and said it would be unethical for him to do so.

The commission remembered Bush's statement when it concluded, "Bush engaged in these actions despite the fact that he believed that it would be unethical for him to be involved in the conversion or receipt of this property as a court officer."

The panel wrote that many of Botz's items still are missing, including a microwave oven, two televisions, a videocassette recorder, an antique doll and a stereo speaker.

"Some of this property was converted by Bush despite his belief that such conversion was unethical," the commission ruled.

CITY OFFICIALS met their burden of proof in showing that Bush's actions "were indicative of bad behavior, were extremely discourteous to the public, and were unquestionably dishonest," the decision said.

The commission ruled that "such behavior cannot be tolerated, especially when a supervisory employee of a fire department is responsible for such behavior."

The panel's order was signed by members Charles Copland and Dennis O'Neill. Chairman William Sonnenberg agreed with some findings but dissented, in part, he said, because "I do not feel that the city met its burden of proving that Mr. Bush actually put items into his van or that he knew that the items were placed in the van."

Meanwhile Friday, it was not immediately known when Wilhide's hearing would be rescheduled. Wilhide voluntarily turned over to police some of Botz's property, such as two footlockers, a lawn chair, an air mattress and a bag of bed sheets and blankets, after an investigation began in the case.

Criminal charges against Bush have been dismissed in Wayne County Circuit Court, and Wilhide was acquitted of larceny at the conclusion of a circuit court trial.

longing to 23-year-old Stephen Delossantos of Livonia, whom she had met hours earlier in a Taylor bar and was accompanying to his apartment.

Blake has suggested that Delossantos had been driving, and he said Monday that authorities still have not proved Bell was behind the wheel.

However, testimony indicated Bell had been driving and following the vehicle of 26-year-old Westland resident James Rutkowski, a friend of Delossantos. Under questioning Monday, Rutkowski said Bell passed his car on Hines Drive and briefly fled out of sight, just moments before the crash.

Another witness, Jennifer Warner, who had driven Bell to two bars earlier and shared "two or three" pitchers of beer with her, also said Bell drove Delossantos' car.

BLAKE SUGGESTED that Bell and Delossantos may have switched seats en route to the apartment, while their car wasn't in view of Rutkowski's. In response, Rutkowski said, "If they got out and switched, they were pretty good at it."

Warner testified that "Allie said she was going to drive, and I just remember he (Delossantos) gave the keys to her."

Rutkowski and Thomas Phyllan, a Detroit firefighter who came upon the accident as he drove through Hines Park, said Bell and Delossantos were outside of the vehicle after the accident.

Prosecuting attorney Andrew Telek, conceding the issue of who drove has sparked controversy since the accident occurred, said Monday he expects Bell "will deny it to the end." Telek said it's possible Delossantos will be called to testify during Bell's trial.

When Blake asked Warner if Bell appeared drunk, Warner said, "I can't say whether she was or wasn't."

Rutkowski also said he couldn't say for sure whether Bell was drunk, though he and Warner agreed that Delossantos was extremely intoxicated.

JOSEPH MIRA, a Wayne County sheriff's department accident investigator who examined the crash scene, said tire marks on the road indicated the car Bell was in had been speeding at 79 mph in the 40-mph zone.

Following Monday's testimony, Judge Smith ruled there was sufficient evidence to bind the case over to Recorder's Court for trial on two counts of manslaughter — a decision Blake criticized. Each count carries a penalty of up to 15 years in prison and a $7,500 fine.

"I think he was wrong," Blake said. "I don't think there was sufficient evidence."

Despite testimony that Bell drank several glasses of beer, Blake said the prosecutor "will have a tough time" proving Bell was drunk because no blood alcohol test was performed on her at St. Mary's Hospital, where she was taken after the accident.

At most, Blake said, Bell should be tried on a lesser charge of negligent homicide.

Clown class: Learning art of making 'em laugh

By Greg Kowaleki
staff writer

Stan Tokarz decided he wanted to be a clown, appropriately enough, at the circus.

Nearly 40 years ago Tokarz took his wife and daughter to the circus. While they were watching the action, famed clown, Emmett Kelly came through the audience doing his act of cleaning the rail in front of the seats. "He kept looking at my wife. Then he just sat down on her lap," Tokarz recalled. The happy response convinced Tokarz to be a clown.

"Ever since then, I've been clowning," he said. These days, Stan the Clown, as he is known, sports an orange wig, red Ping-Pong ball-sized nose, huge floppy shoes and a variety of strange and colorful coats.

Tokarz takes his clowning seriously. He is a member of the World Clown Association, Clowns of America and a variety of other groups. He and assistant Caroline Brinkman teach a course on "How to Be a Good Clown" at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland County Community College. The eight-week course costs $50 (plus $10 for makeup and balloons) and will teach you how to "bring happiness to all."

Although Tokarz said he never had a real urge to run away with the circus, and preferred over the years to keep his day job as a carpenter, he has performed with Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey, Franzen Brothers and Royal Hanneford circuses. He has won numerous awards for his act.

Tokarz is not just another Bozo. He understands the philosophy of clowning. He has studied clowning at the Clown Camp at the University of Wisconsin, at Lansing Community College and at Redford High School. "There are three kinds of clowns," he explained. "There are white-face clowns, who wear complete makeup so that no part of the skin shows (Remember Milky the clown?). There are august clowns, who wear partial makeup and there are hobo clowns, like Emmett Kelly."

Tokarz has tried all three styles, and prefers the august style. White face, with its complete makeup, doesn't let him be as expressive as he likes, he said.

Incidentally, not all clown makeup is unique. While some clowns register their designs, Tokarz often varies his style slightly.

Makeup is critical, Tokarz explained. "You have to put on makeup properly. The areas over the eyes and around the mouth are the most important, the most expressible." The final design can be striking but not ghoulish.

But there's more to a clown than just good looks. Tokarz's act combines music, magic, juggling and his specialty — making balloon animals, an art officially called "balloonology," he said. Clowns also have to follow a strict code of conduct. "You never drink or smoke or curse" while in costume, Tokarz said. "You stay on the straight and narrow."

All this helps build the clown's personality.

In fact, successful clowns project a "godlike" image. Godlike in the sense that clowns need to be a step ahead of the audience, especially children.

Tokarz illustrates: "We have kid in the neighborhood who causes a lot of trouble. I can look at him and say 'I know you've been in trouble today.' He always says, 'How did you know?' and I tell him you can't fool a clown. They're like Santa Claus. They know when you've been bad."

Most kids Tokarz entertains aren't bad. Clowning for them is a joy, he said. Tokarz often performs magic and plays the accordion at the Hawthorn Center for handicapped kids.

"There's one 12-year-old boy there who is deaf. He can't hear the music but he comes over and puts his head on the accordion to feel the vibrations. They wanted to pull him off, but I said to leave him alone. It's

Photos by SHERRIE BUZBY

You may have said some of your college instructors were clowns, but it's a guarantee they weren't as good as Stan. At left, Stan says too much makeup hides facial expressions, so he only goes with partial whiteface.

When the makeup is through, Stan slides on large red shoes over a pair of sneakers. Stan's goal is to teach clowning as the serious skill it is. He is a member of the World Clown Association, Clowns of America and a variety of other groups. "How to Be a Good Clown" is offered at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland County Community College.

"When I walk away from a crowd of people and see a lot of smiles, I feel good."

good to get kids into the act."

At the other end of the spectrum, Tokarz performs before his favorite audience: older people. "I'm 66 years old and I feel that people my age need to be entertained," Tokarz visits about 12 nursing homes a month. He especially enjoys playing polkas and other ethnic favorites on his accordion. He tops off his performance by giving big hugs to the ladies, who then get a sticker that proclaims "I hugged a clown."

That kind of fun means Tokarz never has a down day, he said. "As long as I'm making people happy, I'm doing my job."

"When I walk away from a crowd of people and see a lot of smiles, I feel good."

Clowns have an obligation to play the straight and narrow while in costume, Stan says. It helps uphold the image of clowns.

Local women put art to work

By Beverly Melasi
special writer

Two women have combined their talents in a new business aimed at providing an artistic environment for businesses, offices and homes.

The business is owned and run by two Westland women who have an artistic background and name identification in the community.

One is Sandra Weed, a commercial artist and a former Westland Chamber of Commerce executive director. Her partner is Carolyn Neigum, a Westland woman who created Seemore and the Cool Birds, a group of teens that performed its "Say No to Drugs" message in song and dance before youth groups.

Weed, owner of the Dearborn-based Creative Images, designed dresses and painted when not handling her chamber duties.

In the new business, called Images and Illusions, Neigum creates the atmosphere and mood while Weed provides the flavor with artwork.

"There is a definite image set for the working class," Neigum said. "I think it's time to create an image for businesses as well, in their waiting areas as well as throughout their offices or work areas.

"We can help them achieve this through the use of props and first-rate art. We want to do a creative endeavor, not an expensive one."

NEIGUM SAID that people don't decorate like they used to.

"It used to be that once you decorated, you lived with it for many years," she said. "Now, people want to change their minds more often in our fast-moving and ever-changing society."

"We can create an illusion which can be changed any time without spending a lot of money," she added.

"For example, you may want to create an illusion just long enough for a party or just for a day or two."

Weed commented on the usually dull environment in a dentist's or doctor's office.

"The owners spend a great deal to decorate and they aren't going to think about redecorating in three months, six months or five years. We can offer a service of changing the scenery to change the appeal of a room within a limited budget. It gives the customer variety."

FOR EXAMPLE, if the business or professional person caters mostly to children, Weed would decorate the room with small Japanese paintings with brightly colored bugs and beetles, while Neigum would design small things to go along with the theme.

The women's latest project is Verant's Beauty Salon in Plymouth. Owner Traci Hallman-Cilento, who recently relocated to Plymouth, said she "wanted to do something different" to improve the environment in the salon.

Weed and Neigum recommended a dramatic artistic statement for the business based on giving the salon a masculine flavor and earth tone colors.

"We wanted to work with what she had," Neigum said, "but wanted to make it more appealing because the salon caters to both men and women. Traci wanted to appeal to both sexes in her decorating without incurring major expenses."

Weed can be contacted at 274-7040.

Musicians in the Schoolcraft College Community Wind Ensemble performed for the Garden City Fine Art Association's first spring cabaret.

Arts group's spring fling makes successful debut

'Initially, we expected 125 people. We were very happy to have more than 200.'

— Norma McQueen

Norma McQueen, president of an arts association, was nervous the week before the group's first spring cabaret, held Thursday night in Schoolcraft College's Radcliff Center.

"We had sold only nine tables of eight," McQueen said. But with extra publicity, more than 25 tables were filled, with more than 200 people enjoying the concert by the Schoolcraft College Community Wind Ensemble.

"People came from Westland, Livonia, Farmington, Farmington Hills and Dearborn," said McQueen. "Initially we expected 125 people. We were very happy to have more than 200."

The event, held in the center on the Garden City-Westland border, included a display of artists in the association.

Ensemble director Victor Bordo told the audience at the start of the program he had planned a program of "all-American" music written by American composers.

ONE HIGHLIGHT was Bob Sheridan, contractor, association member and an active supporter of the arts, and Stuart Baker, associate dean of centers for Schoolcraft College, donning borrowed firefighters' outfits to sound the bell and siren for "The Midnight Fire Alarm" selection.

Plans are already in the works for next spring's concert.

Making up the wind ensemble are Donna Leffingwell, Bea Schwedler, Anne Bordo, Teresa Gavrilja, Palm Schwartz, Roberta Zald, David Bonamici, James Burgette, Maria Carlson, Lynette David, Betsy Leib-

Feldman, Janice Hawley, Judy Katz, Dorothy Michalek, Alia Newman, John Paul, Lois Swanson, Debra Scales, Matt Chicoine.

Ask The Eye Doctor

Q. What is RETINAL PHOTOGRAPHY and of what importance is it during an eye examination?

A. When the doctor looks in the back of your eye, he or she is looking at the retina. The retina is the nerve layer that lines the back of the eye. It is this nerve layer that sends the "picture" of what we see to the brain. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that we observe any changes to this highly specialized and delicate tissue.

There are certain diseases such as diabetes, hypertension, kidney and heart disease that may affect the retina. Sometimes the first sign of the disease is noted by looking at the retina and its blood vessels.

The purpose of a photograph is to document the present condition of the retina. This enables the doctor to note early changes which would help in detection and treatment of a particular problem.

The photograph is accomplished with the use of a specialized retinal camera utilizing Polaroid film. This procedure, accompanying an examination, is new and not every office performs it. We at Metropolitan Vision Associates feel it is very important and therefore made it a part of our comprehensive examination.

Program aims at neighborhood drug sales

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Drugs are bought by people from even the nicest neighborhoods — but drugs are mostly sold in someone else's backyard.

That's the message from police and the county prosecutor's office after a four month undercover operation designed to crack down on illegal drug sales.

Final figures haven't been totaled, but law enforcement officials say their Campaign PUSH-OFF program indicates illegal drug use is as much a suburban problem as an urban one.

"YOU HEAR that the city is so bad, but one of the reasons Detroit's problems are so bad is that there's a lot of suburban kids who go there to buy drugs," said Robert Spada, campaign coordinator for the county prosecutor's office.

Campaign PUSH-OFF is a sting operation. Undercover police pose as drug dealers, then seize drug buyers' cars.

Though Detroit figures haven't yet been tallied, figures show nearly 30 of the 32 cars seized in Inkster belonged to out-of-towners.

"I'd say it was a mixture (of Detroiters and suburbanites)," Inkster Police Inspector Wilbert Reid said. "The bulk were from the Detroit, but I can recall one from Livonia, one from Redford and a couple from Westland, too."

Overall, an estimated 85 percent of those people who had their cars confiscated lived outside the city where they were caught.

Prosecutor's are touting the program as a quick, effective remedy for drug-plagued neighborhoods.

"This is an efficient, low cost program," chief assistant prosecutor George Ward said. "Plus, you're getting the word out on the street that the next person you buy drugs from could be a police officer."

Eleven police departments have been involved in the campaign thus far, though the county sheriff's department has recorded the bulk of auto seizures. Deputies have confiscated 110 autos to date.

Westland, the lone western Wayne department currently involved in the campaign, has seized 13 cars.

"We don't use it as a sting operation, we've used it more for people who are caught with drugs in the car," said Sgt. Timothy Abramski, supervisor of the department special investigations. "We want people to know that if you're caught in Westland, you could lose your car."

NOT EVERYONE loses their car, however. Of the 181 automobiles confiscated to date, prosecutor's figures show most were returned after owners paid towing and storage fees.

Forty-one others were returned after owners paid a $750 out-of-court fine. More than $30,000 has been paid in fines, prosecutors said.

An additional 27 cars were auctioned, 10 others were repossessed by finance companies.

"We do try to be careful in cases of an innocent owner," Spada said. "We realize that, sometimes, it's the owners kids or friend who might be driving the car that day. But, the thing is, somebody, ultimately, has to pay."

Police are given bogus cocaine to entice buyers. Car seizures occur after buyers agree on price and quantity, Spada said.

The program was unveiled Dec. 1 amid community fanfare. Billboards with the warning, "Behind Your Rock Could Be A Cop," have been posted throughout the Detroit area.

Marshmallow drop set

Twenty thousand marshmallows will descend from the sky 11 a.m. Friday, March 29, during the Great Marshmallow Drop.

The annual Wayne County Parks program will be held at the Nankin Mills Recreation Area, Hines Park.

Youngsters collect marshmallows, then return them for a prize-filled toy egg.

Marshmallows will be dropped from a helicopter circling 200 feet above the park.

Additional information is available by calling parks special activities director Vic Chiasson, 261-1630.

Top chefs to be featured

Five of Michigan's top chefs will prepare meals during the Schoolcraft College Gourmet Club "Dinner of the Year," 7 p.m. Friday, April 12.

Participating chefs are scheduled to include Steve Allen of the Golden Mushroom, Southfield; Ed Janos of Too Chez, Novi; Peter Loren of Opus One, Detroit; Brian Polcyn of Pike Street Restaurant, Pontiac; and Steve Schoepen of The Whitney, Detroit.

Schoolcraft master chefs Jeff Gabriel and Dan Hugelier will assist. Entertainment will be provided. Tickets are $35.

Tickets may be reserved by calling 462-4422. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile Roads, Livonia.

Lawmakers take detour on auto insurance

State lawmakers will try to patch up partisan differences over rising auto insurance rates with an unusual parliamentary maneuver.

"Give the conference committee a chance," Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, pleaded last week.

The full Senate agreed, giving 26-6 approval to what Cruce frankly called a "nothing" bill.

THE PARLIAMENTARY maneuver is that the Senate and House are to pass different versions of an innocuous bill. Typically, leaders appoint a conference committee — three members from each chamber — to iron out differences.

But this conference committee will be different. "We'll have major hearings with the House in conference committee," said Cruce.

He expects to chair it because (1) he's chair of the Senate Commerce Committee which handles insurance legislation and (2) the vehicle bill came from the Senate.

"That's the best way to deal with the process," Cruce told the Senate.

AUTO INSURANCE reform splits Democrats and Republicans more sharply than almost any issue in Lansing.

Democrats hold that auto insurers arbitrarily raise rates, particularly in inner cities. The House Democratic response would be to order rates cut 20 percent — a form of price control.

Republicans want cost controls — lids on the things auto insurance pays for such as health care, tort reform and catastrophic claims.

Rates for catastrophic claims — those of more than $250,000, mainly for head injuries — rates have escalated. They are paid from a non-profit pool headquartered in Livonia. Every vehicle owner paid $3 a year when the law was passed in 1979. Last year the price was $66. This year it's $101.

ALL AREA senators voted for the vehicle bill except Democrats William Faust of Westland and Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills who had excused absences.

Two Democrats — John Kelly of Grosse Pointe and Joe Conroy of Flint — offered amendments ordering a 20 percent rate cut and other regulations. Their amendments were voted down, with only half the Democrats joining them.

points of view

New Prohibition era takes hold

PARDON ME IF I get off on tangents like this occasionally. It's just that some of the stuff I read about is so incredible I can't believe it's happening. But it is.

All over the country today, legislatures are studying and often passing "tougher" drunk driving laws. I don't have any generic objection to this movement. Drunk driving is stupid, dangerous and sometimes fatal — usually for the other people involved.

But the good folks down in Topeka, Kan., — the legislators, anyway — have gotten just a little bit carried away with the spirit of the New Prohibition.

The Kansas House of Representatives was considering a bill that would have lowered the amount of alcohol a person must have in his blood to be considered legally drunk. The bill's sponsor, and some other legislators, wanted to lower the blood-alcohol definition of "legally drunk" from 0.10 percent to 0.08 percent.

But after being amended twice during a 45-minute debate, the bill, which passed the House by a vote of 123-0 and has been sent to the Senate, created a new crime, "driving while impaired," for people whose blood alcohol level is between 0.05 percent and 0.10 percent.

In other words, you could be charged under the new law if you drive after drinking, even though you do not meet the legal definition for being drunk.

If found guilty, a person could be fined between $50 and $200 and forced to attend counseling programs — not for being drunk, but for drinking. The ghost of Carry Nation is somewhere, raising her hatchet in a triumphant gesture.

AND OUT IN Utah, one of my personal favorite states, the legislature passed and sent to the governor a bill that makes it illegal for employers to discriminate against smokers, drinkers or overeaters (note the emphasis) if their habits do not interfere with their job performance.

That makes sense to me, but the Utah Bureau of Health Promotion (doesn't that sound something like the "Bureau of Thought Control"?) is urging the governor to veto the bill because it discourages healthy practices and will eventually lead to higher health insurance premiums, even for employers who hire only non-smokers.

Now if the logic there seems a bit discombobulated (the bill wouldn't let employers hire only non-smokers), remember, this is the Nineties — we don't have to make sense if we feel strongly about something.

A similar bill, passed by the New Hampshire Senate, would bar employers from failing or refusing to hire a person who smokes, so long as that person abides by rules governing smoking in the workplace.

Speaking in favor of the bill, one senator said it would be unfair to single out smokers from among the many people whose personal habits — such as overeating or eating too little or dressing inadequately for cold weather — could affect their job performance. But an opposition senator wasn't convinced.

"You can put me in jail," he said. "I'm not hiring anybody who smokes."

WELL, THIS TIME, I'm coming out on the side of the antismoking and health promotion people. Veto those anti-discrimination bills in the interest of health and lower insurance premiums.

And while we're at it, let's pass laws allowing employers to discriminate against anybody whose health problems might raise the company's insurance rates. Get rid of the diabetics, can the epileptics, force out the people with histories of heart ailments or high blood pressure. If cancer runs in your family, get a life, but don't expect to get a job. And if you have a handicap of any kind, hey, there's the door.

Lord knows, if we only hire (and insure) the healthy, insurance rates are bound to go down. After all, sometimes a little discrimination is just good business sense.

The real meaning of Easter

To the editor:

An open letter to Mr. Easter Bunny:
I know that you love children and that they love you. But someone wants me to tell them that He loves them even more.

His name is Jesus — and He wants children everywhere to know Him and to understand what He did for them. This is the real meaning of Easter.

Don't cheer the Gulf War

To the editor:

Thank you for printing the letter of Arlene Victor (Feb. 25 Observer) which eloquently expressed my own views about the Gulf War.

We have killed 85,000 people and destroyed a nation. We paid for this war with a military machine built at the expense of our national solvency and our own education, health care, and even water, roads, and quality of life.

I respect the clearly defined views of those (President Bush and U.S. Rep. Broomfield not among them) who say that conflict was necessary to prevent greater evil.

Like Victor, I feel that the war was a tragically wrong way to deal with the situation.

Now that it is over, it seems that this is a time for sober reflection and healing, not a time for sport-championship type jubilation and exaltation.

War is not something to cheer about.

Senior centers offer companionship

Q. My 82-year-old mother lives in Oak Park. I live out of town and am concerned about her lack of activity. Is there a senior center in the area that offers programs and services to the elderly? She could use the companionship however, she has no transportation.

A. Local senior centers, whose addresses and telephone numbers can be found in the Yellow Pages, offer a variety of activities and programs for older adults. Some do provide transportation and a variety of in-home programs for older adults. In Oak Park the Senior Citizens Recreation and Outreach Center provides a wide choice of services and programs for people 65 and over. Membership in the center is $5 which helps pay for the costs for classes, day trips, supplies, parties and entertainment. Transportation fees are 75 cents a day round trip from your home to the center. Activities include current events, exercise, ceramics, volleyball, creative writing, cards, billiards, walking club, day out-trips, concerts, and intergenerational programs to name a few. The Outreach Department provides chore, home repair, companion program, visitors and service with love and many other personal services. For additional information, call 541-7676, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

on aging

Q. I have read that there will be an increase in the hospital deductible under Part A of Medicare. What will the new figures be?

A. The inpatient hospital deductible, under Part A of Medicare, will increase from $592 to $628 for 1991. The new law states that coinsurance amounts must be proportionate to the deductible. In 1991 the hospital coinsurance amount for the 61st day through the 90th day, of each benefit period, will be $157 daily and the hospital coinsurance amount for each lifetime reserve day used will be $314 per day. In a skilled nursing care facility, for days 21 through 100, the co-insurance for 1991 will be $78.50 a day.

Q. I am 72 and understand that I can get flu shots at a very reasonable cost. Who gives them?

A. The Wayne County and Oakland County health Departments offer flu shots for older adults age 65 and older. The shots are given at the Health Departments offices and at many senior centers. There is a $2 charge for those who are able to pay, if not the shots are free. For additional information call your local senior center or the Wayne County Health Department, 467-3300, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or the Oakland County Health Department, 424-7000, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SEMCOG OKs connector layout

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A regional planning agency has put its stamp of approval on a new state highway to relieve congested Haggerty Road in western Oakland County.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, with one dissenting vote, Thursday approved a layout and specifications for the "connector," making it eligible for federal funding. The state still must perform an environmental impact study.

"The traffic is already there," said Joanne Van Tassel, supervisor of Orion Township in northern Oakland, defending the Haggerty improvement.

SEMCOG also asked for a bike path along the $79 million controlled access road, which will run from the intersection of the I-96, I-696 and I-275 freeways north to Pontiac Trail.

"We can agree (to the bike path)," said William Hartwig, representing the Michigan Department of Transportation at SEMCOG's General Assembly meeting. "We have said we will make right-of-way available."

THE DISSENT came from Gary Sands, a Wayne State University

Agency vote makes plan eligible for federal funding

administrator attending his first SEMCOG meeting.

"I don't believe a solution with a three- or four-fold increase in capacity is in the best interests of the region," Sands said, arguing the highway would lead to more dispersion of population.

"Population doesn't follow roads," replied Van Tassel. The longtime SEMCOG delegate, argued that the city of Detroit's decision to extend water and sewer lines made western Oakland's population growth possible, and the expanded road system merely serves people already there.

Delegates from the seven-county, 140-member assembly shouted their approval.

THE DECISION attends an often bitter, 16-year, environmental squabble over what to do for traffic on Haggerty Road, dividing line between Novi and Farmington Hills, Commerce and West Bloomfield.

In 1976 the state Highway

Commission rejected plans for an M-275 freeway, calling the massive project a danger to fragile wetlands and the headwaters of the Huron and Clinton rivers.

One plan after another was discussed in the following years until MDOT proposed, and SEMCOG accepted, an amendment to the 2005 regional plan called "alternative 4A."

• A six- to eight-lane controlled access boulevard west of existing Haggerty Road. It would connect the freeway intersection and go north to Pontiac Trail, where it would tie into the existing Haggerty.

• A freeway-type interchange at 12 Mile Road.

• Grade-level intersections at 13 Mile, 14 Mile and Maple roads and Pontiac Trail.

• Widening of Pontiac Trail at the north end to five lanes.

• Widening of the mile roads at the intersections to four or six lanes.

As of 1987, two-lane Haggerty was handling 22,000 to 31,000 vehicles a day. Even without improvements — traffic was projected to increase to 29,000 to 37,000 vehicles per day. "Peak hour traffic at intersections would deteriorate to totally unacceptable levels of congestion throughout the entire corridor," said a SEMCOG staff memo.

IN A RELATED report, SEMCOG delegates learned that the region's population hasn't increased in the last 10 years but actually dropped 2 percent — from 4.68 million to 4.59 million.

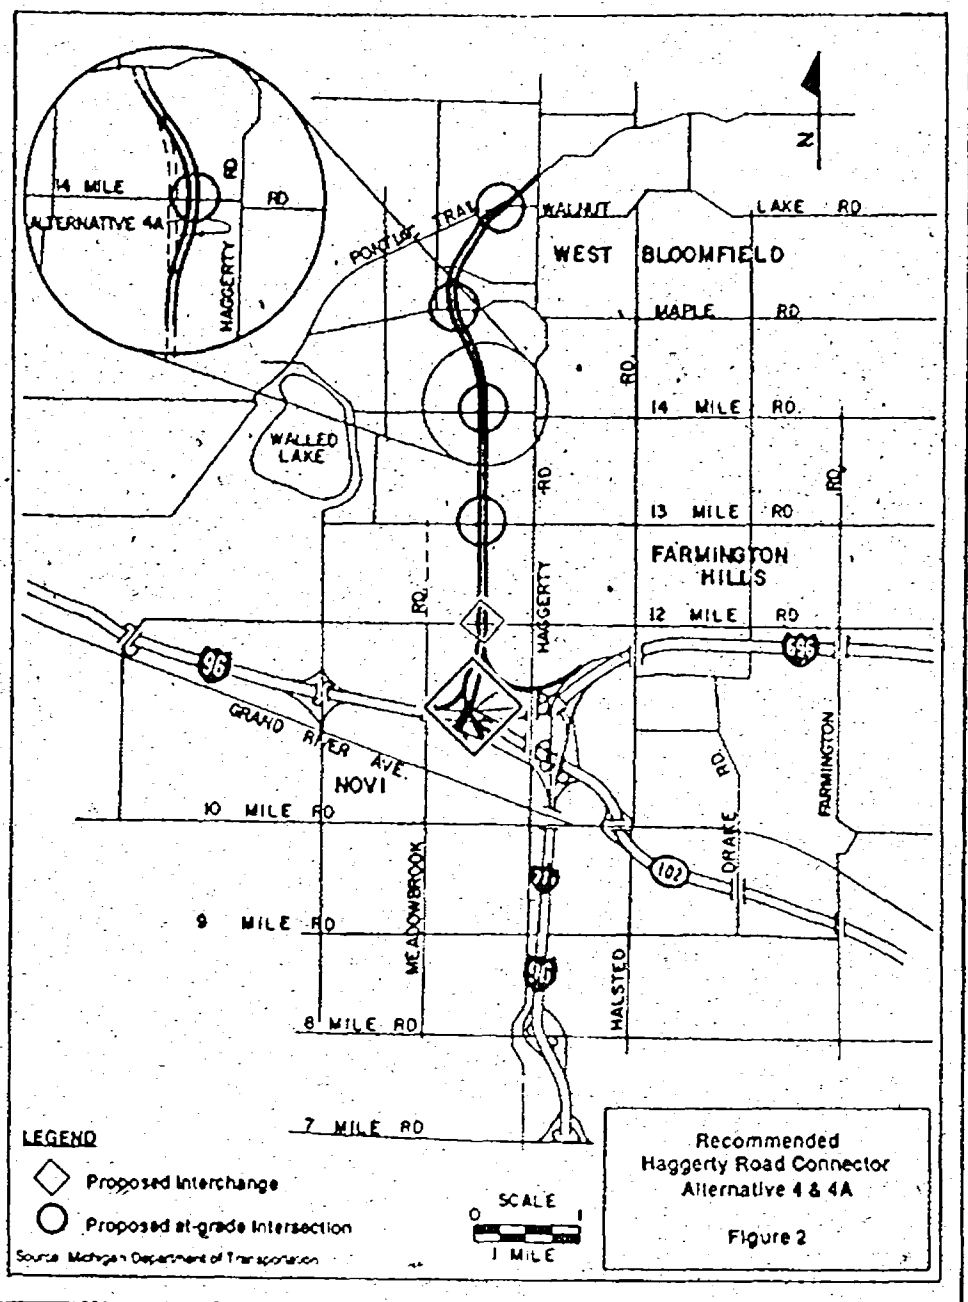

Dennis Ritter, Waterford Township supervisor and chair of SEMCOG's DataCenter Advisory Council, said there has been great population loss in older developed portions of the region with little vacant land and great growth in the outer "wave."

That "wave," he said, showed population growths of 20 percent or more in communities in three general areas:

• The I-96 corridor from Farmington Hills and Novi out to Brighton.

• Five communities around Ann Arbor.

• The M-59 corridor from Rochester Hills across Macomb County.

Life jacket bill pending

Canoeists would be required to wear life preservers under a bill passed by the state House of Representatives.

House Bill 4084 was sponsored by Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti, in response to the death of a boy who had tried to use a floating seat cushion for support.

Canoe renters also would be required to wear their life preservers.

The bill goes to the Senate for action.

Currently, canoeists have the option of wearing life preservers or having federally approved floating seat cushions available for all occupants.

Area representatives supporting the bill were Democrats John Bennett of Redford, Maxine Berman of Southfield, and Wilfred Webb of Hazel Park, and Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia, Michael Bouchard of Birmingham, Barbara Dobb of West Bloomfield, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Gerald Law of Plymouth and Tom Middleton of Lake Orion.

Opposed were Gordon Sparks, R-Troy, and mainly outstate legislators.

Local reps split on prison improvements

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Federal Judge Richard Enslin's ears should have been burning Wednesday as his rulings on Michigan prisons were denounced in the state House of Representatives.

Attorney General Frank Kelley and former Gov. James Blanchard also were criticized for being too quick to agree to a "consent order" requiring another $15 million for better conditions for inmates on top of a previous estimate of $52 million.

"Enslin is running the prisons," said Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, who has three in his western Wayne County district.

"In that consent decree is $540,000 for indoor exercise equipment — a Vic-Tanny style exercise room for Michigan prisoners," said Rep. David Jay, R-Utica.

THE HOUSE barely mustered 58 to 36 support — two votes over a majority — for a bonding resolution Wednesday to increase the authorized cost for improvements at prisons in Jackson, Ionia and Marquette.

The improvements were ordered by Enslin, a Democratic appointee whose court is in Kalamazoo.

The 36 no votes and 16 absences were bipartisan tokens of protest at the judge's ability to order millions in state spending and Blanchard's and Kelley's consent to the orders.

Joining the protest were Law, John Bennett, D-Redford, Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, James Kosteva, D-Canton, Thomas Middleton, R-Ortonville; and Wilfred Webb, D-Hazel Park.

Supporting the resolution were both parties' leaders, including the new Engler administration. Area members voting yes were: Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia; Justine Barnes, D-Westland; Maxine Berman, D-Southfield; Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham; and Gordon Sparks, D-Troy.

Missing the vote were Barbara Dobb, R-West Bloomfield, and William Keith, D-Garden City. Keith's office said he is recovering satisfactorily from a cancer operation.

AMONG PRISON improvements needed this year, according to the state Department of Corrections, are:

• $4.2 million added to the previous $9.5 million already allocated for sanitation, plumbing, lights, ventilation and food service.

• $7.5 million added to the previous $7.8 million for fire safety, including detection and exit systems.

• $460,000 more for medical care.

• $3.1 million, on top of $6 million, to avoid overcrowding. That amount includes the exercise equipment.

• $35,000 on top of $60,000 for law libraries on the prisons.

ENSLIN LAST week ordered the state to begin paying fines of $10,000 a day for failing to make progress on its promise to build a psychiatric prison.

Enslin ordered the state to pay

$5,000 cash a day and place the other $5,000 in a separate account until May 31, when he will decide whether to collect it or forgive it.

A spokesman for Gov. John Engler called the $5,000 decision "a minor victory" but added the administration still is "disappointed."

Enslin found the state nearly two years behind schedule in complying with the 1984 consent decree.

Residents in Pottersville, Bath Township and Perry — all near Lansing — vehemently opposed being the site of a 400-bed psychiatric facility.

In October, Enslin started fining the state $1,000 a day and now has quintupled the fine.

BONE SCANS IN ARTHRITIS

X-rays are an excellent way to uncover fractures and identify loss of joint space, the hallmark of wear and tear arthritis.

However, deterioration and breakdown occurring on the surface of bone is often missed by x-ray examination. These surface changes often indicate the presence of arthritis, otherwise difficult to identify. Such surface changes can occur in bone cancers, joint infections, in tendinitis, and when bone is deteriorating because of disruption of its blood supply.

Bone scan detects these events that x-ray misses. In a bone scan you receive a small amount of radioactive material into your bloodstream, a dose too minute to cause any body damage. The radioactive material is a substance that avidly seeks out areas of bone inflammation or sites of reparative activity. A picture of the bone area under investigation taken several hours after the injection, will show a darkening on the film where the radioactive material accumulates.

Abnormal scans may be difficult to interpret as activity due to normal healing or minor injury cannot always be distinguished from a serious change. However, a normal scan is reassuring, as it indicates your pain is not the expression of cancer or deep seated infection.

Coupon clipper confesses

Recently, I opened up a press release from a major printing company extolling the virtues of using coupons to help make the tough times easier. The release has 8 pages of coupon-related information, plus a multitude of consumer guides for clipping coupons, all based on the premise that we are in a recession.

This article says people are taking a more conservative approach to spending and cutting back on big-ticket items. Of course, the article goes on to say that consumers can save a lot of money on their grocery bills using coupons.

Heck, I was using coupons when Ronald Reagan was in the White House. Not to steal the line from a famed country western duo but hey folks, "I was doin' coupons when coupons wasn't cool!"

As a matter of fact, last year, Channel 7's "Kelly and Company" did a couponing show, highlighting two women who saved 15 percent on their weekly grocery bill. I did the coupon-cooking segment and said that I consistently save 20-25 percent every week — without trying.

IF I REALLY set my mind to this and do some advanced planning and rebating, I could easily whop off another 10 percent. As you can tell, I hate to plan.

One of the reasons I started using coupons in the first place was that I noticed, while travelling around the country, that most coupons are redeemed at face value. Then I begin hearing about the "supermarket wars" here in Metro Detroit that featured double coupons, allowing you to save even more. The groceries are almost free when you play the triple-coupon game that some stores offer.

I'm not the only one playing this game. According to NCH Promotional Services, couponing is growing. In 1990, consumers saved more than $3.32 billion dollars using coupons.

Ah, but there are few rules that should be followed for optimum results.

It's a proven fact that the amount you save varies depending on how many groceries you buy. At the James Gang house, we spend an average of $100 per week at the grocery store. I consistently save a minimum of $20 using coupons.

THE NATIONAL average is just over $10 in savings per week and that works out, dear readers, to an extra $520 per year in savings. The way I look at it, I save over $1,000 per year using coupons!

Here are a few tips to help you tap into coupons:

- Make a shopping list.
- Organize your coupons to keep track of what you have and their expiration dates.
- Keep track of how much you save each week.
- Look for items on sale, and use coupons for greater savings.
- Use coupons to stock up on items you buy regularly. Everyone uses toilet tissue. Just about every week, there are cents-off coupons in every paper.
- Get the family involved. Use the savings to pay allowances, save for a weekend trip or luxury items. What a great learning game for elementary students! What a great way to supplement gas purchases with high schoolers!

Coupons are everywhere. They're in magazines, newspapers, retail circulars, product packaging and even in the mail. For more information, you can get a free informational booklet called "Clipping Sense" by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Valassis Inserts, c/o PIR, 36111 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

You can eat the contents of these Easter baskets — and the baskets, too. Milk chocolate basket, caramelized sugar basket and smoked salmon cheesecake basket are all easy to make.

Easter baskets to make, eat

By Larry James
special writer

'Tis the season to start thinking about making Easter baskets.

Anyone can head out to the mall with checkbook or charge card in hand and purchase ready-made baskets in everything from plastic to wicker or from silver to crystal. Today's cook with taste, however, might use those as a last resort, thinking instead, more creatively, by experimenting with an edible Easter basket.

Instead of a $2 woven plastic creation, two bucks worth of milk chocolate and an afternoon in the kitchen could create an elegant edible basket that would wow the fur off the Easter Bunny himself. If a decadent chocolate creation sounds too fattening, consider a smoked salmon cheesecake basket filled with faux-eggs molded from assorted cheeseballs and topped with a blanched green bean handle.

If there are budgetary constraints, you might prefer a carmel-ized sugar basket whose total cash outlay wouldn't exceed 99 cents.

These are just three ideas a creative cook can whip up in the kitchen with minimal fuss. The best part about it, you don't necessarily need a degree in culinary arts or, for that matter, a kitchen to rival that of Jacques Pepin's. But there are a few necessities to make the job easier.

LET'S START with the woven chocolate basket. A true connoisseur wouldn't work with anything less than imported chocolate. Chocolate for molding, such as the tiny disks available at most gourmet shops and bulk food stores, would do nicely but, then again, a pound and a half of chocolate chips would suffice.

A base made from a nine-inch chocolate frosted cake would work but so would a nine-inch Styrofoam disk dipped in chocolate. One base would take 40 minutes to make, the other four.

Just make sure the chocolate is melted gently and not scorched. An aluminum cookie sheet, scoured with a non-soaped scouring pad, and a spatula is all the equipment needed (The cookie sheet needs to be abrasive to hold the chocolate). Dip a few peppermint sticks or pretzel rods in the chocolate, insert around the perimeter of the cake, and all that's left is weaving the chocolate. Sounds too easy? It is.

The hardest part of making an edible chocolate basket is spreading the melted chocolate on the cookie sheet, allowing it to cool slightly, then cutting the chocolate into one-inch-wide, 12-inch-long strips. Chill to set and voila! One totally edible chocolate basket that can be filled with fresh fruit, bonbons, truffles, chocolate eggs or whatever the cook desires.

The edible cheesecake basket is a take-off on a savory cheesecake (herbs and cream cheese) mixed with a few eggs and smoked salmon. A graham cracker crust is the base, and if you can make a cheesecake, the decorated eggs would be a cinch. Yours truly got the idea to take small plastic eggs, spray them with a non-stick agent (such as Pam) and fill them with a mixture of herbed cheeses.

EVERYONE HAS a favorite cheese ball recipe. Instead of shaping them into balls, I molded them into eggs, then rolled them in paprika or parsley or chopped nuts. Fill in the bare spots with some fresh sprouts instead of plastic grass, and even without the steamed green beans held together with toothpicks, you can make a centerpiece that will not only whet an appetite but be stunning as well.

Our final edible basket was derived from a favorite recipe gleaned from Rose Levy Beranbaum's "Cake Bible." A calorie-laden torte was encased in a cage of spun sugar. First attempts at making a spun-sugar edible basket proved disastrous. While inverting the spun sugar cage, it was evident that the cage proved far too delicate to even think about filling it with Easter basket goodies.

A second attempt had us turning our heads a moment, only to find the boiled sugar had turned to a blackened amber (Caution: sugar, when heated to these temperatures, cooks fast). A third attempt (remember now, this recipe only cost 99 cents for the sugar) had us literally slapping ourselves on the back. After the sugar was boiled to a desired temperature and then allowed to cool until slightly thickened, the drizzling over the back of a parchment-paper-encrusted bowl not only produced a gorgeous amber hue but, when unmolded, proved to be dainty, sophisticated and definitely one of the prettiest baskets.

One word of caution though as we learned in the photographer's studio, this basket was also the most fragile and should be treated with much respect to avoid breaking it. Figure about 30 minutes to make this beauty.

Desserts for Passover are in the holiday spirit

By Anne R. Lehman
special writer

Jews around the world will sit at their dinner tables Friday and participate in the traditional holiday meal called a Seder.

Rich with symbolism, the Seder includes an assortment of foods, many of which are meant to recall the liberation of the Jewish people from Egyptian slavery. Matzoh, unleavened bread, is central to the ceremonial meal and recalls the haste with which the Jews left their oppressors. They simply did not have time to let their bread rise before their exodus.

Those who partake in a Seder are expected to eat at least one and a half sheets of matzoh, drink four cups of wine and eat a meal to boot. One might question why a dessert is necessary, but for many a holiday meal is simply not complete without it. Hence, traditional desserts like macaroons, sponge and nut cakes have evolved.

The most important thing in preparing any food for Passover, says Chaya Sara Silberberg of Congregation Bais Chabad of West Bloomfield, is that all ingredients are not only kosher but Kosher for Passover. For example, a kosher vegetable oil may seem reasonable to use, yet many oils are derived from grains, such as corn, which are prohibited during the eight-day holiday.

LIKE MANY Passover foods, desserts usually begin with eggs. Because flour and leavening agents cannot be used, potato starch, matzoh meal (ground matzoh) and other binding elements are used. Nuts, coconut, dried fruits and chocolates are some of the more commonly used dessert ingredients, but with the availability of more KP products than ever before, the possibilities for unique desserts are endless.

The Silberbergs, like many Chasidic Jews, use few commercially manufactured products, even though they are KP. For example, they do not use matzoh or cake meals, Passover staples in most Jewish homes. Silberberg explains that the custom is to be as strictly observant as possible. "It's the one time of year that it's okay to be totally fanatic," she says.

Additionally, she keeps things as simple as possible. "Technically there is nothing wrong with making bagels out of reliable KP products," Silberberg said, "but for me, the spirit of the holiday would be lost." Does this mean no desserts for her family during Passover?

"Our desserts are simple," she says, enumerating such sweet options as fruit compotes, sorbets, ice creams and her self-created No-Potato-Starch Nut Cake.

In recent years, Andrea and Allen Stawis and their four children of West Bloomfield have hosted more than 25 people in their home on each of the two Seder nights. Preparation for the holiday begins weeks before in the form of cleaning and replacing kitchen wares.

"COOKING IS actually the easy part," Stawis says laughingly. Along with her mother and mother-in-law, she begins cooking a few days before the holiday. "I really have no choice," she says. "When you cook for a large crowd you have to get a head start." Consequently, she tries to prepare desserts which freeze well, such as her chocolatlissimo.

The interesting thing about this dessert, she points out, is that besides satisfying chocolate lovers, the recipe doesn't include anything which obviously violates the dietary laws of Passover. "People don't realize that making this dessert for Passover is different from making it the rest of the year. Even though there is no flour, all of the ingredients including the coffee come out of new packages marked Kosher for Passover. The dessert reminds you that in every aspect Passover is different from the rest of the year," she says.

Chicken and rice dish fits a complicated life

Although this is primarily a cooking column, devoted to the dispensing of family-tested dinners, there are times when a winner dinner winner shares experiences with me that I mentally file away under the category of Recipes for Life.

This week's Winner Dinner Winner, Elaine Hersh of West Bloomfield, recently retired after working 31 1/2 years as a reading specialist. The dictionary defines the word "retirement" as a time of withdrawing or going away to a place of abode, shelter or seclusion.

But this week's Winner Dinner Winner, Elaine Hersh, has tossed that stuffy old definition out the window and has come up with her own recipe for retirement that includes ingredients like exploration, study, volunteer work and fun. She is bursting forth, doing all the things she never had time to do during the many years she worked.

Because of their work schedules, Hersh and her husband had never been away for more than a week a year during their marriage. Last summer, they pulled out an Atlas and made a list of all the places they wanted to visit. They took off in August, heading west, and were gone for six weeks, visiting many National Parks and traveling more than 8,500 miles.

NOW PLANNING to do some volunteer work and help out at a nearby elementary school, she is also looking forward to learning sign language and Spanish as well as folk dancing.

As for cooking, her requirement that recipes be fast, easy and uncomplicated is exactly the same as it used to be when she was raising her four children and working first part time and then full time. The recipes she submitted for Sherry Chicken and Rice, Zucchini Parmesan, Cranberry Jell-O and "Hello Dolly" Cake fit the bill and will surely be well-received by you and your family.

Thank you, Elaine Hersh, for sharing your delicious recipes with us and congratulations on being this family-tested winner dinner week's Winner Dinner Winner. All the best to you and your family and I wish you much happiness in your retirement.

And speaking of retirement, I might have to take an early one if more winner dinners aren't sent in. Actually, I'm just kidding; however, it would be most appreciated if more of you could take a few minutes to join your family's favorite menu and recipes down. I am especially looking for good stir fry and/or hearty healthy dinners.

Recipes

SHERRY CHICKEN AND RICE

Quick and easy, this dish can be assembled in minutes and be ready to be served in less than an hour. As a point of interest, Campbell's Soup has come out with a low-sodium version of their Cream of Mushroom soup. This recipe serves four.

- 1 1/4 cup raw rice
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup, 10 3/4 ounce size
- 1 can cream of chicken soup, 10 3/4 ounce size
- 4-6 chicken breasts, boned and skinned
- 1/4 cup sherry

Place the rice on the bottom of a 9x13 baking dish. Mix the soups and sherry together and spread over the rice, keeping a small amount out for the topping. Place the chicken in one layer on top of the rice and soup. Spread the rest of the soup mixture over the chicken. Garnish with Parmesan cheese and slivered almonds and bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes.

or

Place, covered, in a microwave oven for about 20 minutes and cook on high. Remove the cover and sprinkle Parmesan cheese and slivered almonds on the top. Continue microwaving for about 10 minutes longer.

ZUCCHINI PARMESAN

- 1-2 onions, sliced
- 4 zucchini, sliced
- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Microwave the sliced onions until soft. Add the zucchini that have been washed and sliced. Cook together in a microwave for a few more minutes. Add the grated Parmesan cheese and the pepper. Toss lightly to coat well. This recipe serves four.

or

Combine the ingredients and saute in a tablespoon of butter or margarine until all vegetables are tender.

CRANBERRY JELL-O

- 2 packages low-calorie, red Jell-O, 0.3 ounce-size
- 1 can low-calorie whole cranberry sauce, 16-ounce size
- 1 can crushed pineapple, 16-ounce size

In a pretty serving bowl, dissolve the Jell-O in two cups of boiling water. Add 1 cup of pineapple juice that was drained from the can of crushed pineapple. Next, stir in the crushed pineapple and refrigerate until firm.

This recipe serves 10-12 and may be cut in half to serve 4-6.

"HELLO DOLLY" CAKE

You will be glad to have this recipe as it is easy to make and results in the most delicious bar cookies.

- 1/4 pound butter or margarine
- 1 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 1 cup flaked coconut
- 1 cup chocolate chips
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 can sweetened condensed milk, 15-ounce size

Melt the butter or margarine in a 9x9x2 greased pan. Sprinkle in a layer of crumbs, coconut, chocolate chips and nuts. Pour condensed milk over all and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Allow to cool and cut into bar cookies or serve as cake.

Notes

Three-Fruit Haroseth popular for Passover

AP - Throughout the Passover season, some Jewish-American families serve haroseth (huh-ROW-seth) for breakfast, lunch and snacks. Although the recipe for this jam-like confection of fruit, nuts, liquor and spice varies from family to family, all versions are deliciously sweet. Haroseth is usually served on matzo, an unleavened bread. The Passover tradition may be extended by serving haroseth with muffins, bagels, toast or crackers.

THREE-FRUIT HAROSETH

- 1 medium pear, cored and cut up
- 1 medium apple, cored and cut up
- 1 banana, sliced
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts

- 2 tablespoons orange marmalade
- 2 tablespoons brandy
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon

In a blender container or food processor bowl combine pear, apple, banana, walnuts, marmalade, brandy, lemon juice and cinnamon. Cover and blend or process until combined. Cover and chill for up to 2 weeks. Serve with matzo, muffins, bagels, toast or crackers. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Lemon Loaf

A Healthy Heart Recipe

- Grated rind & juice of 1 fresh lemon, separated
- 1/4 c. BIG CHIEF SUGAR
- 1/2 c. polyunsaturated margarine
- 1 c. BIG CHIEF SUGAR

- 4 egg whites or 1/2 c. egg substitute
- 1 1/2 c. flour
- 1/2 c. skim or low fat milk
- 1/2 c. chopped nuts, optional

Preheat oven to 350°. Lightly grease and flour a 9 x 5 x 2 3/4 inch loaf pan.

Combine lemon juice plus 1/4 cup BIG CHIEF SUGAR, stir to blend; set aside. Cream margarine plus 1 cup BIG CHIEF SUGAR. Add egg whites or substitute, one at a time, beating well after each until mixture is light and fluffy. Add grated lemon rind. Combine flour and baking powder. Add alternately with milk to creamed mixture, blend well; stir in nuts if desired. Spread evenly in prepared pan. Bake for one hour. Cool in pan five minutes; remove and cool on a wire rack 15 minutes. Baste warm loaf with lemon and sugar glaze. Cut into 12, 3/4 inch slices.

We're Impressed!

I love this church. It really relates to everything I'm going through. It's great to be on the ground floor of starting a new church.

Homemaker
This is the first place I ever found where I could explore religion for myself. I don't feel uncomfortable.

Legal Aide
The services are really creative. And it's great to be on the ground floor of starting a new church.

Administrative Assistant
This is the first place I ever found where I could explore religion for myself. I don't feel uncomfortable.

Teacher
The first time we visited, we knew we'd found a home. It's a place where we can grow and develop supportive relationships.

Engineer
This place is friendly. And, Gary's messages have real take-home value.

Writer
This is the first place I ever found where I could explore religion for myself. I don't feel uncomfortable.

Making edible Easter baskets

SMOKED SALMON CHEESECAKE EASTER BASKET
 1 cup leeks, chopped
 8 tablespoons butter, divided
 1 1/4 pound cream cheese
 4 egg yolks
 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 1/2 cup heavy cream
 1/4 pound smoked salmon
 1/4 cup Swiss cheese, grated
 1/4 cup walnuts, toasted and chopped
 1/4 cup wheat crackers, crushed (such as Wheat Thins)
 1/4 cup Romano cheese, grated

In a saute pan, saute the leeks with 3 tablespoons butter until tender and transparent. Cool to room temperature. In a food processor, blend the cream cheese, egg yolk, cornstarch and cream until smooth. Cut the smoked salmon into julienne strips. Combine it with the grated Swiss and leeks. Stir into cream cheese mixture.
 Melt remaining butter. In a bowl, combine nuts, cracker crumbs and Romano cheese. Add the melted butter and mix well. Press into the bottom of a springform pan. Carefully fill the pan with the filling. Place springform pan into a roasting pan and add warm water to reach halfway up the sides of the springform. Place in a 300 degree oven for 1 1/2 hours. Turn off the heat and allow to rest in the oven for an additional hour. Meanwhile, make the cheese eggs. Remove the springform pan from the roasting pan. Allow to come to room temperature. Wrap in plastic and, if time allows, chill overnight.

CHEESE EGGS
 1 lemon (juiced, and zest saved)
 8 ounces cream cheese, softened
 3/4 cup blue cheese, crumbled
 3/4 cup cheddar, grated
 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
 Combine lemon juice, 1 teaspoon lemon zest and remaining ingredients. Mix well. Line plastic Easter eggs with plastic wrap. Place mixture in egg, pressing firmly. Chill. When chilled, unmold and roll in paprika, parsley or nuts.
 To assemble basket: Place molded eggs on top and fill in with sprouts. Using toothpicks, make a handle with steamed green beans, if desired.

CHOCOLATE EASTER BASKET
 One 9-inch round cake, prepared and cooled
 2 pounds good-quality dipping chocolate or chocolate chips
 8 peppermint sticks or pretzels

Place the cake on a base or plate for maximum stability. Cover with 1/2 cup melted chocolate. Set aside. Dip peppermint sticks or pretzels in melted chocolate. Chill to set. Insert chocolate sticks around the perimeter of the cake, making support for woven chocolate strips. Cool completely.

Meanwhile, scout an aluminum cookie sheet with steel wool. Wash and set on bed of ice. Using a spatula, spread about 1/4 cup of melted chocolate on the sheet and spread to the thickness of a penny. Allow to set, about 1 minute. Using a sharp knife, cut into strips 1 inch wide and about 12 inches in length. Make at least 10 of these. Set strips on waxed paper. After strips are cut, weave the strips around the chocolate sticks in basket-weave fashion. Alternate starting points and weaving formations. When desired height is reached, chill the basket completely before filling with fruit or chocolate

CARMELIZED EDIBLE EASTER BASKET
 2 cups sugar
 3/4 cup water
 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar

In a heavy saucepan, combine all the ingredients and cook over medium-low heat, stirring constantly, to dissolve the sugar (about 10 minutes). Increase the heat and boil without stirring until a light pale amber (between 350-360 degrees on a candy thermometer or "hard ball" stage).

Remove the pan from heat and set the bottom of the pan in cold water to stop the cooking. Allow to cool for a few minutes or until 240 degrees is reached on the candy thermometer. The caramel will not fall thickly if warmer than 240 degrees.
 Invert a bundt pan and cover it with parchment paper or foil. Spray completely with a release agent (such as Pam) and drizzle the hot caramel over the top, continuing to drizzle the caramel in circles to form a "bowl." Allow to set at room temperature for 1 hour or until completely cooled. Carefully remove from mold.

To clean caramel-encrusted pan: fill pan with water and bring to a boil over high heat. Caramelization will melt and pan can be wiped clean.

Idea taken from "The Cake Bible" by Rose Levy Beranbaum (Morrow and Co., 1988, $25), page 313 recipe for "Caramel for a Cage and Gold Dust."

Passover desserts are in holiday spirit

CHOCOLATISSIMO
 10 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
 1 teaspoon instant coffee, powder
 1 1/4 cup unsalted butter or margarine (room temperature)
 1 1/2 cup sugar
 10 eggs, separated
 1 ounce semi-sweet chocolate grated

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease bottom of 9-inch springform pan. Melt chocolate with coffee in top of double boiler over simmering water. Stir until smooth. Cool.
 Cream butter and sugar in large bowl. Add chocolate mixture and blend well. Add egg yolks, one at a time, and beat at low speed until smooth. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, and fold into batter.

Pour 3/4 of batter into springform pan and bake 50 minutes. Let cake cool (cake will sink in the middle). Spread remaining uncooked batter in well that will form. Cover and chill overnight. Garnish with grated chocolate.

STRAWBERRY MOUSSE
 4 cup strawberries
 2 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 2 egg whites

Beat mashed berries, sugar and lemon juice together. Freeze until almost frozen but not solid. Remove from freezer, beat again slightly and

SOME OF THE BEST MANAGERS IN THE WORLD HAVE DIABETES.

Controlling glucose levels is the management challenge of a lifetime.
 There are blood tests to conduct, exercise routines to plan, and special meals to prepare.
 And for nearly one million Americans with insulin-dependent diabetes, daily injections to administer.
 Not to mention coping with the stress of knowing diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, and blindness.
 For all the work they do, people with diabetes deserve more than a pat on the back. They deserve a cure.

From publishing to winemaking

How does a Midwestern businessman become a top Napa Valley vintner?

John Shafer, a native Michiganiian, was a 23-year veteran in textbook publishing for Scott, Foresman and Co. in Chicago. While doing research in long-range planning for new markets and products, Shafer began to apply his investigative techniques to his personal life. He viewed the wine industry as an investment opportunity and a second career.

In 1972, he pulled up stakes, moved his family to California, and bought a 210-acre wine estate in the foothills of Napa Valley's Stag's Leap palisades along the Silverado Trail.

Lacking grape-growing and winemaking knowledge, Shafer spent the next six years learning to grow chardonnay, cabernet sauvignon and zinfandel. He sold his entire production to neighboring wineries.

IT IS AN old story, but when a grower tastes wine that someone else makes from his grapes, he always thinks he can do it better. In 1978, Shafer produced 1,000 cases of his first cabernet sauvignon.

Winter and early spring are slow times at a winery. Many winemakers find this a convenient time to get into the marketplace. With production levels approaching 20,000 cases per year, John's son and winemaker Doug Shafer travels the country visiting with restaurateurs, retailers and consumers — the people who buy Shafer wines.

This year's travels brought Doug to the Midwest and afforded us an opportunity to taste the wines of Shafer Vineyards with the man who makes them.

"Our style of chardonnay emphasizes fruit," says Shafer. "We strive for rich creamy textures that retain fruit and finish with an elegant richness. Barrel fermentation and aging the wine sur lie in French oak barrels adds complex elements while maintaining elevated fruit."

We concur with Shafer's remarks. The 1989 Shafer Vineyards Napa Valley Chardonnay ($15) emphasizes pineapple and tropical fruit with balanced vanilla oakiness. The length and finish of this wine make it a

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1986 Shafer Vineyards Hillside Select Cabernet Sauvignon ($34) is a gangbuster, give-em-all-you-got wine. Every aspect of this wine is big, except the tannin. Opulent fruit greets the taster and complex, extracted fruit and oak elements combine in a well-focused presentation. The delicious, lengthy, smooth aftertaste lets you know that while this wine tastes great now, it will age handsomely.

good complement for food.

The "in" wine, seducing even white wine drinkers, is merlot. Shafer Merlot captures the lush, vibrant fruit of the varietal. "It's the hottest selling wine for us," affirms Shafer. "It's blended with 14 percent cabernet franc, which enhances the raspberry perfume and gives the wine a great front end. To add a little beef and overall structure, it's also blended with eight percent cabernet sauvignon."

THE 1988 Shafer Vineyards Merlot ($19.50) yields blackberry and raspberry fruit aromas and flavors in a supple, soft, smooth flavorful rendition. Paired with a simply prepared Cornish game hen, it makes an elegant presentation.

Showcasing the Stag's Leap District, Shafer produces two distinct styles of cabernet sauvignon. The 1987 Shafer Vineyards Stag's Leap District Cabernet Sauvignon ($20) emphasizes the region's abundant fruit and is a stellar example of the first style.

"The Stag's Leap District offers wines with soft tannins," Shafer comments. "They are approachable early on, but are more masculine than our merlot, with a firmer structure."

Shafer Vineyards Hillside Select from the Stag's Leap District is 100 percent cabernet sauvignon and represents the second style. "I get to play blending with our other cabernet," says Shafer. "The Hillside Select is designed as an in-your-face, slam-dunk cabernet."

Think recycling in the kitchen

Recycling is not a new concept. Generations ago, people recycled flour sacks into shirts or towels, saved string and reused paper wrapping.

Since the kitchen is responsible for the bulk of the excess trash and disposables, it's time to let your conscience be your guide when buying food and products in the supermarket. When you buy something, think how the package or box can be recycled.

The clear plastic or polyethylene bags with holes for ventilation that hold two to five pounds of lemons, apples or oranges can be recycled.

STORE SOCKS or children's sweaters in it, or use it as a car trash bag or to carry a damp swimsuit. The family "fisher person" could use it as a fish creel to hold and submerge small fish in the river or lake.

Expandable net or mesh bags can be used to carry snacks or lunches. Delicate laundry items could be put in mesh bags to use in the washing machine.

In the car, use them to hold road maps, travel games or even a pair of shoes. Air-dry flowers, herbs or onions in these bags. A homemade pot scrubber can even be made from a mesh bag.

Large mesh bags with pull strings can be used to carry school books or library books. Carry them to the beach or pool with swimwear, towels or toys.

At Halloween time, the children could use them for trick or treat bags. Tennis balls, softballs, craft materials, cleaning supplies, dirty laundry, small garden tools and toys are just a few uses for the mesh citrus bags.

Recycle, no matter the use you find for them.

THE BATTLE rages on regarding paper grocery bags or plastic bags in the grocery store.

The best thing to do is to buy a couple of large cloth bags to carry your groceries — they are stronger, anyhow. A cloth bag can be washed and reused without harming the environment.

There are several points to consider when choosing paper or plastic grocery bags.

Paper does break down in the landfill, but very slowly. And paper bags are usually made from virgin paper because recycled paper grocery bags are not as strong and rip easily.

On the other hand, plastic bags (biodegradable) will break down slowly in a landfill but they do take less space. Reuse whatever bag you choose before discarding.

THE MICROWAVE is a great way to help conserve because it uses less energy than a conventional stove.

If you are using a conventional oven, do several dishes at one time. Don't heat it up for one small item.

Try to cook the potatoes, meat and maybe a vegetable casserole all at one time. This conserves time and energy for you and the appliance.

Lois Thieleke

home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

Buy some glass-covered dishes to use in the microwave rather than always using wax paper or plastic wrap. The only inconvenience to you will be having to wash the casserole cover!

LOOK AT the packaging of the food you buy. Buy food in the largest box or a refillable container. Many companies have begun adopting the refill concept to avoid large throw-away items.

Be careful about the amount of disposable dishes you use at home. Save them for picnics and occasional use.

And buy paper plates instead of the plastic-covered or foam type, which do not break down easily.

BUY FRUITS and vegetables that you select off the counter rather than prepackaged.

There is really no need for a plastic tray covered with a plastic wrap over fruits and vegetables. Besides, most produce stores longer it is able to breathe in the refrigerator. Keep the packaging simple — less is better.

Plastic or foam egg cartons are unnecessary, unless you're making a craft item. Buy cardboard containers made from recycled materials.

When packing your lunch, buy a plastic sandwich container that can be reused for years.

BIODEGRADABLE IS not necessarily what it seems. Most landfills are designed to keep water out, and under those conditions even biodegradable items will last a long time.

Claims that products are made with recycled materials can mean that they contain anywhere from 1 to 100 percent recycled paper.

Look for a label that specifically states the percent of recycled materials.

The labels "environmentally friendly" and "safe for the environment" that some manufacturers are using have no legal definition and can mean anything.

Read and learn as much as you can regarding recycling of materials.

When everybody does just a little bit to help, our consciences and the environment will be clearer. Make smart and informed choices in the supermarket.

UPSIDE DOWN APPLE CAKE

Apples:
7 or 8 apples, peeled and cored
¼ cup margarine
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
Walnuts
Raisins
Juice of 1 lemon

Batter:
5 eggs, separated
5 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
4 tablespoons potato starch, sifted

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Melt margarine and sugars in deep pan. Arrange apples over sugar. Fill the openings with apples and raisins. Pour the lemon juice over and bake for 30 to 35 minutes until apples are tender.

In large mixing bowl beat the egg yolks and sugar. Add lemon juice and sifted potato starch. In separate bowl beat egg whites until stiff, not dry and fold into egg yolk mixture. Pour the batter over apples and bake an additional 30 minutes. Let cake rest for 10 minutes before turning it upside down on a large cake plate.

NO-POTATO-STARCH NUT CAKE
Two 7-ounce packages ground nuts
9 eggs separated
1 ½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons oil
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat seven egg whites until very stiff. In separate bowl beat 7 yolks plus 2 whole eggs with sugar until very light and bubbles break on the surface. Beat in oil and lemon juice. Fold yolk mixture into whites and gently fold in the nuts. Pour into greased tube pan and bake for 65 minutes.

Open oven door and let cake stand for at least 10 minutes before removing from oven. Let cake cool completely before removing from pan.

COFFEE ICE CREAM

6 eggs separated
Scant ½ cup oil
¾ to ¾ cup sugar

2 teaspoons coffee

Whip egg whites until foamy. Slowly add sugar until you have a stiff meringue. In another bowl slowly add oil while whipping yolks. Stir a dollop of the egg whites into the yolks then fold the yolks into the whites. Dissolve coffee in a few drops of hot water and fold into mixture. Freeze.

All-area squad is lethal on offense

Churchill's Varvari coach of the year

By Brad Emons
staff writer

LETHAL WEAPONS. No, not Mel Gibson or Danny Glover, but the 1990-91 All-Observer hockey team.

This year's squad is pretty potent. State-ranked Redford Catholic Central, a Class A regional finalist with a 15-7-1 overall record, leads the pack with three first-teamers and a pair of second-teamers.

Suburban High School Hockey League champion Livonia Churchill (17-4-1) and city rival Stevenson (11-11-2) each placed three players on the top two teams.

It was an off-year for Livonia Franklin (4-18-1), but the Patriots are also represented.

Churchill coach Rudy Varvari, now in his ninth season, was named Observerland Coach of the Year.

A Dearborn Fordson High graduate, Varvari was a scholarship player from 1977 through 1981 where he played goalie for the Michigan Wolverines.

VARYARI offered a little insight into the Chargers' success this season.

"They had a good attitude about the concept of being a team," he said. "They're just good people. In the 22 games we played, everybody contributed, and to me that was great."

"As you can tell it was a very pleasing year. Just a great bunch of kids."

There are two repeat selections and 10 newcomers on the 1990-91 squad.

Here is a rundown to the area's top players:

FIRST TEAM

Jesse Hubenschmidt, forward, Redford CC: The senior center made second-team All-Area last year (28 goals and 38 assists) and was one of the state's top point-producers this season with 25 goals and 41 assists.

He led the Michigan Metro High School Hockey League this year in scoring with 39 points en route to All-Metro and West Division MVP honors.

The first-team All-Stater had only 20 minutes in penalties and a plus-47 rating. "Jesse is very competitive, he dislikes losing," CC coach Jack Gumbleton said. "He's a very tenacious player who never quits. He's also a team player as the 41 assists show."

Hubenschmidt is also on the Michigan All-Star Team.

Jamie Allen, forward, Churchill: The junior scored 20 goals and added 19 assists for 39 points.

He also excelled at winning face-offs. Allen was second on the team in hits with only 14 penalty minutes. His final rating was a plus-39.

He also made All-League and honorable mention All-State.

"Jamie is an extremely hard worker and a team player, very unselfish," said the Churchill coach.

Chris Rennie, forward, Stevenson: The junior left winger-center finished with 41 points (13 goals and 28 assists).

One of the Spartans' tri-captains, Rennie was a good puck-handler and effective set-up man.

"Chris is a finesse player (eight penalty minutes) and a gentleman," Stevenson coach Paul Ferguson said. "He was one of our sparkplugs and one of our big players, who led our power-play and penalty killing."

Colin Gallagher, defenseman, Churchill: A second-team pick last year, Gallagher was a three-year letterman for the league-leading Chargers.

The senior captain had a plus-51 rating and only 22 minutes in penalties.

"Just a great person, one of the best leaders I've ever had," Varvari said.

Gallagher scored 10 goals and added 23 assists for 33 points.

He is also an excellent student, carrying a 3.5 grade-point average.

The defenseman was also named to the All-League and All-State (Coaches Association) teams. He is also a member of the Michigan All-Star squad.

Matt Surowiec, defenseman, Redford CC: The senior was named best defense-

man and first-team All-West Division in the Metro circuit.

He had two goals and 14 assists with a plus-24 rating. Surowiec had 28 minutes in penalties.

"Matt's all heart and never quits," Gumbleton said. "He gave everything he had. He worked as hard as he could and played beyond his skills. He was a real mainstay."

Surowiec was an honorable mention All-State pick and is a member of the Michigan All-Star squad.

Mike Brusseau, goalie, Redford CC: Only a freshman, Brusseau had an impressive goals-against average of 2.4 and a save percentage of 90.

The third team All-Metro pick played in all 23 CC games with three shutouts.

"Mike's got ice in his veins, he didn't play like a freshman," Gumbleton said. "He got a lot of plaudits wherever he went and he did everything we asked him to do. One of the hardest workers we had in practice."

SECOND TEAM

Scott Johnson, forward, Stevenson: Tallied 17 goals and added 20 assists for 37 points.

"He made it happen offensively and defensively," Ferguson said. "The thing that sticks out is his toughness. He went into the corners and wasn't afraid to mix it up."

Johnson, an All-Leaguer, had 50 minutes in penalties.

Paul Schloss, forward, Redford CC: The junior left winger started the season slowly, but became one of the area's top scorers with 17 goals and 22 assists for 39 points.

The honorable mention All-Metro pick had a plus-37 rating.

"He has a lot of skills and is just a great skater," Gumbleton said. "He had a good shot from the point on the power-play. It's so quiet you don't hear it. He's a strong, intelligent kid."

Bill Baaki, forward, Redford CC: Ranked only second to Hubenschmidt on the CC team in scoring with 23 goals and 24 assists for 47 points.

The second-team All-Metro pick registered a plus-38 rating with only six penalty minutes.

"He can put the puck in the net," said the CC coach. "He's not as strong as a lot of players, but he plays pretty well for a sophomore."

Tony Dypkowski, defenseman, Churchill: The senior All-Leaguer made the most of his only varsity season with 15 goals and 18 assists for 33 points.

"He played out of position," Varvari said. "He's basically a forward, but he had a very strong year. He was definitely a missing link in our season. It's too bad we only had him one season."

Nick Sata, defenseman, Stevenson: The Spartans' tri-captain scored 10 goals and added 15 assists for 25 points.

A third-year player came around as a senior.

"He was always in the right place at the right time," Ferguson said. "He scored some big goals. He's a hard-nosed, physical player."

The All-Leaguer accumulated 45 minutes in penalties.

Joe Huber, goalie, Franklin: The junior All-Leaguer and Patriot co-MVP stood his ground despite being under siege most of the season.

His goals-against average is only 4.25, but his save percentage was impressive (90.1).

"His (goals-against) stats are misleading because he was facing 50 to 60 shots in some games," Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt said. "He's a flopper, he likes to make the big play. I rate him right behind Danny Murray (former All-Area goaltender from Franklin)."

Academic woes hit Madonna softball team

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

The start of Madonna College's first-ever varsity softball season has been a rocky one.

Three recruits were lost before spring practice began. That was bad enough.

Now, the player expected to be the Lady Crusader's No. 1 pitcher, Kristen Wasil, has been declared academically ineligible.

Wasil, a junior who played two years at Henry Ford Community College after graduating from Garden City HS, was one player Madonna coach Dave Racer was counting on. Her position was one reason; also, she was the only one on the squad with considerable college-level experience.

"I'm really struggling now," said Racer, whose roster has shrunk to 13 players due to the four academic casualties. "But we can't let it get to us. We've got to get through this year."

"This is a first-year program. I knew it was going to be tough. Now, we just have to keep the people we have healthy."

RACER WILL be forced to juggle his lineup even further. Joann Donehay, a freshman from Taylor (Kennedy), will move up to the No. 1 pitching position, with ## college sports

Redford Union graduate Janet Hietala backing her up.

Racer has had a couple of others throwing in, in case they are needed: freshman Holly Brachel, the team's catcher, and sophomore Jill Burt, a third baseman/outfielder.

"I tell you, it's going to look like a Chinese fire drill at times out there," said Racer.

Wasil's problem involved transferrable credits. According to Racer, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' rules specify that a junior college transfer must have completed 48 credits, including 24 in the last two semesters.

WASIL COMPLETED 23 credits in the last two semesters.

Her status wasn't determined until Wednesday. The Crusaders left on their week-long, 10-game trip Saturday evening.

Earlier this season, three other Madonna recruits did not meet NAIA academic criteria and were declared ineligible: Holly Jondro, a freshman from Monroe (St. Mary's), and Oakland CC transfers Kaylee Davis and Alisa Trent.

Jondro was expected to be the team's top pitcher; Wasil stepped in for her.

The Crusaders are facing a 40-game (perhaps more, depending on tournaments) schedule. To be certain, everyone on their 13-player roster will see plenty of action.

All four players who must sit out the season will be able to return next year and play for Madonna, without forfeiting any eligibility.

Local man makes an athlete's experience fun

By Brad Emons
staff writer

CHUCK KLEVIGARD wants to make your experience as an athlete more fun and rewarding.

A licensed and trained social worker at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne for more than 20 years, Klevigard applies many of the principles he uses to help cure his patients and adapts them to the athlete.

"It has taken me 10 years to develop this," said Klevigard, who resides in Dearborn. "Basically I work with the mental and physical abilities and try and pair them up."

A former competitive figure skater who enjoys swimming and tennis in his spare time, Klevigard opened his Northville clinic two months ago (where he is available for consultation on Saturdays and one evening per week).

"This is a relatively new kind of area that's been developed the last five or six years," he said. "At one time we decided to put our efforts into one area such as cancer and heart disease, and now more money has been allocated for the mental health and wellness (field) area."

At Annapolis, Klevigard deals with a variety of trauma patients. Some must overcome head injuries, others suffer from colitis.

"ATHLETES OFTEN can relate to those type of problems," Klevigard said. "Right now I'm exploring, I don't know where this will go. My experience in the hospital area made me explore this."

Klevigard grew up in the Upper Peninsula, where skating and skiing were popular, before moving to Evanston, Ill.

He competed in college as a figure skater while attending the University of Michigan where he holds Master's degrees in social work and public health.

An unusual set of circumstances helped turn Klevigard on to his new endeavor.

"My wife and I are into classical music and we're partners at the Plymouth Skating Club," Klevigard said. "We skated to a series of fox-trots and waltzes by the string orchestra at the Queens Ice Rink in London. It not only appealed to the intellectual process, but it also made the whole experience more fun and enjoyable. It raised our performance level a whole notch."

By fusing the body and mind, Klevigard believes athletes can enhance their performance.

"THE THINKING and feeling functions flip back and forth. The key is to balance it up," Klevigard said.

One of his first clients was a woman golfer whose performance dropped off when she played against her husband and his friends.

"Her game became worse and worse. She felt inferior to her husband and his cronies. She felt intimidated," Klevigard said. "What we discovered is that she dropped her shoulders, so what I did was teach her simple techniques to be more aggressive.

"And I'm happy to say that it worked."

Another client, a competitive cyclist, suffered from leg cramps and fatigue late in his races.

"He'd always wind up in a ditch in pain," Klevigard said. "He'd put a lot of pressure on himself, so we taught him deep breathing exercises. We also streamlined his upper body to take pressure off his legs and feet. We have to remember that each part of the body expresses certain emotions.

"If you get people to think, that's the first step in creating an awareness to balance yourself. Motivation is the key if a person is serious about working. The other key is to have fun."

SPORTS HAS BECOME serious business, particularly in this country. Many use it as recreation and relaxation, but others use it as a springboard to success and status.

"Many play sports to make it big," Klevigard said. "They only see the dollar. That's why it's all the more important to balance the psychological and physical being."

Klevigard, a veteran figure skating judge on the regional level, wants to make his services available to the general public.

"I think it has a potential educational value," he said. "Athletes need it, coaches need it and parents of athletes need it."

Klevigard, however, said his clinic is not for everybody.

"They only need it if they're interested," he said.

Inter-Lodge league gains 1st 300 game

THE SPORT OF BOWLING can have its exciting moments and this is usually brought on by someone getting a string of strikes en route to a 300 game.

Invariably, somebody will notice that a bowler has the first six or seven strikes. It is then that everyone gathers around and starts watching. By the eighth and ninth frame tension begins to build and even the opposition is pulling for that perfect game.

Adjoining lanes become silent in the final frame because nobody wants to distract the bowler and spoil the moment.

As for the bowler, it is a time for nerves to calm down. You wipe the sweat from the palms, knowing that you are just three strikes away from a perfect game.

Some have said that their legs feel like rubber at this moment. Others have felt their whole body tighten up. Even the eyes play tricks on you at this point.

Last Sunday, at Plum Hollow Lanes in Southfield, members of the Inter-Lodge Masonic League witnessed such a moment.

This league has been going for more than 50 years and not once had someone rolled a 300 game.

Lefty Hal Lubin started to put together a string of strikes in the second game. Going into the 10th frame all the boxes had been shaded in.

The first ball in the 10th frame went right into the pocket — strike.

By this time, nobody was breathing aloud and all eyes were on brother Hal.

Here goes the second shot in the 10th frame, looks good! But it was not to be. The ball drove a little bit high in the pocket and left the six and 10 pins.

Hal's final score was 288. Not bad.

That's how it goes sometimes. A little bit of luck here and there can make a big difference.

It's always a thrill for me to watch a fellow bowler attempt a perfect game.

This story could have had a happier ending, but as they say in bowling, there's always next week.

There were some happy endings elsewhere, as Brian Gogolin fired a 300 game at Wonderland Lanes in Livonia. Jerry Sierra and Tom Barnhart did the same at Westland Lanes.

Larry Palac of the Sunday Sleepers League at Westland Bowl rolled a 299 game. He was stopped by a stubborn nine-pin in his final toss.

The 299 and 298 games are awarded with rings, but the 300 ring is the nicest.

If the inserts in this newspaper had been distributed by ADVO, they could have cost about twice as much.

This newspaper is a member of the SPRING suburban network. And advertisers in SPRING pay a flat rate of just $23 per thousand for Free-Standing Inserts (FSIs). By contrast, ADVO's published rates range from $29.25-$92.50. (And The Detroit News and Free Press' published rates range from $40.12-$68.52.)

So what is SPRING?

SPRING (The Suburban

Press RING) is the network of all

50 suburban newspapers

published by the Adams,

Associated, Heritage, Observer &

Eccentric, and Hometown groups.

The SPRING newspaper

network delivers FSI users a single, extremely effective way to reach as many as 728,812 households in Detroit's affluent suburbs, approximately twice as many as you can reach in the daily Free Press, and more than twice the number you can reach in The News.

And you place just one order, deal with one rep, and get one invoice.

All of which is why more and more FSI users are using SPRING. How about you?

UNFORTUNATELY, THE WAY TO A MAN'S HEART REALLY IS THROUGH HIS STOMACH.

While your cooking was supposed to help you win someone's heart, it may also help you destroy it.

Because a diet that's too high in fat may increase the risk of heart disease as well as certain kinds of cancer.

Fortunately, you can help reduce your risk simply by eating a low-fat diet containing lots of fruits and vegetables, whole grain foods, lean meats, fish, poultry and low-fat dairy products.

For a free booklet on how to reduce the fat in your diet, call 1-800-EAT-LEAN.

Don't let yourself be counted among the thousands of people every year who literally eat their hearts out.

Splish Splash!

Catch a wave, ride a curl or soak up some rays in swimsuits that sizzle. H-O-T is the word in swimwear that's meant to make a splash whether you're poolside or on the beach. Neon colors, tropical prints, glitzy lame. This year's fashions are meant to be seen and meant for fun in the sun.

MOVING PICTURES

Dwight Shultz and Sissy Spacek star in Richard Pearce's "The Long Walk Home."

Costner and 'Wolves' set to clean up at the Oscars

Tonight's the night Hollywood struts its stuff, with the annual Oscar Derby stroking some egos and wounding others. Whatever damage is done and whoever sobers up tomorrow to see their dreams realized, viewers tonight can feast their eyes on Hollywood glamour at its glitziest.

And sometimes moments of high drama, good entertainment and touching emotion interrupt the industry's annual self-congratulation party.

This year's show should be pretty classy as, according to my predictions, Kevin Costner and his team will be up there quite often with acceptance speeches for their work on "Dances With Wolves." Nominated for 12 Oscars, recipient of three Golden Globe Awards (best drama, screenplay and director), named best picture by the prestigious National Board of Review and, after four months, more than $125 million at the box office — it all adds up to a considerable accomplishment for Costner.

Particularly since "Dances With Wolves" is the movie they said couldn't be done — and if it were — it would have to be shorter than Costner planned and, even then, it wouldn't make any money.

But Costner stuck to his principles and made a gripping, entertaining western whose sensitive treatment of native Americans engages everyone's sensibilities. The 12 Oscar nominations — and the six or so he'll probably win — testify not only to his class act but to the fact that he made a terrific movie.

WITH A lot less class but considerable attraction for the kids, some animatronic characters created by Jim Henson's Creature Shop — Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles — have become an international cultural phenomenon via movies, television, comic books and T-shirts as well as numerous other secondary merchandising gimmicks that annually total hundreds of millions of dollars in revenue.

Distributed by former Detroit Robert Shaye's New Line Cinema and written by North Farmington High School graduate, Todd Langen, "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles II: The Secret of the Ooze" (PG, 88 minutes) obviously is trading on the title characters' wide-appeal and well-established market with the younger set. Interestingly enough, apparently this episode intentionally was structured with lots of action and very little violence to which parents might object.

In fact, the film isn't all that boring for adults with occasional flashes of humor as counterpoint to the endless acrobatic combat of the turtles. There's also brief flashes of thoughtful commentary from the turtles' mentor, Splinter, a four-foot, philosophical rat. It may not be an accident that Splinter reminds us of Yoda and the Turtles' nemesis, Shredder, looks an awful lot like Darth Vader.

In any event, parents will enjoy "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles II" — not as much as their children — but it won't be a painful parental duty to accompany the kids to see this one.

The time was 1955, the place Montgomery, Ala., and the event was the successful bus boycott, the spark which drew African-Americans together in their struggle for human and constitutional rights so long denied.

"The Long Walk Home" (A, PG, 95 minutes) tells that story through the eyes of young Miriam Thompson (Sissy Spacek) as, years later, she narrates the story of her family: matriarch, Odessa Cotter (Whoopi Goldberg).

Grading the movies

A+	Top marks - sure to please
A	Close behind - excellent
A-	Still in running for top honors
B+	Pretty good stuff, not perfect
B	Good
B-	Good but notable deficiencies
C+	Just a cut above average
C	Mediocre
C-	Not so hot and slipping fast
D+	The very best of the poor stuff
D	Poor
D-	It doesn't get much worse
F	Truly awful
Z	Reserved for the colossally bad
*	No advanced screening

Opening on a typical weekday morning, the film depicts blacks waiting for the buses which most of them relied on to get to work. Few questioned seating restrictions or having to give up seats to whites. Odessa rode the bus to her job in the wealthier, white section where the Thompsons lived. But, through rain and cold, Odessa supported the boycott even though it meant long walks to work every day.

On the other side of the social coin, Miriam, was always aware that, no matter how exceptional Odessa might be, she was black and there was a terrible social gulf. Miriam's husband, Norman (Dwight Shultz), along with many other whites, feared blacks and their struggle for freedom. His anger stimulates Miriam to re-evaluate her own treatment of blacks and she finds courage in Odessa's strength.

The excellent performances (and characters) of Whoopi Goldberg and Sissy Spacek are central to this powerful and captivating film which brings history to life. "The Long Walk Home" teaches an inspirational lesson about human courage that must not be forgotten because there is still a long journey to travel in human relations. (Reviewed by Brian Dunn)

STILL PLAYING:

"Awakenings" (B, PG-13, 121 minutes).

Robin Williams and Robert De Niro as doctor and catatonic patient call to mind too many other films. The doctor's special care and sensitivity lead to temporary recovery but film lacks spark expected from these talented actors.

"Book of Love" (B, PG-13, 90 minutes).

Nostalgic look at high school in the '50s and the problems of adolescence in those "good ole days."

"Cadence" (C+, PG-13, 95 minutes).

Unrealistic, clichéd story about unruly soldier (Charlie Sheen) in the stockade.

"Class Action" (C R, 100 minutes). Father-daughter attorneys, Gene Hackman and Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio, are not a team.

"Dances With Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes).

Kevin Costner's magnificent ode to brotherhood and brutality on America's western frontier during and after the Civil War.

"The Doors" (C, R, 135 minutes).

Oliver Stone's overly long, repetitious story of Jim Morrison and rock musical group, The Doors. Excessive attention to Morrison's drug, booze and sex problems are neither attractive nor entertaining. Doubtful, as well, that it will serve as a cautionary lesson.

"Edward Scissorhands" (C, PG-13, 100 minutes).

Unusual young man with scissors instead of hands shakes up the suburbs after moving in with the Avon lady and her family.

"Ghost" (A, PG-13, 105 minutes). Banker's ghost (Patrick Swayze) hangs around after life to protect loved one (Demi Moore). Spiritualist (Whoopi Goldberg) helps him and this romantic comedy/thriller.

"GoodFellas" (B+, R, 145 minutes).

Martin Scorsese's intense, compelling saga of three mobsters returns after receiving half-dozen Oscar nominations. Despite good acting and fine technical values, the film is to be condemned for glorifying vicious and violent gangsters.

"Guilty by Suspicion" (A, PG-13, 100 minutes).

Robert DeNiro's superb performance energizes this blend of fact and fiction describing the terrible pain anti-communist hysteria inflicted on Hollywood in the '50s.

"The Hard Way" (B, R, 105 minutes).

James Wood as tough cop doing comedy doesn't match Michael J. Fox's excellent spoof of movies and movie people in this entertaining, unusual buddy film.

"He Said, She Said" (B, PG, 110 minutes).

Entertaining story about squabbling TV team (Elizabeth Perkins and Kevin Bacon) with confusing structure detracting from viewing experience.

"Home Alone" (B-, PG, 100 minutes).

"If Looks Could Kill" (C PG-13).

High school student flunks French but winds up living the life of James Bond.

"Kindergarten Cop" (B-, PG-13, 105 minutes).

Richard Grieco is a high school student mistaken for a top undercover agent who winds up in an outrageous European adventure with Gabrielle Anwar in "If Looks Could Kill."

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

Harris brilliant in 'Field'

By John Monaghan
special writer

"It's a field worth fighting for," says Bull McCabe, a gray-bearded Irishman with deep trenches over his eyebrows.

A grizzled survivor of the potato famine, McCabe has tended this lush field as long as he can remember. He's hauled baskets of seaweed over hills to fertilize it, turning it from barren rock into three of the lushest acres in the country.

In Jim Sheridan's "The Field," currently playing at the Maple Theatre, Richard Harris gives the performance of a lifetime as McCabe. The film's deceptively simple story shows the value of land and what lengths some men will go to keep it.

McCabe learns his lesson when the land his family has rented for generations finally goes up for sale. While no man in the county would dare bid against "The Bull," a brash young American (Tom Berenger) arrives in the village and makes it known that he's prepared to top any offer.

"HE WANTS to cover God's green grass over with concrete and it's a mortal sin," McCabe tells the village priest. "I won't let him bury my sweat and blood in concrete."

"The Field" is full of such quotable lines, most delivered by McCabe. Harris plays him as a larger-than-life tragic hero whose many flaws include stubbornness, extreme pride and an unwillingness to break with the often painful past.

McCabe hasn't talked to his wife in some 18 years, probably around the time their eldest son died. He places too much hope on his remaining son, Thyge, (Sean Bean) who, unfortunately, doesn't share his father's love of the land.

John Hurt, best known for his amazing physical transformations in "The Elephant Man" and "1984," plays a devilish little man who both worships and betrays McCabe. Hurt, several teeth blackened out and car-

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

"Take two videos and call me in the morning."

If everyone did so regularly, there would still be a ton of video cassettes left over and catching up on last week's releases would take quite some doing.

Something out of the video-ordinary, Luciano Pavarotti's "The Event" (1990, color, not rated, 88 minutes) appeared March 21. Pavarotti is well-known to opera fans even though his billing as "the world's favorite tenor" may stimulate a few arguments.

Released coincidentally with the PBS telecast of his famous concert with Placido Domingo and Jose Carreras, this tape was recorded live at Italy's Palatrussardi Concert Hall. The concert, before 10,000 enthusiastic fans, celebrated World Cup heroes and includes well-known operatic arias as well as Neapolitan songs.

But that's the exception with the overwhelming portion of video cassette rentals drawn from recent theatrical hits.

Noteworthy recent releases in that category include "Pacific Heights," "Narrow Margin," "King of New York" and "Diving In." And, during this week, look for Gene Wilder in "Funny About Love," Don Johnson in "The Hot Spot" and Susan Sarandon's much-acclaimed performance in "White Palace."

TRADING ON Paul Newman's Broadway performance and Bogart's 1955 film, "Desperate Hours" (color, R, 106 minutes) was remade last year with Mickey Rourke and Anthony Hopkins. It wasn't very successful at the box office but it may interest home viewers, particularly because of the considerable interest Hopkins has generated for his superb performance as Dr. Lector in "Silence of the Lambs."

Indicative of the growing laser disc market, MGM/UA Home Video released "Desperate Hours" simultaneously on laser disc on March 20, the same day the video cassette premiered. You're in for a bargain there since laser is only $24.98 while

Some have put Galaxie 500 on a par with Joy Division in terms of atmospherics and the Feelies in terms of rhythmic quality.

The two-chord odyssey of Galaxie

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

In "All Along the Watchtower," Bob Dylan proclaims all he possesses is "three chords and the truth." The folk singer is doing better than Galaxie 500.

This Boston trio never seems to progress beyond rudimentary two-chord strumming on its highly touted LP "This Is Our Music" (Rough Trade).

And the truth? Galaxie 500 doesn't much have much to say about that, either.

But that's hardly the point. What Dean Wareham can do with only two chords many a band could not perform with an orchestra. In times when excessive guitar noise is at a premium, Galaxie 500 creates moods, evoking melancholia and insular desperation.

Sings a somewhat despondent Wareham on "Fourth of July": "I stayed at home on the Fourth of July, and I pulled the shades so I wouldn't see the sky."

Popular opinion has it Galaxie 500 would be the perfect dinner music, only if stranded on a desert island with a canteen of whiskey and nothing to eat. Does one have to be in a perpetual state of catatonia to appreciate Galaxie 500?

No, says drummer Damon Krukowski. One just needs an open mind.

"YOU JUST have to pay attention," said Krukowski, whose band opens for the Cocteau Twins Friday, March 29, at the Michigan Theatre. "So maybe you shouldn't watch TV while listening to it."

"I think our music is less catatonic than pop music. Pop music has less happening in it. At any moment, you can pick up any instrument or arrangement in our music. There's a lot of surprises, a lot of changes."

The shimmering economy in which Galaxie 500 performs has led the music press to label the band the second coming of the Velvet Underground. Others have put Galaxie 500 on a par with Joy Division in terms of atmospherics and the Feelies in terms of rhythmic quality.

All this would annoy most groups. Galaxie 500 wears such comparisons like badges of honor, sort of reflecting the self-deprecating nature of the band members themselves.

Sure, members acknowledge, the Underground and Joy Division are sources of inspiration. They even accept those comparisons whose music they're not all too familiar with, such as Neil Young.

"He's not someone we've really listened to," Krukowski said. "We just bought a couple of his albums because his name keeps coming up when people write about us. Dean likes him. I'm bored by it, actually."

Some critics have said the same about Galaxie 500, saying the two-chord structure makes the music somewhat monotonous. Such jaundiced observations have been few, however.

KRUKOWSKI DOESN'T see the band deviating from the simplistic approach. Part of that can be attributed to members' rather limited musicianship.

Bassist Naomi Yang, Wareham and Krukowski are self-taught musicians, learning their craft by playing Clash covers in the beginning. The band formed in the Boston area in the fall of 1987.

They've never looked upon their inexperience as a weakness, but rather as a strength.

"I guess it's in the sense you're not jaded by what's easy to play. It makes you hold onto what you can play," Krukowski said.

After knocking, a figure appears and invites the visitor into the garage.

Inside, there is a guy walking around flexing sheet metal. A mistake has been made, we figure.

REVIEWS

I, NAPOLEON — I, Napoleon

Claiming to be the first to bring classical music and deep-seeded rock together as one, I, Napoleon the band and the album languish is that attempt. The attempt does, however, produce a few divergent medieval metal cuts.

Singer/keyboardist Steve Napoleon is the cornerstone of this band. Napoleon formed this present band only after writing most of the songs first, and also after getting a record deal with Geffen.

After coming out to Hollywood, he plucked his present band members from the plentiful L.A. metal scene and the result is "I, Napoleon" the band, and "I, Napoleon" the album.

"Fells like Suicide" is one of the sonorous medieval acoustic cuts on the album. It's good. But the band stresses, that with all the litigation present on this touchy issue, it is not an endorsement for youth to commit suicide. It is instead a song about dealing with those feelings.

"Come Back Soon" is a romping melody, influenced by the movie about Los Angeles called "Valley Girl."

Most of the 12 songs in this compilation are quite different in the subject and musical content. The result gives off something a little different.

Napoleon, formerly of Ottawa, Canada, writes about his hometown in the song "Everytime," where we finally get to hear some of his keyboards talent.

And, OK, I'll admit "Concerto in D Minor" is quite classical, but it's also the shortest song on the album.

The final song called "My Backyard" sounds a lot like Queen. Could it be because Napoleon's only admitted influence outside of classical music is Freddy Mercury?

I, Napoleon, the debut album is not bad. It's worth a listen.

JACK FROST — Jack Frost

Jack Frost is the result of a collaboration between the leaders of two Aussie bands — Steve Kilbey of the Church and Grant McLennan of the Go-Betweens.

The Church has, for the past 10 years or so, been a leader in producing surreal, sort of druggy, psychedelic soundscapes. The Go-Betweens (recently disbanded) made more pop-oriented songs, although they were praised by critics for their intelligent lyrics.

The two players seem a bit awed by the result of their collaboration because it is a rare effort in which both feel that they made completely equal contributions. They both profess not to remember who wrote what, the album was written and recorded in a mere three weeks and the name "Jack Frost" just "popped into" McLennan's head. McLennan has even said that he has trouble differentiating between his own and Kilbey's vocals.

This could all well be true. What is not true is their assertion that their collaboration sounds like neither of their work. Actually the album sounds like an unusual Church album. That could be because of Kilbey's vocals. His distinctive monotone is bound to make anything he sings on sound a bit like a Church song.

The album works well on all levels. If you listen to it purely for musical content, you'll be satisfied. Interesting instruments like oboes, violas and cellos, along with unusual arrangements, make each song sound different enough to keep your attention. Still, throughout the album, there is a generally calm, hushed sound to the songs.

And lyrically? Well, with two wordsmiths like Kilbey and McLennan don't expect any "Yeah, babe" lyrics. The songs tend toward the obtuse and strange, par for the course with these two guys.

For fans of the Go-Betweens or the Church, the album is a must. For others who like their music eerie and understated, check out "Jack Frost." It's a treat.

He's Ruff

But style of humor is smooth

Comedy to Keith Ruff is all about heroes, people he grew up watching on television and in the movies.

The Detroit native recalls with glee as a kid sitting in front of the TV and seeing the gut-busting antics of Tim Conway on "The Carol Burnett Show" or the hilarious routines of Geraldine on "The Flip Wilson Show." He runs down a list of names including Richard Pryor and George Carlin, whom he considers comedic geniuses.

This is a guy whose face even lights up talking about how he went to Pine Knob two years ago to see Jackie Mason, only to have the show canceled by rain.

"I wish I could sit down and meet someone like Richard Pryor," Ruff said. "I would like to ask him questions like, 'who's your favorite basketball team?'"

Hero worship is one thing. Taking up what they do for a living is quite another.

Three years ago, the 1975 graduate of Detroit Western was laid off from his job as a salesman at a retail furniture outlet and turned to a life of stand-up. So far, so good.

Ruff is making the rounds in Midwest comedy clubs and picking up new devotees along the way. And like those whom he idolizes, he's found out one thing about the business: Comedy is rough (as in Ruff).

THE SLOGAN has become his motto. But, in Ruff's case, it bears more truth than a grain of truth.

"Comedy is rough when you drive five or six hours in the snow to get to your gig," Ruff said. "Comedy is rough when you catch a flat and you're 10 minutes late for a show and the owner is (chewing) you out. Those things have happened to me."

Ruff keeps a busy itinerary on the comedy club circuit. Chances are he'll be seen emceeding one night and

'Comedy is rough when you drive five or six hours in the snow to get to your gig. Comedy is rough when you catch a flat and you're 10 minutes late for a show and the owner is (chewing) you out. Those things have happened to me.'

— Keith Ruff comedian

headlining the next.

Whatever the slot, Ruff draws from personal experiences in his act. Things like breaking up with his girlfriend or growing up in a family as the youngest of five brothers are crafted into comedic routines ("Instead saying 'dinner's ready,' my mother chalked up a white line and used a starting pistol.")

Family pet: also find their way into Ruff's act, including a bit on pit bulls in prisons. He used to raise bouviers.

"My comedy is me for 33 years," said Ruff, 33. "My comedy is everything I wanted to say in a joking way since I was 8."

Ruff's debut came at the Comic Cafe where he did a five-minute bit. The audience was less than hospitable.

"They were throwing eggs and to-matos at me," Ruff said. "By the time I left the stage, I had a helluva salad."

ACTUALLY, his bombing served as a catalyst. Ruff became more determined to succeed, working on his stage presence and timing.

Today, Ruff is a veteran. He has no regrets turning from the security of a full-time job to pursue a lifelong dream.

Ruff definitely has stars in his eyes. On an autographed publicity photo, he writes "see you in L.A.," obviously setting his sights beyond the local club scene.

In the meantime, he's content to play to a hometown audience. Ruff appears often at the three Chaplin's clubs as an opening act. Last week, he headlined at Chaplin's in Plymouth.

Stories about growing up in Detroit strike a chord with clubgoers. People like Coleman Young and Bill Bonds are mentioned in his act.

For Ruff, the stories come naturally. They are drawn from someone who has seen the hard realities of growing up in the inner-city, a place where drugs and crime are the norm.

Ruff is proud he did not become a by-product of that environment, adding an anecdote about a childhood friend who did and who's going through drug rehab as a result.

"I remember ... arguing with him when we were kids. I told him, 'You're probably going to be a drug addict when you grow up.' He said, 'What are you going to be funny-man? A comedian?'"

"Here I am."

Keith Ruff appears Wednesday through Saturday, March 27-30, at Joey's Comedy Club & Sports Emporium, 15246 Southfield, Allen Park. For information, call 382-7041.

NEWS YOU CAN USE!

CAN WE HELP YOU?

With five offices, dozens of editors and advertising representatives, various circulation managers and nearly 400 telephone extensions, we'll be the first to admit that sometimes it can be a bit difficult to reach the right person at our newspapers. So we've put this page together to make it easier for you to find the person you're looking for.

Our main telephone numbers have not changed, however now you may call us directly at the numbers listed below or through our main switchboard operator who will transfer you to the correct extension. Fold this page and slip it into your telephone directory. Then, you will have up-to-date information when you need to reach us.

CIRCULATION

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are delivered every Monday and Thursday. To start your subscription or discuss a delivery problem, call:

591-0500 in Wayne County
644-1100 in Oakland
651-7575 in Rochester/Rochester Hills

Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m.

To become a carrier, call

591-0500 in Wayne County or 644-1100 in Oakland County.

ADVERTISING

There are two basic types of advertisements in

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers:

DISPLAY:

These ads are found in the main sections of the paper and are billed at a column-inch rate. We will provide layout, typesetting, and copywriting if you wish, at no additional charge. Photographs and additional artwork are available for a fee.

Our representatives are happy to visit your place of business and discuss a marketing strategy with you, along with information pertaining to deadlines, contract rates, research data, and upcoming special supplements.

Our display telephone numbers are:

644-1100 in Oakland County—FAX 644-1314
591-2300 in Wayne County—FAX 953-2232

CLASSIFIED:

These ads are found in the Classified sections of the papers and are placed in columns under the appropriate classification for the item that is to be bought or sold. They are billed at a line rate. Our Classified telephone lines are open daily from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Friday.

Call:

644-1070 in Oakland County
591-0900 in Wayne County
852-3222 in Rochester/Rochester Hills
953-2232 =FAX

Our computerized classified phone system will route your call to one of our ad takers. We suggest that you jot down what you would like to say before calling and have your Visa or MasterCard ready if you plan to use one of them.

Classified ads are also available in display format for Real Estate and Automotive clients and are billed at an inch rate

Call:
644-1100 in Oakland County—FAX 644-1314
591-2300 in Wayne County—FAX 953-2232

CUSTOMER SERVICE

Questions about advertising billing can be answered Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Call 953-2231.

EDITORIAL

Have you ever wondered who to call when you have a question or comment about what you've read in your hometown newspaper? Perhaps you've wondered how to let us know about news or photo tips?

All news tips should be called to your community editor at the telephone numbers listed in the center column of this page. If you receive no answer, call

The Observer—953-2104 or The Eccentric—644-1101.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editorials are published every Thursday. The lead editorial is written by the community editor. Editorials printed below the lead are written by a member of the editorial department. To reach the community editor, call the number listed. To reach the county editorial staff, call the appropriate number. All letters to the editor must be legibly written and signed. Please restrict letters to 300 words. We reserve the right to condense any letter and may refuse publication.

CLUB AND FASHION SHOW NOTICES:

Notices of club activities appear in the Thursday Suburban Life section. All notices must be written legibly and received by 5:00 p.m. Monday to be included in Thursday's paper. If you have questions, please call the appropriate Suburban Life editor.

STREET SCENE—953-2131

This section, which is written for readers in the 18-35 age range, appears in our Monday paper. It focuses on activities and events throughout Detroit as well as in our 13 community circulation area. For further information, call Sue Mason, 953-2131.

TASTE—953-2105

This is our food section and appears in the Monday paper. Any questions regarding recipes should be directed to Ethel Simmons, food editor.

CREATIVE LIVING

News of the arts appears every Thursday. Notices of gallery shows must be legibly written and submitted by the 5 p.m. Monday deadline. For more information, call the appropriate Creative Living editor.

BUSINESS NEWS—953-2125

The business section is published Thursdays. In addition to the story coverage and columns, the section contains several calendars: Business People covers promotions, internal awards and retirements for anyone living or working in our circulation area. We will print photographs if space permits. Datebook covers upcoming meetings and courses of interest to business people. MarketPlace briefly covers new businesses, new products and other business-related items. Submit items for these in writing by 5 p.m. Monday. For these calendars call Barry Jensen, 953-2125. For all other items call Marilyn Fitchett, 953-2102.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS, ANNIVERSARIES

We publish photographs and announcements of weddings, engagements and major anniversaries of local residents or former local residents. These appear as soon as possible, depending upon available space. Forms for announcing these events are available from any of our local offices, or you may model your announcement on an example you've read in the newspaper. The best reproduction can be made from a 5" x 7" black and white photo, but others are accepted. Please avoid regular or color Polaroid pictures.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Reprints of photographs that appear in the paper are not available. However, if a photograph is used and not needed for our files, it will be made available to the first person calling in. Such photographs will be held in any of our offices for two months, awaiting pickup. To inquire about a photograph, please call the editor who ran the picture i.e.: Sports, Suburban Life, Entertainment, Creative Living, News.

RELIGION

Religious news is published Thursdays. The religion calendar is published on these pages. Calendar deadline is Monday noon. All material must be in writing. For more information call your local suburban life editor.

OBITUARIES

We publish obituaries of local residents and former local residents. Most obituary information is received from area funeral homes. If a local funeral home is not involved, please call the community editor at the appropriate telephone number. All obituaries appear at the discretion of the community editor. Obituaries are printed without charge.

BUILDING SCENE—953-2102

Construction and building news appears every Monday and Thursday. All information related to this subject should be submitted to Marilyn Fitchett, editor, one week prior to publication.

ENTERTAINMENT—953-2105

Entertainment pages appear Thursday and include feature stories, theater and other entertainment reviews, Table Talk restaurant news column, and the UPCOMING calendar, which deadlines each Thursday (for items to appear the following Thursday). Submit all information to Ethel Simmons, entertainment editor.

MOVIE REVIEWS—953-2131

All questions about movie reviews, which appear every Monday in our STREET SCENE section, should be directed to Sue Mason.

Cooling off beneath the waterfall is Dorian Hayes in a Bill Blass white nylon body suit with western-style fringe from the Bobette Shop. Tracey Peters wears a tropical print suit by Rose Marie, also from the Bobette Shop, while Mark Zartarian opts for Fila's no-drip nylon boxer-style trunks from Mr. Alan's Sport

A Simply Sizzling Summer

By Charlene Mitchell
special writer

The robins are back. Baseball season is about to open. Can summer . . . for that matter can hot weather be far behind?

And hot — make that H-O-T — is the word for swimwear this season and rave is the word for the designers who have obviously unleashed their talents to come up with some of the most exciting new looks to grace the beach and poolside in years.

One-piece suits are the rage, with heavy Spandex fabrics to help conceal less than perfect tummies and fannies. Western-style fringes and colorful sequins are also adding a fresh kind of pizzazz to basic tank-style swimsuits.

And in keeping with the mood of the nation, patriotic designs and colors are due out this spring.

"We're expecting some gorgeous red, white and blue suits as well as some with peace symbols," said Anne Frank, buyer for Roz & Sherm. "It's kind of '60s-ish in a way."

Harriet Dunskey, owner of the Bobette Shop in Pontiac is one of many retailers who is glad to see this year's swimsuits are more suited to the average body.

"Most of us aren't built like the models who pose for these suits in fashion magazines," she said. "When my customers try on a swimsuit, they're easily discouraged when they can't find one that is flattering."

Styles for women gracing the racks this season include designer Dewees's hot pink Lycra tank suit with a sequined V-shaped insert and Bill Blass's white nylon V-neck body suit with western-style fringe.

Rose Marie has designed a tropical floral print suit with molded bra, while Moschino lets everyone on the beach know your wearing its grape-colored nylon body suit with red accents, thanks to its wide black-and-white lettering at the waistline.

And for a provocative look, Gideon Oberson has come up with a one-piece gold lame suit with molded cups.

Swimwear for men rarely changes styles except for colors and patterns. This season, the H-O-T look seems to be exotic African motif-style prints and combination solid neon colors with assorted emblems.

Fila, the popular tennis wear manufacturer, has an extensive line of men's boxer-style trunks available at several shops, including Mr. Alan's Sport Connection on the Boardwalk in West Bloomfield.

According to fashion consultant Bluma Seigel, another popular beach/pool look is two-piece suit sets.

"They're really great because the bottoms can be worn as trunks or shorts, along with the matching shirt and nobody really knows that the bottoms are all lined and suitable for the water," she said.

Unlike the past couple of seasons, not many stores are carrying "Jams," the long mid-thigh style swim trunks, and save for those die-hard exhibitionist types, sales of the teeny-weeny style trunks are a thing of the past.

Street Scene's fourth annual swimsuit edition was a collective effort, featuring the work of staff photographer Jerry Zolynsky and writer Charlene Mitchell. The locale — an indoor pool with a manmade waterfall and jacuzzi — was provided by the Robert Hatches of Bloomfield Hills. Swimwear fashions and accessories were by Roz & Sherm of Birmingham, Mr. Alan's Sport Connection of West Bloomfield, Birmingham and Southfield, and the Bobette Shop of Pontiac.

Hairstyles were by Adria Birrell of Ron-Daniel Salon in Farmington Hills, and makeup was by Vicki Johnston of the Tomara Institute DeBeaute, also in Farmington Hills.

Soaking up the heat in the jacuzzi, Kenya Moore wears a nylon body suit from Moschino from Roz & Sherm. Meanwhile, Vickie Johnston lounges poolside in a gold lame one-piece suit by Gideon Oberson, also from Roz & Sherman.

Yvette Goldberg lays out glassy images for one of her cat collages. "People love cats," she said. "All of them have sold."

Artist turns glossy paper into artwork

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

ARTIST YVETTE Goldberg recycles glossy images clipped from magazines, gift wrapping paper, rice paper and finely shredded office paper to create landscapes, abstracts and cat collages.

The Livonia artist's work is part of the exhibit "Illusions in Black and White," along with painter and sculptor Charlie Bird, at The Artists' Gallery in Southfield's Applegate Square through April 16.

At work in her studio, Goldberg lays the glossy magazine shots of cats by the dozen upon a white board. Once she has figured out the basic design for the final work created from recycled materials, she then uses her "trusty old pastry brush dipped in Elmer's glue" to paste the images down.

"I tell my friends don't throw away any kind of paper in the rubbish, save it for me," Goldberg said. "Sometimes I'll just see a photograph, and that's it. Sometimes just a piece of paper will hit me."

Goldberg said she has one lady friend who saves all her doll catalogs for Goldberg.

ALTHOUGH HER works are sometimes done in watercolor, collage is Goldberg's favorite medium and recycled paper, the favored art material.

"I like to do collage, because I feel real free with it," Goldberg said.

Goldberg began taking art classes in 1976 through the now-defunct Bentley High School Adult Education program in Livonia.

"I've been taking VAAL (Visual Arts Association of Livonia) classes since 1978," Goldberg said. "The person who got me started on this was Edee Joppich."

Joppich, a well-known Farmington Hills artist teaches classes at VAAL. For the last 10 years, Joppich has owned and managed the Bay Street Gallery in Northport. In 1978, Joppich received the annually awarded honor at the Farmington Area Arts Commission's Artist-in-Residence.

"Putting on the Ritz" is the title of a white and black abstract collage that took Goldberg 15 hours to complete.

"Black and white pieces sell really well for me," Goldberg said. "People really love black and white."

GOLDBERG CREATED the collage "Putting on the Ritz" using gift wrapping paper, photographs from catalogs and magazines, and

This Yvette Goldberg collage is entitled "In the Still of the Night." To create the black background, she used India ink around stencils of trees. "For foliage, I used the finely shredded paper from our paper shredder at work and silver gauche for the stars." The work sells for $175.

Left: Yvette Goldberg's "Putting on the Ritz" collage is done in black and white images with swirls of gold paint. She "used the swirling splashes of gold paint to give it flow." The work is priced at $250 and is part of the exhibit, "Illusions in Black and White."

Make recycling easier in crowded kitchen

Q: I'm interested in recycling, but there's hardly enough space for one trash can in my kitchen, much less separate holders for different categories of glass, plastics, etc.

A: No doubt the question of how to physically separate recyclables is on the minds of thousands of other people. There's no one single answer to this problem because every situation differs with space available, and preferences of individuals.

Ideally, you would have space available in a broom closet where you could place some of the new divided containers available in the houseware departments of various stores. Without that option, you need a next-best alternative.

Try keeping only two receptacles in your kitchen: one for regular trash and one for well-ripened recyclables.

organizing
Dorothy Lehmkuhl

Then set up divided containers in your garage or other trash holding area, take your kitchen receptacle out periodically and do your separating out there.

Look for open mid-air spaces in your storage areas. Suspend multiple bags from a dowel across your broom closet or from hooks in its ceiling or walls, for instance.

Plus Partners of Dearborn Heights has invented a couple of practical answers to the trash/space dilemma. One, the "Flexybin," attaches to the inside of an undersink cabinet door. It will free-form around your garbage disposal, pipes or other obstructions when the door is closed.

Another item I like is the "Trashanger," a chrome device that also mounts inside an undersink cabinet door. It's specifically designed to hold plastic-handled grocery bags, and will accept standard trash bags, too. These can be bought from DeGiulio Kitchen and Bath showrooms in Dearborn and Livonia.

Making space for one item like an extra trash container sometimes causes a domino effect, requiring other items to be moved or condensed.

Plus Partners co-inventors John and Leticia DeGiulio offer a double-tiered flatware and cutlery slide that will double your drawer storage space.

Made to snug-fit into drawers up to 22 inches wide, it requires only 3 1/2-inch depth and 17 1/4-inch interior drawer length. The top tier slides securely behind the back end of the drawer when it's opened to offer instant accessibility to the lower tier. An alternative model double-tiers a cutting board above a cutlery base.

I'd be interested in hearing of other innovative storage ideas from readers who are dealing with the dilemma of dividing recyclables.

You can obtain a booklet of Dorothy Lehmkuhl's first 52 columns by sending a self-addressed business envelope, with 75 cents postage and a $5 check, to Organizing Techniques, 6165 Worthington, Birmingham 48010. The writer is a time management consultant.

swirling splashes of gold paint.

The abstract work by Goldberg has a nice sense of design with images that include a single white peony, twin white calla lilies, a man's black top hat resting upon a pair of white gloves, and a gentleman in evening clothes complete with white tie, top hat, tails and a jazzy cane in his white gloved hand. Over the glossy images, Goldberg abstractly swirled gold paint.

"I used the gold paint over the collage to give it flow," Goldberg said.

"Putting on the Ritz" is priced at $250.

"The Bluebird's Poppies" is a watercolor by Goldberg, painted during a weeklong painter's retreat with Joppich on Michigan's Leelanau Peninsula. Red Oriental poppies dominate the picture plane, growing wildly in front of a cold gray, wire mesh fence behind Bluebird's restaurant in Leeland. The watercolor is priced at $170.

GOLDBERG, A full-time employee of the United Savings Bank in Farmington Hills, is a member of the Livonia Artists Club, Farmington Art Club and Visual Arts Association of Livonia.

She also is a member of the co-op gallery, The Artists' Gallery, in Southfield, where her work is on exhibit. The Artists' Gallery opened in October.

Co-op artist members number 28. All have work exhibited in the gallery. Watercolors, acrylic and oil paintings, graphics, sculpture, photography, paper art and stained glass can be seen there.

The Artists' Gallery is at 29673 Northwestern Highway in Applegate Square, Southfield. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, Thursdays to 8 p.m.

Engler's tax cut proposal cheers builders

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Gov. John Engler didn't tell representatives of the building industry anything new last week when he spoke at the International Home Flower and Furniture Show — but builders liked what they heard anyway.

Engler told members of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan that two of his initiatives — his plans to cut property taxes and to reorganize the Michigan Department of Natural Resources — will be a boon to the building industry.

"I think we can reconcile economic growth with our other agendas," Engler said.

Owning a home is more than the largest single investment a family is likely to make, he said. "Owning a home is part of the American dream," Engler said.

Purchasing a home says a lot, Engler continues. "It reflects a family's confidence in the future."

When a family buys a home, they are saying they expect that home to give them shelter for years to come and to increase in value.

Buying a home also creates construction jobs, retail jobs and a larger tax base for the community, Engler said.

"We want to encourage citizens to express their confidence in the economic future of this state (by encouraging them to buy homes)," Engler said.

ENGLER NOTED that with sales at their lowest point in a decade, recent months have not been kind to the housing industry. "But there's a lot of optimism that things will improve."

Interest rates are down, foot traffic through home models is increasing and "the national enthusiasm over the conclusion of the war in the Mideast should all spur a growth in home sales," he said.

"There's one thing we can do in Michigan (to help the housing industry) and that's to cut property taxes and cut them now," Engler said, reiterating his promise to reduce property taxes by 20 percent over three years.

Cutting property taxes accomplishes two goals: It puts more money in the hands of buyers by taxing them less and increases the amount of money in the hands of sellers, whose property becomes more valuable.

"Michigan property taxes are the fourth highest in the country and the highest in the Midwest," Engler said.

THE OTHER initiative, reorganizing the DNR, will improve the regulatory climate for the building industry, Engler said he is well aware of the problems a builder faces when he attempts to gain necessary permits.

"To improve the permit process, I've come to the conclusion the Department of Natural Resources, as it is constituted, is simply unworkable," Engler said.

Engler gave no timetable for his plans, but said he intends to split the department in two, separating the environmental protection functions from the wildlife functions.

As things stand now, the department tries to be too many things to too many people — and in so doing, is not enough for anyone, Engler said.

There are not enough staff people or resources to serve the needs of everyone who depends on the department, Engler said, and so things get lost in the bureaucracy.

"We've got to have clearer standards," he said. "You've got to be able to walk into a department and be able to ask what do I have to do to get a permit — and then get an answer."

ROY A. MALY, president of Roy Maly Building Co. and the former builder liaison with Detroit Edison, said nothing Engler said surprised him, but it was nonetheless encouraging.

"He was basically reiterating what he's say he's do." Assuming Engler can overcome political opposition to his goals, cutting property taxes and reorganizing the DNR will help the building industry, Maly said.

"That (political opposition) often happens in politics — you have to be able to roll with the punches," Maly said.

"This is an opportunity for him to come out a winner. He's a capable, good man, and he seems determined — I think he can do it."

Norman Finkelstein, vice president of the Irvine Group in Farmington Hills is encouraged by

Gov. Engler property tax panacea

Engler's commitment to the building industry. "What I liked was his realization of the importance of the building industry to the state."

Finkelstein said that while former Gov. James Blanchard was never anti-building industry, he did little to prevent the housing problem of the past year.

He also said that it's about time something was done about the DNR, which he said has been poorly managed, overburdened and understaffed.

While it's true the DNR grew significantly during the past decade, it did not grow more efficient or effective, he said.

ONE THING Finkelstein said he would have liked to have heard, but did not, was a commitment from Engler to do promote affordable housing in the state.

"I'm not sure if it's possible to do it without federal help or some new thinking, but it is important," he said. More than any other issue, the building industry believes something must be done to insure that housing remains affordable to the majority of people, Finkelstein said.

A lot of what Engler has proposed — lower taxes and a more efficient department of natural resources — goes hand in hand with affordable housing, he said, but more still has to be done in this area.

Samuel Kreis, vice president of construction lending for Comerica Mortgage Corp., said in every recession or depression it has been the building industry that pulled the nation back into economic health.

"It's a definite plus when you have the governor in your corner," Kreis said.

Engler's plans have spurred a sense of optimism in the building industry, Kreis said, adding that he has rarely been as busy. "Walk around at the (Home Flower and Furniture show) and you'll see it everywhere."

"People feel good about what's happening," he said. "I'm confident that we'll have an economy that moves ahead — soon."

Analysts question February rise in housing starts

(AP) — Housing starts rebounded 16.4 percent in February, the first sign of life in that industry in three months and only the second advance in a year, the government said today.

The Commerce Department reported new construction of single- and multi-family houses totaled a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 989,000.

Starts had fallen 12.5 percent to an 850,000 annual rate in January, the lowest level since construction began on 843,000 units in January 1982 in the midst of the last recession.

The February gain was the first since a 10.1-percent advance in November, which itself had been the first increase since a 21.8-percent rise in January 1990.

Still, the number of February starts was down 32.2 percent from the same month last year. And for the first two months of 1991, they were 39.7 percent below the same period of 1990.

Some observers have noted anecdotal evidence that housing activity continued to improve in March.

FOR INSTANCE, the Federal Reserve reported a survey earlier this month showed that, while housing and commercial construction remained slow, eight of its 12 districts reported "an increase in buyer interest and, in some areas, purchases."

It said some builders said they were cautiously optimistic about a recovery for the depressed housing industry this year because of the decline in mortgage rates. Fixed-rate mortgages averaged 9.50 percent last week, according to a survey by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

And the Labor Department said earlier the construction industry added 27,000 new jobs in February, the first increase in months. The industry lost 150,000 jobs in January and about 425,000 since last May.

A recent Commerce Department report also offered a glimmer of hope. It said applications for building permits, often a barometer of future activity, rose 8.5 percent to 865,000 — the first increase in eight months and the steepest gain since a 22.8-percent advance in January 1990.

But analysts cautioned about reading too much into one month's activity.

"While the fundamentals are improving modestly for the housing industry (lower interest rates, increasing housing affordability), the February gain may have been triggered by abnormally mild weather," economists at Mitsubishi Bank in New York wrote in their weekly newsletter.

MITSUBISHI'S Weekly Economic Indicator Report said February was the third warmest February in the National Weather Service's 97 years

Did February's mild weather trigger a modest jump in new housing?

In Michigan, residential construction starts were down 16.6 percent in January. Wayne County suffered a loss of 49 percent from December. Oakland County saw residential starts climbed 42.8 percent for the month.

The February increase was concentrated in the single-family sector, which rose 18.3 percent to a 771,000 annual rate after falling 13.2 percent in January to 652,000 units, the lowest since construction began on 613,000 units in June 1982.

Multi-family starts were up 10.1 percent to 218,000 units, erasing a 10-percent loss in January.

Among the regions, the Midwest posted a huge 77.2-percent gain to 296,000 units, the highest level since a 364,000 rate in January 1990.

In Michigan, residential construction starts were down 16.6 percent in January, the latest figures issued by the Michigan Association of Home Builders. Wayne County suffered a loss of 49 percent from December. Oakland County saw residential starts climbed 42.8 percent for the month.

Starts also were up 7.9 percent to a 384,000 rate in the South.

But both the Northeast and West remained in the doldrums. Starts were down 9.6 percent to 217,000 units in the West, the lowest since a 195,000 rate in August 1982. They fell 0.6 percent to 169,000 units in the Northeast.

Slumping housing market may prevent refinancing

(AP) — While many homeowners rushed to refinance mortgages with lower interest rates this winter, others were left out in the cold, casualties of the soft real estate market.

Once again, the big losers were those who bought when home prices peaked in the late '80s. Not only are they unable to sell now without taking a substantial loss, but they've been denied a chance to become more financially comfortable where they are.

Most banks won't lend out any more than 80 percent to 90 percent of the current appraised value of a home, so when values decline, that makes less money available for refinancing.

"They're in a catch-22 right now. They can't sell because they won't make their money back and they may not be able to refinance because they may not qualify," said John Hickey, senior mortgage underwriter for First Trade Union Savings Bank of Boston, an area hard hit by slumping housing prices.

Hickey and his colleagues have seen growing evidence of this problem nationwide since the start of the year, as more homeowners sought to refinance their old loans to take advantage of a drop in fixed mortgage rates into single-digit territory. The national average for conventional 30-year fixed-rate mortgages fell below 9.5 percent last month, a 4-year low, although rates have risen slightly since then.

BY REFINANCING, homeowners can cut their monthly house payments or rid themselves of fickle adjustable rate mortgages, which reflect prevailing market interest rates. In some cases, homeowners with low mortgages can even refinance beyond their balance and use the excess for other expenses, a procedure known as "cashing out."

Mortgage bankers across the country say there's been a tremendous increase in mortgage activity in recent weeks, with refinancings making up as much as 40 percent of their business. They usually account for around a quarter of mortgage activity, they say.

"Last week was probably our busiest week in two years," said John Battaglia, a vice president at Boston Five Cent Savings Bank.

But Battaglia suspects the rate of refinancings would be even higher had it not been for the tenuous real estate market.

"We're seeing a lot of people calling in and saying, 'I have a $200,000 house that I bought two years ago and I have a mortgage on it for $180,000. I think the house is only worth around $180,000 now. What should I do?'" said Battaglia. "It's tough."

The homeowners described in that scenario were told to stick with their current mortgages because they'd only be eligible to receive around $162,000 in a refinanced loan, or 90 percent of the current value of that home under standard bank guidelines. To refinance they'd have to come up with an additional $18,000 — the difference between what's approximately left on the original mortgage and the new money that would be provided — as well as closing costs and other fees.

Sometimes financial institutions may bend the rules. "Some lenders will refinance their own loans without a new appraisal," usually for their most credit-worthy customers, said Ross M. Strickland, executive vice president at Northeast Savings in Hartford, Conn.

But more than likely the banks would reject such an application.

Jeannette Parten, a vice president at the Pasadena, Calif.-based mortgage lender Countrywide, said less than 5 percent of all applications are rejected because of low housing appraisals because most people know ahead of time what their homes are worth.

Stickland agreed: "I think people are savvy enough. They have a pretty good idea of their values before they apply."

Boards have options in dealing with delinquencies

With the economic slowdown upon us, the number of delinquencies in our condominium project has increased. What is the best way, in your opinion, to collect assessments on a timely basis?

This is a relatively complex question. Suffice it to say that the association has a plethora of remedies available to it in collecting assessments. The most obvious remedy is the imposition of a lien against the unit owned by the co-owner that can result in foreclosure proceedings by the association against the co-owner in question. The association also has the right to pursue a money judgment against the co-owner for assessments due and owing. Additionally, the association may have recourse in the event that the unit is occupied by a renter or is vacant, in which case the association can have a receiver appointed to collect rentals or require that the tenant in possession pay the rentals directly to the association based upon the condominium documents. In short, the association has a number of legal remedies, which it should uniformly, consistently and vigorously enforce through a policy adopted by the board of directors.

Can you briefly review for me the federal tax ramifications regarding the impact of rental income on the subsequent sale of a residence. I have been leasing our condominium and now want to sell it.

Individuals who use their home as a principal residence are entitled to condo queries

Robert M. Melsner

certain tax breaks on the sale. They may qualify to defer tax on any gain for they buy a replacement residence of sufficient cost within certain set time limits. If they are age 55 or older and meet ownership and use requirements, they may elect to avoid tax on up to $125,000 in profit.

If a homeowner moves out of his principal residence and obtains a temporary rental, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has allowed both a loss on the rental as well as the deferral of tax on gain in a case in which a homeowner/resident rented his residence for few months prior to the sale. The temporary rental did not convert the principal residence to a business use because the rental activity was subordinate to the efforts to sell. In general, no loss is allowed on the sale of a principal residence. But if the property is converted to a profit-making purpose, such as rentals, then loss on a sale would be allowed. It should be noted that casual or temporary rental is not sufficient to establish a conversion for personal use. You are best advised to consult with a tax adviser as to your particular tax matters.

I am an attorney on the condominium board. In interviewing various prospective management companies, one of the management companies indicated that it wished to choose the attorney for the association from someone with whom it was working. It also wanted to pick a CPA and insurance consultant. I have tried to explain to the board that I believe that this is not the role of the management company but that of the board. I need some confirmation from you.

As you correctly perceive, it is the association acting through its board of directors that has the responsibility to retain persons or entities to act in behalf of the association. The attorney, the CPA and the insurance consultant work for the association, not the managing agent. They owe their duty of loyalty and responsibility to the association. The managing agent is merely an agent of the association that operates under the authority given to it by the board of directors in behalf of the association. For the management company to suggest that it pick the association's attorney, CPA and insurance agent may be symptomatic of an attitude on the part of the management company that you may wish to avoid in selecting the best possible management company for your association. For the management company to be that presumptuous and fail to recognize that it is the board's role to pick personnel is not a good reflection on the quality and integrity of the management company.
