Defendant waives exam in abduction

Judge dismisses auto theft charge

By Susan Buck staff writer

A Westland man waived his right to a preliminary exam. Tuesday in connection with the knife-point abduction of a woman in the parking lot of a Livonia pet store last month. Glenn David Gawronski, 42, was bound over for trial in Detroit Recorders Court on one count each of kidnapping and armed robbery. Gawronski will be arraigned 8:30 a.m. April 16 in the Frank Murphy

Hall of Justice. He remains in Wayne County Jail, with bond set at $75,000, according to Joseph Mysliwiec, Livonia court administrator. LIVONIA DISTRICT Judge James McCann dismissed the one count of auto theft because it was considered the subject of a robbery. Prosecutor

Andrew Telek moved to dismiss the

Allen L. Schwartz, Gawronski's Farmington Hills-based attorney, declined any comment on the case.

The abducted woman was released unharmed a few blocks awayfrom Fabulous Fins, 39131 Ann Arbor Road, where the abduction began March 6.

Gawronski faces a maximum life sentence if convicted on either the kidnapping or armed robbery

He was arrested March 21 when Northville Township police officers said they observed a man in a woman's car at Rayburn and Maxwell in that community.

THE INCIDENT began when the victim, a 42-year-old Canton Township woman, dropped her son off at the pet store, police said.

Her abductor got into the 1988 Chevrolet through an unlocked passenger door, pressed what appeared to be a kitchen knife to her side, and ordered her to "start your car and start driving fast," police said.

After leaving the parking lot, the man directed her east on Ann Arbor Road, southbound on Newburgh and east on Ann Arbor Trail, the woman told police.

Board critics start planning recall repeat

Two Wayne-Westland school district women who helped lead a successful recall against four school board members in 1982 acknowledged that they are involved in a new effort to oust current board

Rosemary Miller of Wayne and Judy Bailey of Westland indicated Tuesday that they and other school board critics will try to recall board members who have come under increasingly sharp attack in recent

Some 50 school district residents already have responded in the last week to a classified advertisement that appeared in local newspapers, seeking support to recall board members and circulate petitions to oust Superintendent Dennis O'Neill's administration, Miller said.

The early response indicates a potentially strong grassroots movement to oust school officials who have been criticized for slashing school programs and asking for a tax increase to avert a severe budget crunch, amid a backlash over a negotiated contract that gave teachers an 11.9 percent raise over two

"It does look like there are an awful lot of people interested in a recall," Miller said Tuesday.

-Bailey agreed and added, "The people are being taxed to death, and ' there's no accountability." Both Miller and Bailey said it's too early to determine when a recall committee might be officially formed or when the actual recall effort would be launched. Moreover, no decisions have been reached on whether to try to recall some or all of the seven board members.

Explanation demanded: DPS truck fire prompts suspension

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Westland City Councilman Kenneth Mehl has demanded an explanation from Mayor Robert Thomas' administration for a city truck that burned in Ypsilanti Township while the driver, a public services department worker, was supposed to be in Westland.

Mehl also questioned whether the two-day suspension that the driver received for the incident was harsh enough.

Thomas declined to discuss the March 19 incident at length, calling it a "personnel matter." However, he confirmed that the city truck burned while the worker, whom officials. declined to identify, "was not where he was supposed to be."

DPS director Richard Diltmar refused to discuss most details of the incident, although he dld confirm the two-day suspension and said the truck apparently burned when an emissions pump overheated and sparked a fire.

Dittmar and Ernie Keast, the public services department superintendent, plan to prepare a detailed report at Mehl's request.

"I'm not going to comment until I get the report," Dittmar said Tuesday.

Mehl said the truck apparently burned near the Ford Road and M-14 intersection in Ypsilanti Township.

"I HAVE no reason why he (the worker) was there," Mehl said, adding that he believes the council is justified in demanding an explanation from the Thomas administration.

Mehl said he received telephone calls from citizens who knew about the incident even before he had been told about it by city officials. "It makes you look kind of stupid," he said.

."I think somebody owes us an answer." -The incident occurred about a year after some public services department employees were disciplined when the city vehicles they were driving were seen parked outside of Showcase Cinemas on Wayne Road between Warren Road and Hunter during working

Exec pitches to keep Tigers safe at home

By Wayne Penl staff writer

On Monday, the sites and sounds of major league baseball will return to the corner of Michigan and Trumbull, renewing a Detroit tradition that began nearly a century ago.

Sometime that afternoon, each of the more than 50,000 fans in attendance will no doubt scan vast, historic Tige Stadium and wonder to themselves: How much

Mike Duggan, a deputy county executive from Livonla, wonders.

Duggan, point man for Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara on projects from a revenue-raising clgarette tax to county fail bonds, now faces perhaps his biggest challenge — keeping the Tigers in Detroit. Success means convincing skeptical Tigers executives, and maybe county voters, the ballclub must stay.

Even Duggan isn't sure of his chances. There are competing stadium renovation plans from Birmingham and Royal Oak-based architects.

There are also dozens of alternative sites — including Plymouth Township - scattered throughout western Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

BUT WHEN it comes to preventing the Tigers from escaping to the suburbs, Duggan may have the only game in town.

Despite competition from the Tiger Stadium Fan Club, a well-organized citizens group; only the county has thus far been granted anything more than a cursory meeting with Tigers management.

Only the county has the ability to provide the financlal assistance the Tigers may demand. There's a lot at stake.

"It's our belief that if the Tigets leave the city, you can pack it in," Duggan said. "It will esipple redevelopment issues for years to come."

It's not just the city that has a stake in the stadium's future, either.

While not specifically endorsing McNamara's objectives, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governemnts has formally urged the Tigers to stay right where they

"TIGER STADIUM is a development issue, like the other development issues on which we've taken a stand," said Ed Hustoles, SEMCOG deputy executive director. "We'd like to see them stay in Tiger Stadium or, at least, in the city."

"It gets back to infrastructure," said Hustoles, whose group represents communities in seven suburban countles, as well as Detroit. "If you build a new stadium, you're going to have to add roads, sewer and water, while we already have perfectly good facilities that

Oakland and western Wayne county mayors and township supervisors have already magnit clear they don't want a stadium in their communities.

It was McNamara, a Livonia resident, who made Tiger Stadium a county issue.

"We went to the Tigers, they didn't come to us," Duggan said. "We felt the Tigers planned on leaving and we felt we had to do something."

McNamara's priorities are, in order of importance: keeping the Tigers in Detroit, keeping the Tigers in Tiger Stadium, if possible, and keeping the Tigers in

An alternative site hasn't been ruled out. "There are several sites in the city where the Tigers could go," Duggan said. Right now, however, efforts are concentrated on keeping the Tigers at Michigan and Trumbull.

The McNamara plan includes an ambitious effort to tle stadium renovation to redevelopment of Corktown, its historic surrounding neighborhood.

Of two competing architectural plans, McNamara is leaning toward the Birkerts O'Neal plan. The plan combines the talents of Birmingham architect Gunnar Birkerts — the man responsible for the Alfred Noble Library in Livonia and the University of Michigan Law Library in Ann Arbor — and Ann Arbor contractor Joe O'Neal.

The plan calls for an outer shell around the ballpark, including a new shelf upon which would hang a restructured, post-free, upper deck.

"IN MY opinion, it goes a long way toward what the Tigers want," Duggan sald.

Neighborhood redevelopment, possibly using the Reagan "enterprise zone" concept, would add shops, stores and restaurants around the ballpark site.

As McNamara and Duggan envision it, Corktown would become a warm, lively place, as well as a source of jobs for a city that badly needs them.

"We don't want a fortress, we want something that would fival Greektown," Duggan said. There's just one catch — the Tigers haven't signed on to any of this. Nor is there any guarantee they will. "If you want to know how serious Monaghan is (about moving the team) he has refused to this day to even look at the plan," Duggan said.

Tigers management seems almost surprised renovation plans are still being considered.

"Two years ago, we looked at a number of options, including renovation, and it was our feeling that a new hallpark was needed," said Fred Haafe, Tigers senior vice president for planning and administration. "Our feelings haven't changed."

The Tigers are "more than willing to meet with McNamara and Mike Duggan," Haafe said, but are currently unaware of just what the executive has in mind.

"Quite frankly, they haven't put this in front of us," he But the McNamara plan contains something that could make the Tigers sit up and take notice: public financing. The county would issue stadium construction bonds, paid for through stadium revenue. There is precedent. Renovations completed in the 1980s, including removal of the stadium's old, green seats, were financed through a ticket surcharge. "Not counting Dodger Stadium, there hasn't been a major league baseball stadium built in the last 50 years or so without some degree of public assistance," Duggan said.

State aid won't be sought, Duggan said. It probably wouldn't be forthcoming from budget-cutting new governor John Engler anyway.

The county also won't seek state race track revenue, Duggan said, even though racetrack money was heavily used to build the Pontiac Silverdome. But that, too, might not be for lack of trying.

'We're about maxed out on race track revenue right now," said Steve Shepich, senior financial analyst with the state House Fiscal Agency. "Whatever we're taking in, we're spending. There wouldn't be any left over for a Still, Shepich adds a footnote.

"This would all change if they tie barred the stadium to legislation involving off track betting, like they did in Illinois," he said. "But I don't think I'm speaking out of turn when I say (Detroit Mayor) Coleman Young wants casino gambling for Detroit. It would be interesting to see how that would all play out."

back for the 1991 season, but the venerable an uncertain future.

At least three off-track-betting bills are already pending in the state Legislature. An additional hotel/motel tax, permissible under legislation left over from Detroit's 1970s attempt to build a riverfront stadium, may prove a better possibility. That, Duggan said, would merely require approval from the county commission. Public financing itself is controversial.

Toronto's new, state-of-the-art Skydome is already reporting deficits even though its chief tenant, baseball's Toronto Blue Jays, drew more fans last year than the Tigers, Montreal Expos and Atlanta Braves com-

Toronto residents are bracing for new taxes. Some local fans warn the same could happen here.

"WE'RE NOT a taxpayers group, but we do have people who are opposed to using public financing,"said William Dow of Birmingham, a UAW attorney and legal adviser to the Tiger Stadium Fan Club. (See related story for information on the Fan Club and its plans for stadium renovation.)

To those concerns, Duggan says this: Trust us. "As an administration we have a track record," Duggan said. "We're just completing a new county jail and we're going to bring it in on budget. We'll soon be building a new morgue and we'll bring that in on budget."

Taxpayer contributions will be capped, he said, preventing Detroit from falling into the Toronto trap. "When you announce to the world that you're going to build the Taj Mahal, you're going to have trouble," Duggan said, referring to the Skydome's on-site hotel, Hard Rock Cafe nightspot and other amenities. "This is just

Tiger Stadium is getting ready to welcome fans 'ballpark, home of the Tigers since 1912, faces' going to be a baseball stadium."

The question is whether that would be enough.

Parking is important and the Tigers want more spaces. "It isn't necessarily the key issue, but it's one of the keys," Haafe said. "We definitely believe it's something that needs to be addressed,"

According to Duggan, nearly 3,000 parking spaces could be added. Of that, 2,000 would be on church property directly west of the stadium. Another 1,000-could be added to the north and east. If necessary, he said, the county, wouldn't hesitate to use its condemnation pow-

The problem, is that the Tigers seek considerably more parking.

"We're looking at 12,000 to 15,000 cars," Haafe said. For the Tigers, luxury boxes and team-controlled parking are vital to keeping the team competitive in an increasingly costly market.

CBS, which signed a whopping contract with major league baseball in 1989, already seeks renegotiation in light of lower-than-expected ratings.

"All 26 major league teams are concerned," Haafe

Tigers attendance has been dropping since the team's 1984 world championship.

Despite drawing nearly 1.5 million fans, the Tigers placed only 22nd in overall major league attendance: Some fans, however, blame the team.

"They don't promote their team or their stadium," said Frank Rashid of Detroit, president of the Tiger Stadium Fan Club. "When there's a quality product, people will come."

For fans the issue may boil down to greed.

around the stadium, but with large scale parking areas and it's just not compatible," said Davids. "Ask yourself, do you see an enterprise zone around the (Auburn Hills) Palace or (Pontiac) Silverdome?'/

Rather than putting their faith in the county executive, club members have rallied behind a plan initially proposed by state Sen. John Kelly, D-Detroit. That plan would limit public financing to $76 million and prohibit public bonds for a baseball stadium larger than 25,000 seats - virtually assuring bonds couldn't be used to build a replacement stadium.

Supporters, including state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, say the plan is both generous and workable. McNamara has blasted it as destructive to efforts to keep the Tigers downtown.

But Cochrane and Kelly plans aside, fan club members worry whether outside revenue is really the under-

The Auburn Hills Palace, with its self-contained parking and concession revenue — not to mention bustling turnstlles for Detroit Pistons basketball games - is the Tigers' new model, fan club members sald.

"I think the Tigers are very aware of what's happening in Auburn Hills, but it's entirely different," Dow said. "What happens when the Pistons aren't champions anymore?"

While Tigers management has called stadium parking inadequate, fan club members believe the real issue is that the Tigers don't control parking revenue.

The Cochrane Plan could give the Tigers a share of parking money, Rashid said, but not all of it.

"IF THEY want a share of parking they can have it, what we're saying is they can't have a monopoly," he

If they can't convince the Tigers, fan club members can aim for the hearts of the people. They'll do just that Monday, during Opening Day ceremonies at the ballpark. Instead of going inside, club members are setting up bleachers across the street, urging Tiger fans to bring radios and celebrate Opening Day, while protesting plans for a new stadium and the dismissal of longtime Tigers broadcaster Ernle Harwell.

Numbers, Rashid said, are on the fan club's side. We started with five people from Detroit and now we have a mailing list of 12,000," he said.

And like a trailing ballclub with a slugging pinch hitter waiting in the dugout; the fan club may yet have a secret weapon. "One thing nobody's been mentioning is the stadium

fludson's workers look for the union label

By Wayne Peal staff writer

A silent giant, the vacant Hudson's store on downtown Woodward is a symbol in the struggle between the company and the UAW.

For management, it's a reminder of retail firms closed in Michigan over the past decade - Hughes & Halcher, Revco, Chatham - union firms all.

But for several hundred Hudson's workers and UAW members who gathered outside the building earlier. this spring, the longtime Detroit landmark now symbolizes a compa- the time. ny that abandoned downtown and is now abandoning its workers.

The vacant building is also a reminder that Hudson's is now a suburban firm, catering to a predominantly suburban clientele, at a time when many of its suburban workers are moving toward union representation.

Westland was the first battle-

LAST MAY, the sales staff at the Westland Center outlet voted for, it a media issue." UAW representation. Nine months. later, there is no contract. Issues are tied up before the National Labor Relations Board.

"It's clear. They're breaking the law," said Bob King, director of UAW Region 1A, the union's top gun in Hudson's organizing efforts.

The NLRB has already ruled in the workers' favor, upholding election results despite a company protest. The ruling mandates the company begin bargaining, King said, with further appeal an unnecessary step.

Retailer, UAW battle over representation Company officials see matters dif-

Dennis Toffolo, president of the Minneapolis-based retailer, charged the union with "falsifying information about the profit contribution" of: the Westland store when the company appealed the NLRB ruling in January. "The company had no opportunity to clarify this false claim and others prior to the election," Toffolo said at

A final ruling could come from the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, said Bernard Gottfried, director of the NLRB Detroit office. Today. Hudson's officials are reluctant to comment on union mat-

"Our feeling is there really nothing new to say on Westland beyond what we said in January," said company spokeswoman Sue Sorenson. "We really don't want to make

- UAW officials, on the other hand, are campaigning for attention.

They've enlisted powerful political help, including U.S. Rep. William Ford; chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor. Ford, whose district includes Westland, urged Hudson's management to begin negotiating with workers in a letter to the company.

The downtown rally March 17 coincided with the last day of a com-what is really going on," said Mary Grab, director for the union local representing Westland Hudson's workers. What was going on, Grab said, was " that the company was forcing out older workers, especially women.

"We didn't fit the image. Maybe our salaries were too high," said Grab, a 22-year Hudson's employee.

A recent UAW organizing drive newsletter is filled with other unionrelated complaints against Hudson's. including the story of a veteran Westland Center worker who said she lost pension credits after missing time due to a work-related injury.

Perhaps the final straw, Grab said, was Hudson's Performance Plus salary system.

Compensation varies for Hudson's sales employees. Some receive a commission, others do not. Still others receive Performance Plus, a bonus system for some sales personnel based on sales goals.

Grab, however, called it a carrot-and-stick approach that set unrealistic goals for higher-paid employees, and ultimately ended with them being fired for not meeting the goals.

Company officials, however, point to the $11.5 million in bonuses paidout in one recent year as indication the program benefits employees.

Last March, Hudson's revised the program, dropping the termination procedure for employees who didn't meet eight of the 10 Performance Plus standards. In April, the compa-"WE WANT to let people know ny dropped its policy of withholding bonuses for employees who failed to meet sales standards as well as other standards, including a company dress code.

"SINCE IT'S inception (in 1987), we've made many improvements to, Performance Plus to make it the best it can be for our employees and customers," said Marvin Goldstein, Dayton Hudson chairman and ghief executive officer, in an April 1990 employee newsletter. "The program was designed to give employees the opportunity for increased earnings. We know that our employees have always been the key to great customer service."

It was Grab who contacted the UAW about representing Westland workers:

It wasn't the first time retail workers have joined a union. The United Food and Commercial Workers, with offices in Madison Heights, represents Mongomery Ward workers in Livonia, Dearborn and Southgate? The union also represents. Meijer Inc. workers through its Grand Rapids office.

But It was a first for the UAW and, as far a sales staff is concerned, it was a first for Dayton-Hudson.

But it might not be the last. Organizing efforts are under way at Hudson's stores at the Oakland and Eastland mails, as well as Flint.

__Falslane Center employees will_ vote on union representation April

. An NLRB hearing officer has recommended setting aside election results at the Summit Place store in Waterford - opening the way for a second union vote. There, workers rejected the UAW last October amid charges the company granted raises to select employees and announced new benefits and other perks to dissuade workers from voting for the union. Gottfried said an NLRB ruling on the hearing officer's recommendation is pending.

The past decade, union leaders admit, was hardly a golden age for organized labor.

UAW membership dropped to an estimated 1 million, putting the union behind the 12-year-old United Food and Commercial Workers in total membership.

Suburbanization has also burt, as urban industrial jobs have given way to suburban, white collar = and non :... union — jobs.

Organizing Hudson's workers is seen by some observers as a potential step toward the future of trade unionism.

But for King, it's a step back to the way things used to be.

"People have to look at everything that's happened since labor union membership began declining," he said. "Back when we had 30, 35 percent union membership (of the total U.S. workforce) we had a fairer sys-, tem of taxation, for instance."

It's a taxing time for late filers

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Many tax-fearing residents are avolding filing their tax returns, despite a deadline that's only 11 days

Customers trickled Monday into local tax-preparation firms as workers, surprised by sluggish business, awalted a last-minute surge of procastinators scrambling to beat the mlonight April 15 deadline.

"We've got 50 to 60 regular customers who haven't even called to make an appointment," said Penny Slater, receptionist at Westland's Associated Accounting & Tax Service.

"Maybe they're afraid they owe." However, Slater said it appeared most customers are receiving refunds.

"Not too many have had to pay," she said.

At the H&R Block office in Westland Center, supervisor Grace Gravino sat at her desk Monday and waited patiently for an influx of customers.

"We really can't tell when it's going to come," she said. "Business - counts, has really been down: We're still waiting for the procastinators."

Gravino urged taxpayers - especially those expecting a refund — to file their returns soon. Refunds are taking about eight weeks to arrive,

Daylight Savings Time starts Sunday

Of the five naked-eye planets, fourare in the evening sky this month. Mercury, Venus, Mars, and Saturn are visible after sunset. Saturn can be seen in the predawn sky.

The amount of sunlight we receive increases by one hour and 19 minutes in April.

Dominating the sky, about 24 degrees above the horizon, is brilliant Venus. Mercury is below and to the right of Venus, but only eight degrees above the horizon. (One degree is equivalent to two full moon diameters.) Mercury is the fastest moving planet in our solar system, and it soon will be too close to the sun to be visible.

Watch Venus draw closer to the Plelades each night, and pass the cluster in less than two weeks. The motion of a planet from one night to the next is easy to monitor when it passes another prominent object. The Pleiades represents the 'shoulder' of Taurus the bull. Look for the bull's 'eye,' the orange-red star Aldebaran (al DEB a ran), above and to the left of the Pleiades.

THE MOON is in the constellation of Sagittarius the archer on the morning of April 5. It is near the 'spout' of the 'teapot' that marks that constellation.

On the next morning the moon is just to the left of the star that marks the top of the "teapot." The "handle" is the row of stars that curves down and to the right. Daylight Saving Time begins at 2 a.m. on April 7.

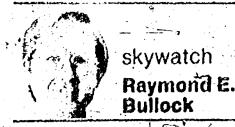

Daylight time, when we set our -Sunday. We do not alter the speed of the earth's rotation or the length of the day, we merely alter the device by which time is measured. A little more than 100 years ago there were no standardized time zones. Everyone kept "local" time.

"Noontime" was when the sun was due south and the shadow cast by a stick was at its shortest. Of course, local noon in Detroit was different from noon in Lansing, which was different from Grand Rapids, and so on. At one time Michigan had 27 local time zones. Railroads were having an impossible tine scheduling their arrivals and departures. In 1883 the railroads divided the country into 4 main time zones. These standard time zones were not immediately accepted by all the public, but over the course of years standard time became the norm.

IT WASN'T UNTIL 35 years later that Congress, acting in its usual hasty manner, made the standard time zones the law of the land. Michigan was originally in the Central Time Zone because we are geographically closer to the Central Time longitude line in Chicago, than we are to the Eastern Time line in Philadelphia.

A vote of the people of Michigan placed our state in the Eastern zone so it would share the same time with businesses on the east coast. If we stayed on Eastern Standard Time. sunrise at the end of this month would be at 5:30 a.m. and sunset would occur at 7:85 p.m. On Eastern Daylight Time sunrise is at 6:30 a.m.

hours and five minutes of sunshine.) We gain our later sunset and extra hour of daylight in the evening at the expense of a later sunrise and extrahour of darkness in the morning.

The moon is at Last Quarter phase at 2:45 a.m. EDT on April 7. This presents somewhat of a conundrum; 2:45 a.m. EDT does not exist on April 7. Remember, Eastern Standard Time ends at 2:00 a.m. on April 7. Our clocks are set forward one. hour, so 2:00 a.m. EST becomes 3:00 a.m. EDT. There is no 2:45 a.m.! Of course, the moon could care less about our games with the clock. The bright 'star' six degrees to the left of the moon on the morning of the 8th is Saturn.

On the next morning the moon is eight degrees to the left of Saturn. They are in the constellation of Capricornus. Jupiter, in Cancer, and Mars, in Gemini, are 30 degrees Jackets can cause senous reactions in susceptible persons.

Local reaction of redness, swelling and litching limited to the site of the sting is normal. In June Jupiter and Mars will form a very tight grouping with Venus. Watch as these three planets continue to draw closer to each other. In the west, Venus passes three degrees to the south (left) of the Plelades on the evening of the 12th.

NEW MOON occurs at 3:38 p.m. on April 14. The moon is between the earth and the sun and is not visible. Look for the young crescent moon on the evening of the 15th. It will be only eight degrees above the horizon. (Venus and Jupiter are 60 degrees apart tonight.) Also on the 14th, Mercury is at inferior conjunction. It is between the earth and the sun and is not visible. Follow the moon through Taurus from the 16th to 18th. On the 16th the moon is directly below the Pleiades star cluster.

S'craft programs are credited through 2001

By Wayne Post staff writer

Schoolcraft College class credits are now good through the year 2001. The Livonia-based community college just received 10-year accreditation, the maximum possible, from the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

"Schoolcraft received a very strong evaluation," said Cecilia Lopez, associate director of the Chicago-based scholastic evaluating agency. "The suggestion is they're doing a very good job."

The evaluation clearly pleased college administrators.

"The campus is flying high," Schoolcraft President Richard

McDowell said.

North Central evaluations help determine whether Schooleraft credits will transfer to other colleges.

The agency looks at a number of factors, including academic programs, student success rates, administration, faculty, support services and the college's relationship with its community.

"WE THINK it's a school of which the community can be proud," Lopez

But evaluators also pointed out a few problems.

Communication between administrators and staff must be improved, evaluators said. They required Schoolcraft to report back to them by November 1993, listing steps taken to open up communication.

"This is something we will be working on," college board President Mary Breen sald.

Union relations, normally peaceful, hit a snag last year during drawn out negotiations with college office

Despite problems, Breen said the college will continue to use mutual gains bargaining - a non-adversarial negotiating style that strives to give each side the opportunity to claim victory.

Faculty representatives agreed problems exist. "I think they found staff had a low role in decision making," said Lowell Cook, head of the Schoolcraft Faculty forum, the college's largest union. "I would say there could be some improvement there."

Evaluators also noted Schoolcraft students' relatively low participation in extra-curricular events.

Students revive school newspaper at Churchill

By Marie Chestney staff writer

The 13th days of February and March have been lucky days for Churchill High School students who desire to know what's going on around the world and around their

On Feb. 13, the first issue of the school's new newspaper, the Charger Herald, came fresh off the press. Sixteen pages long, the two-color magazine-sized paper covered both the Persian Gulf war and the death of a British pop metal guitarist.

The second edition of the Charger Herald, distributed March 13, shows that the fledgling student newspaper is here to stay. The school's old paper, the Winston Word, fizzled last year and wasn't resurrected when school started in the fall.

THE REVIVAL of a newspaper at Churchill, which serves the northwest corner of Westland, is due largely to the drive of a 1989-Churchill graduate, Michelle Gearhart, and to the creative spirit of a small band of Churchill students who make up the paper's staff.

"I have nothing but words of praise for these kids," said Nancy Mack, a Churchill English teacher. "They're hard-working, dedicated, conscientious kids. I give them a world of credit."

The second was that journalism was not a high priority.

Apparently, the Winston Word was an on-again, off-again paper, highly dependent on the motivation of the students and teachers involved.

-"I was new. I didn't know anyone. I met three, four students who had worked on the paper and wanted to get it going again. I started asking kids, 'Do you want to write?' "

The new crew put out six issues of the Winston Word that year. Gearhart edited the paper until

Observer & Eccentric NEWSPAPERS

By Janico Brunson staff writer

The first time Oakland County Circuit Judge Hilda Gage saw walkers participating in an annual fundraising walkathon for multiple sclerosis, she cried.

"It was on Long Lake Road, There were thousands of them, people with bables, pulling dogs in wagons. I was overwhelmed," said Gage, a 12-year veteran of the court. Since 1974 she has lived with the terrible knowledge she suffers from multiple sclerosis, an incurable disease of the said. In 1986, after 14 years of remcentral nervous system.

Come Sunday, Gage may well have cause to shed tears again, as colleagues from the court pay tribute to her by participating in this year's national walk, the Supercities Walkathon for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

"If Judge Gage can do all that she does, I can certainly walk 15 miles." said fellow circuit Judge Edward Sosnick, one of a number of circuit judges, clerks and administrators participating in the Oakland County portion of the walk.

Money matters

Budget explanations needed

AYOR ROBERT Thomas has submitted his second proposed budget to the city council this week.

Hopefully, the council will encourage the public to be more involved in upcoming budget deliberations to let them know how their money will be spent.

Years ago, then mayor Eugene McKinney told the council at the start of budget reviews that the budget is a reflection of the city government's 'policies, priorities and programs."

He's right.

The budget is more than just a collection of

The bottom line is that most of the budget is

Council members and the administration must make sure that not only are they comfortable with their budget decisions, but communicate clearly with the community on what they are doing and why.

Despite the world headlines about the renewedstrained relations between the U.S. and Soviet governments, the good news is that people from different cultures and societies can communicate about shared interests and enjoy each other's company without being directed by government.

During the Soviet trip in the spring of 1989, the Westland visitors gained an invaluable education about life on the other side of the world.

We hope the Soviet visitors last week gained the same insights.

Urban sprawl

Racism is underlying problem

TRBAN SPAWL, spawned by racism, is a threat we are foolish to ignore. The lifeblood of our communities is being sapped by fear and hatred which infect the personal, business and government decision-making process.

For those of you who live in what is derisively called by some the "inner-ring" of suburbs, think of the investment you've made in your house, your church and your schools. And then ask if you are willing to sacrifice your dream, waste the sweat of your labor, marching behind the banner

The sensible answer is "of course not." But generations before us have done just that and we are seeing it happen again. The casualties from the past have witnessed an unprecedented destruction of an economy more devastating than during the power outage (we know their employ-

A better way would to put the lines (electric, telephone, cable TV) underground so that the wind and windblown objects wouldn't knock

What's needed is an ambitious project by Edison and other wire-stringing companies to bury them, not just in new developments but in older ones, too. Do it bit by bit while the sun shines and maybe we won't have such a big mess next March.

Yes, we've heard the utility's arguments, mainly that burying lines is "just too expensive." But doing so would improve the standard of service. Isn't that what profits are for?

If going underground with the utilities isn't the answer, Detroit Edison, then what is? What can you do to keep so many of your paying customers NOT TO BELITTLE Detroit Edison's efforts from shivering in the dark when the winds blow next spring?

Governor's meat ax lashes out at children

IT'S LIKE something out of a Charles Dickens' novel.

Ever since John Engler took the reins of power in Lansing, his vengeance against the governmental system which has weaned, nurtured and-fed-him-all these years has shocked many into the realization of what it is that government really does do for a society.

Unfortunately, government bashing has become so stylish that many have forgotten that one of government's main concerns is to care for the dispossessed - particularly children.

John Engler has turned his ax on children, the most defenseless group

These aren't the children of the wealthy or the middle class. These are the children who have run out of alternatives, who have no place to turn. Social service agencies are their last best hope.

PANDERING TO the reactionary fairy tale that social service money is squandered in fraud and scandal, Engler has advocated cuts which would displace 3,500 children. You're hearing correctly. Engler's meat-ax approach would put 3,500 children on the street.

Unfortunately, government bashing has become so stylish that many have forgotten that one of government's main concerns is to care for the dispossessed particularly children.

In response, the Michigan Federation of Child Care Agencies and the Michigan Foster and Adoptive Parent Association are fighting back in the courts with some limited success.

Earlier this month, Ingham County Circuit Court Judge William Collette halted the 22 percent Engler cuts in children's services. To counter, Engler's budget bashing cronies convinced the Court of Appeals the cuts should be authorized.

But the Michigan Supreme Court returned the case to the Ingham Circuit Court which is slated to hear the case on April 23.

In the meantime, the children are at risk. Child care agencies are being shorted in their checks. Engler, of all Tolks, knows that this world runs on money, not good wishes. And without Steve

Barnaby the bucks, these private agencies will eventually have to turn away

Just to give you examples of the impact; 15 of the 66 federation agencies surveyed showed they would lose nearly $10 million if the cuts aren't restored. They would have to close 306 beds and terminate foster caré placement for 420 children. Eighty-five children would go una-

Camp Oakland in Oxford would lose more than $457,000 this year, alone: Catholic Social Services/St. Vincent would be victimized $468,000. Other big losers would be Lutheran Social Services, $786,000. And the two biggest losers would be Orchard Children's Services at $1.6 million and Starr Commonwealth at $1.8 million:

Not a nice picture. But maybe the governor plans on volunteering to take in a couple of kids, himself.

Let's honor our heroes

Now that Operation Desert Storm has successfully and swiftly concluded and American forces are returning home as conquering heroes, there is a situation in our community which needs attention now. Wayne Memorial High School was built following World War II as a memorial to the young men and women who left its halls of learning to fight in the U.S. Armed Forces in Europe and the South Pacific, Many gave their lives for the freedom which we enjoy today.

There are two bronze plaques in the high school bearing the names of the school board members, the superintendents, the architects, and. the various bullders. Yet there is not the name of one person for whom the building was named - the servicemen and women from the community who died to preserve our freedom.

It's time that the community erects a bronze plaque containing information about these sons and daughters who are memorialized in the name of the building.

While we are in the process, let's also include information regarding those who paid dearly with the sacrifice of their lives for their country's freedom in Korea, Vietnam, and all periods since. It's the least we can do to show our gratitude for their sacri-

To the editor: ... There seems to be a major controversy about the Wayne-Westland School District.

Some people find a new millage expensive; lots are against it, and I agree. Too much administration for no sufficient academics. One quick and easy way to resolve that controversy and to save our sons and daughters from a more catastrophically lower academic level is to:

1 - Recall the school board, the superintendent and his staff. That will save us an easy million a year!

2 - Reinstate all principals and laid off school teachers, who will give our children a much better and well deserved education and put the Wayne-Westland School District once again up to the level it once was, the leader!

By doing this, all principals would work together in order to keep available supplies for their pupils and reinforce their mission, their role toward the teachers and the stu-

This way could, if approved by all taxpayers, save us a considerable amount of money and also improve the quality of education needed for our children's future. Then if needed a new millage would be voted by all

Paying for college: No easy way out

By Phyllis K. Hooyman special writer

A generation ago, college students loudly protested the materialism of their parents. All the while, those parents quietly continued to pay for their children's college tultion, repm, board and textbooks.

Now the students of the '60s are parents themselves. They face paying for their own children's higher education. Sadly, the materialism of the '60s generation appears, in many cases, to have exceeded that of their parents.

Consumption by American familles has increased faster than earn. ings. After World War II, the ratio of consumer installment debt to disposable income was 2 percent. In 1989, the ratio stood at 19 percent.

· Many families have enjoyed the means to save for future college expenses but allowed other spending priorities to prevail.

Growing numbers have not saved for their child's education a problem that each year around this time becomes clear to families of high school seniors. This is the season that colleges announce financial aid awards. Many parents wince when they see the difference between available aid and tuition bills.

It's true that toition was far lower in the 1960s than it is today. But average income was lower also. And the idea of saving for the future was more ingrained among parents of that era.

I recently spoke with the father of a high school senior who indicated he had been successful in securing the lifestyle of his dreams the home on the lake, the boat, the three cars. He could not understand why he should have to sacrifice any of this to send his son to college.

THE KEY WORD is "sacrifice." The reality of today's cost of higher educations dictates that most Tamilies must be willing to sacrifice to secure a college diploma for their child. Recently, in The Wall Street Journal, it was noted that for a child born in 1990, the cost of sending that child to a private, four-year college when he or she is 18 will be $187,002.

While there is annually more than $28 billion-available in college financial assistance in this country, the financial aid system cannot bear the future costs for all students. Yet that is exactly where many parents turn.

Having little or no savings and a load of consumer debt, families, increasingly depend upon financial ald. Unfortunately many will apply for aid only to discover they are ineligible due to their income

It is important to understand the philosophy behind federal, state and institutional financial aid programs: the primary responsibility of financing a child's college education lies with the parents.

I chair the federal Issues commilled of the Midwest Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators. In this capacity, I have mel with key congressional staff members. The message is very clear. Federal funding Jevels are not going to increase significantly. More responsibility will be shifted to the states and the colleges to subsidize current federal financial aid funding.

When we turn to the state we see legislatures struggling with the same budgetary problems and restraints as our federal government.

When counseling parents of younger children, therefore, I advise them not to gamble on the availability of future financial aid resources and the political agendas of Congress.

FAILURE to save and plan in advance has consequences. A student can be held hostage to selecting the institution with the lowest price tag, regardless of program needs or academic goals.

There always will be a variety of loan programs available through which to finance higher education. It's costly, however, to finance education via borrowing. This expense is even greater today than in the pash new that interest on student loans no longer is deductible on the federal targeturn.

In contrast, parents saving in advance for college benefit from interest earned on those invest-

Parents of college-bound chil-. dren should begin to save now even if they set aside only $10 per week They should visit a reputable certified financial planner and investigate various investment options.

Children also should be-encouraged to work and save while in high school. This helps them develop a sense of ownership and obligation in the development of a family college savings plan.

Finally, I encourage families to get comfortable with the word 'sacrifice." To achieve the educational goals of their children, parents may have to alter their lifestyles, downscale vacations, delay the purchase of a new home and rearrange other purchasing priori-

Higher education is still affordable. Parents and students, however, must make a strong commitment to a family savings plan and budget strategy.

As with any other major consumer purchase, proper budgeting and wise preplanning will allow a family to achieve its goal — a quality college education for their child.

Prayer - too complex for courts

Entrange begin bester in the contract of the c

. IT'S JUST A FEW weeks until graduation time, and already the news pushers are starting to bombard us with stories about graduation activities and their related dan-

This year a new controversy bas emerged. It's prayer. Prayer at public school graduation ceremonies. Court cases on the issue are pending in states from Michigan to Utah, from Idaho to Rhode Island.

Last month the U.S. Supreme Court agreed to hear the Rhode Island case, which started in 1989 when a couple filed suit against the Providence School Board after it refused to cancel a prayer scheduled as part of the graduation ceremonies for Nathan Bishop Middle School.

The suit, which the couple won in federal court and in a federal appeals court, contends that the doctrine of "separation of chuch and state" means prayer should be prohibited at public school graduations. So school districts all over the nation are keeping an eye on it.

NO MATTER which way the court rules - and no matter how forceful or how vague the opinion - somebody is not going to be satisfied. It's always that way. But some of the behind-the-scenes arguments are downright silly.

Some argue that a short prayer is all right as long as it's "non-sectarian." That, of course, leads lawyers to speculate on what is sectarian and what isn't. A prayer to "Jesus Christ," they pretty much agree, would be sectarian and probably so would one directed to "Our Heavenly Father." Some even worry that using the term "God" in a prayer would be too sectarian to be legal.

That kind of thinking caused the superintendent of a school district in Idaho, which has such a suit pending against it, to worry that "if this keeps going like some people want it. to, pretty soon we'll have to address our prayers to 'To Whom it May Concern' and end with 'Sincerely Yours.'"

WELL, IT OCCURRED to me that the courts are always a little bit out of their jurisdiction when they decide on the legality or illegality of religious practices. If there IS a higher authority than the U.S. Supreme Court, then . . . You know what I mean?

Eventually the court, the highest authority in the land, will have to address the underlying question behind this whole debate: Is there a God? A definitive Supreme Court ruling on that question would put an end to most of these litiguous confrontations and would save taxpayers a lot of money in court costs.

If the court ruled that there is no God, then all of the associated questions would be moot. How can you allow prayer in schools if there's.

nothing to pray to? What's the point of putting up religious symbols honoring something that doesn't exist?

Of course, if the court ruled that there is a God, then other questions would have to be addressed. Whose God is He? Or She?

What about organized religions? If the court ruled that there is a God, what religion does He or She represent? Christian, Jewish, Moslem, Hindu, Buddhist, something else? If the Christian God theory prevailed, which denomination does He or She represent? (My bet is they'd go for Episcopalian, but that's just a hunch.)

The court would have to readdress the question of church and state. How does God feel about separating them? Maybe He (or She) doesn't. want them separated.

NOW YOU MAY think I'm being sacrilegious, but I'm not. It's just that virtually every case involving the relationship between church and state is as complex, as unanswerable, as the fundamental question behind the whole issue.

And until the courts can ask (and answer) that question, then their rulings on all the other related cases are little more than legal mumbojumbo. The rulings may have the force of law, but, whichever way they go, they don't mean a damn thing in the greater scheme of

Multi-county group should run DIA

I DIDN'T COIN the term "killer bees" as applied to the political arm of the arts community, but I have seen them at work.

Friends of the Detroit Institute of ____ Arts are engaging in a savage attack on those who would eliminate its $16 million state subsidy during this year's budget crunch - beginning with Gov, John Engler.

Either you are one of them or you deserve to be stung. This column is addressed to cooler heads.

IN ALL THE phone calling and propaganda, several key facts are

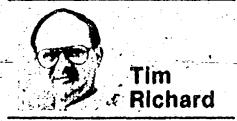

• DIA is owned by the city of Detroit and operated as a department of Detroit city government. Repeat that 1,000 times a day during the debate of the next few weeks.

Only Detroit residents may work there. Suburbanites may work as volunteers and give money but can't hold paying jobs for the city.

• For the better part of a decade, state government has been paying $16 million and the city $500,000 to operate DIA - a 32 to 1 ratio in favor of the state.

(The remaining $10 million of DIA's $26.5 million budget comes from admissions, tickets and the Founders Society, Acquisitions are paid for privately.)

Give Detroit Mayor Goleman Young credit: He won't give money to anything he can't control. Why, then, should anyone in his right mind expect Gov. Engler to behave differently and just write out checks?

DIA DIRECTOR Samuel Sachs II wrote me a letter containing one ofthe cleverest ploys in the propaganda textbook — assuming what you want to prove:

"It seems to me that one-half of one cent of a tax dollar is not too much for the state to afford itself for arts and culture, particularly when the arts return so much to the state."

Notice how he casts the issue in terms of the state's budget. Having repeated the truth 1,000 times a day, we can cast the issue in its true light:

• Detroit collects an income tax on non-residents who work there. How much of that could be dedicated to operating DIA for the benefit of non-residents?

• State government pays the full cost of district courts for only one city in the state - Detroit. Why can't Detroit use that savings for

The time has come for DIA's leaders and friends to consider another system of governance. Are they thinking about it? 'No comment,' snapped Sachs when I asked him directly.

There are a ton of other taxes which only Detroit collects, but there's no need to belabor the point. Detroit can operate DIA with revenues from non-residents - if it chooses to do so.

THE TIME has come for DIA's leaders and friends to consider another system of governance. Are they thinking about it? "No comment," snapped Sachs when I asked him directly.

OK, then I'll comment.

Clearly there's a lot of antipathy toward Detroit in state government, more so in the Legislature than in the Engler administration.

A multi-county authority is in order. The people in southeastern Michigan who get the most enjoyment out of DIA should run it and pay for it.

Detroit used to run a prison

(DeHoCo) and a TB hospital but got out of those businesses. It used to support the Detroit Symphony Orchestra but pulled the rug from under DSO. It booted the Detroit Concert Band into the suburbs.

Well, it's time for the city to admit it can't handle the Detroit Institute of Arts either.

It's not a new idea. I raised the same possibility 13 years ago, before the auto industry and state government fell on their faces.

Once again state government is on its face, cutting aid for kids on welfare and grants to foster parents. Now is the time for a creative new approach to governance, not for an attack of killer bees.

Sponsor Adray cuts Detroit circuit

By Brad Emons staff writer

Mike Adray, the Dearborn appliance dealer who has sponsored a sandiot baseball league for collegeage players for more than three decades, has pulled the plug. The Detroit Adray Baseball League, which has produced nearly 100 major league players including Wayne Memorial High's Pat Sheridan and Livonia Franklin's Bernie Carbo, will cease operations imme-

It is too early to tell how the decision will affect the rival Livonia Collegiate Baseball League, which begins its season May 26.

Adray said new NCAA regulations, effective Aug. 1, put severe restrictions on his franchise league, which is a member of the All-American Amateur Baseball Association based in Johnstown, Pa. (site of the annual AAABA tourney).

The new NCAA ruling affects college coaches and players from the University of Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Wayne State and the University of Detroit Mercy.

Coaches from those schools will not be able to work with more than three of their own players during the summer league season. (The league normally attracts top high school seniors and college underclassmen ages 20 and under.)

The Detroit League consisted of teams and players made up primarily from area colleges including Adray Sound (U-M), Adray Photo (EMU), Adray Sound and Dearborn Vacuum (WSU) and Adray Appliance (U-D Mercy).

MIKE ADRAY also cited the deterioration of interest in sandlot baseball and the lack of appreciation by blg leaguers toward his sponsorship of the league for folding his tent.

"The NCAA came up with a rule that made it difficult to continue the college teams we've had in the past," the sponsor said. "They've made it tough to operate.

baseball

'We were all set to go (in June) but when the NCAA rule came down I said to myself, 'It doesn't make sense.' I decided, why spend the money? I'd be spinning my wheels and the turnouts had been disappointing. People just don't go out and watch the games anymore so I threw in the towel after 20 years."

The decision to drop the league has many ramifications.

Former Redford Union High coach Stu Rose, now head coach at Henry Ford Community College and assistant under Bob Atkins in the summer league for the Adray Appliance team, said many players will be scrambling for places in other. leagues (including Livonia).

"I have 19 kids I'm trying to place right now," he said. "It's a sad thing for northern baseball. It (the Detroit league) prevented southern and western teams from stockpiling players."

MANY OF THE top area players at local colleges have defected in recent years to leagues outside Michigan to such leagues as the Great Lakes circuit, based in Ohio (where wooden bats are required); along with the Cape Cod, Mass., Alaska and the Basin leagues.

Adray has also been irritated at some area college coaches for sending their players out of state.

"Cape Cod is usually the No. 1 choice and Alaska, too," said the sponsor. "I've been asking myself, competitive (at the AAABA tourney in Johnstown)?' We hadn't won a national title since 1978.

"Then I found out the coaches were not sending their best players to our league like Bud Middaugh (ex-UM coach). He kept sending players to the Basin and Cape Cod leagues. It actually came to me in a roundabout way, and I didn't like it one bit. It was not in the best interest of sandlot baseball."

Middaugh was embroiled in controversy both inside and outside of the Detroit Adray League.

One summer, while coaching 'Adray Sound, Middaugh's team, consisting of U-M recruits and underclassmen, got caught using an ineligible player. And during his stint at Michigan he resigned in the wake of a Big Ten and NCAA investigations, where major rules violations oc-

ADRAY, who helps sponsor nearly 700 little league and sandlot teams through local community recreation departments and 273 hockey teams in his Adray Community League, said amateur baseball is in "deep trouble."

"Below the AAABA level they are losing interest," he said. "Where are they going to get the seed or potential? Sandlot (college-age) baseball has been the backbone, but I see it deteriorating. I've kissed it down the river. It doesn't pay its way. At one time it did."

Adray feels short-circuited by the league's-former-players, citing a lack of gratification toward his sponsorship.

The player-list is impressive of those who have represented the Detroit Adray League at the national tournament: Barry Larkin, Chris Sabo, Bob Welch, Orel Hershiser, Frank Tanana, Ernie Whitt and Sheridan.

"We've had over 100 in the majors, but I never see or hear from them," Adray said. "Steve Garvey (ex-major league All-Star) has written me. He's a class guy, but very 'How come we haven't been more, few respond even when I request a picture. I guess they're too busy. It's like the old sponsor doesn't even ex-

Madonna opens up with a surge

Maybe a first-year collegiate coach of a firstyear program just can't be expected to know how ; good a team he has. But every indication was Madonna University's softball team would struggle in its first season, after losing four players - all probable starters - to academic woes.

"I would have taken a .500 record when we headed down there," said Dave Racer, the Lady Crusaders' coach, prior to the team's Florida

That's not what he got, Indeed, he got much more. Madonna rattled off live-straight wins before losing and returned home from Fort Myers, Florida, with seven wins in 10 games.

And Racer's reaction? Typical, for a coach: 'We very easily could have been 8-2," he said. "We should have been 8-2."

But the Crusaders' coach isn't dissatisfied. Not at all. He got decent pitching from No. 1 starter Joann Donehay; superb top-of-the-order hitting from both Megan and Mandy Armstrong; and some power strokes from Holly Brachel and Jill Burt ,

IN THEIR season-opener against Plymouth State March 24, Donehay fired a two-hitter in a 4-0 shutout victory. She walked four and struck out four.

The Crusaders "manufactured a run right off the bat" in the first inning, said Racer - a demonstration of things to come. Megan Armstrong singled and stole second, scoring on her sister's

In the second inning, singles by Hughana Wilkie, Angie Vandyke and Cheryl Baker brought in another run. Megan Armstrong's fielder's choice drove in the third run and two walks forced in a

On March 25, Madonna faced Marion (Wis.) College and, in a game trimmed to five innings by a 90-minute time limit, came up with a 13-9 triumph. Brachel started and went three innings, leaving with Madonna up 10-3.

Janet Hietala relieved and did not fare as well, gelling tagged for six runs on three hits and three walks in 11/3 innings. Donehay finished, going the last % of an inning.

Megan Armstrong set the tone of the contest by slugging a solo homer leading off the game. Brachel followed with a two-run homer in the first. Brachel finished with two hits, two runs scored and four RBI. Mandy Armstrong, who hit .481 on the trip, had three hits and two RBI, and Burt contributed three hits, three RBI and two runs

LATER THAT DAY, the Crusaders got a two- on eight hits and a walk, while striking out six.

college sports

run triple from Brachel in the first and made it stand up in a 4-2 victory over St. Benedict (Minn.) College. Donehay surrendered eight hits and two walks, fanning three in six innings to earn the win.

On March 26, Megan Armstrong and Burt each had two hits and an RBI to support Brachel in Madonna's 7-1 triumph over Elmhurst (III.) College. Megan Armstrong hit, 310 on the trip; Burt batted .333 with 14 RBI. Brachel hurled six innings against Elmhurst, allowing one run on four hits and three walks.

The same day, Madonna blanked Olivet Nazarene 8.0 for its fifth-consecutive win. Donehay hurled a four-inning no-hitter, walking five and striking out two, in running her record to 3-0. Megan and Mandy Armstrong each scored twice, Mandy getting three hits and Megan two. Jill Burt also had two hits and drove in two runs.

The streak ended the next day, March 27, against Lee College (Tenn.). Madonna managed only two hits in the 4.0 blanking. Donehay absorbed the defeat, surrendering the four runs on eight hits and two walks, striking out five.

THE CRUSADERS clashed with Marion for the second time following their loss to Lee and came out with another victory, 10-9. Madonna struck for six runs in the second, three scoring on a bases-loaded triple by Burt. Brachel followed with a run-scoring triple and, after Donehay reached base on an error, two more came home on Wilkle's triple.

Burt and Jenny Marquette each had three hits in the game, Burt driving in three runs and Marquette knocking in two and scoring three more. Megan Armstrong also had two hits and an RBI.

Brachel started and pitched three innings, giving up two runs on two hits and two walks before giving way to Hietala. Marion hit Hietala as hard this time as it had previously, getting five runs on three hits and two walks in 1% innings. Donehay finished the game and got the win, surrendering two runs on four hits and a walk in 11/3 innings.

On March 28, Culver Stockton proved too toughfor the Crusaders, shutting them out 11-0. It was their worst game of the trip; Madonna committed 12 errors in the game and managed only one hit, a single by Vandyke in the sixth. Donehay took the loss, allowing three earned runs in seven innings

LATER ON March 28, Madonna rebounded for a 12-3 win over Rockford (Ill.). Hietala had her best outing of the trip to get the win; she pitched five innings, surrendering three runs (one earned) on four hits while striking out three, Donehay pitched the final inning.

Mandy Armstrong led the attack with three hits, two runs scored and an RBI. Wilkle, Vandyke and Cheryl Baker each contributed two hits, with Wilkle and Vandyke driving in a run. Burt added a three-run single in the sixth.

The Crusaders concluded their trip last Friday with the game Racer thought his team should have won. Instead, they lost 8-7 to Eimhurst.

Madonna had enough baserunners in the Armstrongs alone. Mandy tripled, walked twice and scored three times, and Megan walked threetimes and scored twice. But Elmhurst got three runs in the first inning and five in the fourth to escape with the victory.

Neither Brachel nor Donehay were effective on the mound for Madonna. Brachel walked four and gave up three runs in just 35 of an inning; Donehay was tagged for five runs on three hits and three walks in 31/3 innings.

- Still, the 7-3 record was more than Racer hoped for. Now if the Crusaders can maintain it through NAIA District 23 season . . . they play Friday and Saturday at the Albion Tournament.

ON TUESDAY, the Lady Crusaders opened the northern - and home field - portion of their schedule by splitting a double-header with Lake Superior State at Plymouth's Massey Field. Madonna won the opener 10-3, but fell in the nightcap

In the opener, the Crusaders pushed across nine runs in the first two innings to take control quickly. Key hits were delivered by Burt - a two-run triple in the three-run first — and pitcher Donehay — another two-run triple, in the six-run

Mandy Armstrong finished with two hits and two runs scored; Burt went 2-for-3 with two RBI and two runs scored; Brachel had two hits and an RBI; and Donehay had two hits, two RBI and a run scored. Donehay got the win, allowing three runs on 10 hits and two walks.

In the second game, Brachel was ripped for 11 runs on 10 hits and seven walks in absorbing the defeat. Megan and Mandy Armstrong provided the bulk of the offense; Megan went 2-for-5, scoring three times, and Mandy was 3-for-5, with two RBI. Wilkie chipped in two hits and an RBI.

Crusaders bounce back to win a pair

To err may be human, but -when repeated - it's also a sure path to defeat.

Check Oakland University's baseball team for proof. The Ploneers have a 5-7 record; in their fielding errors. In their seven losses, they've made 21.

On Monday, OU swept a pair from Madonna University, 8-7 and 14-3. For the statistic-conscious out there, the Pioneers had just one error in the two games — and Madonna committed five. The Fighting Crusaders did rebound in their NAIA District 23 opener at Siena Helghts Tuesday, sweeping a pair from the Saints, 7-3 and 4-2. Which makes Madonna runs, five earned) nor George 14-5-1 overall and 2-0 in the dis-

Against OU Monday, Dave Szpak proved to be too much for the Crusaders to overcome in the opener. After the Pioneers put four runs on the board in the first to take a 4. 1 lead, Madonna battled back to tie it in the second. But Szpak rescued the Ploneers with a two-run single, giving them a two-run cushion.

He added a two-run double in the sixth to push OU's advantage to 8-5, finishing the day with two hits and four runs batted in. Ron Ciurla added two hits and an RBI and Ron Zill slashed a two-run single in the Jim VerVaecke was the winning pitcher for the Pioneers, giving up six earned runs on eight hits and two walks in six innings. Ralph Muglia relieved and got the save (his second), surrendering a run and two hits in the seventh inning.

RICH ROY started and absorbed the defeat for Madonna. Roy lasted two innings, allowing six earned runs on six hits and three walks. Mike Coleman relieved and was touched for two unearned runs on three hits and two walks in four innings.

five wins, they've committed two had two hits and an RBI and John Karam had two hits.

The game was stopped after five innings by the 10-run mercy rule, making Aaron Kolehmalnen the winning pitcher: five innings, four hits, three earned runs, two strikeouts.

Rob Kowalski started for Madonna, but did not get an out: no innings, five hits, five runs, one walk. Neither of his successors, T.C. Raptis (three innings, seven Leung (two innings, two runs, one earned) were any more effective.

The Crusaders got a solo homer from Bill Terski in the third inning and a run-scoring double from Kevin O'Connor in the fourth.

IN THE SWEEP of Siena Heights, Brusseau continued his hot-hitting streak - six hits in eight at-bats, four runs scored, three RBI, three stolen bases, with a double and a homer in the two ghmes.

The Causaders trailed the Saints 10 in the first game when Brusseau-blasted a solo homer in the fourth inning, knotting the score. Madoma then pushed five runs across in the fifth, the key blow a two-run double by Kevin O'Connor.

Brusteau had a single, double and a homer, with two runs scored and two RBI in the game. John Bonham' also had two hits. Chris Kloc was the winning pitcher, going all seven inning and allowing three earned runs on beven hits and three walks, striking out five.

Dennis Szczechowski was the losing pitcher. Brian Rochowiak had three hits and scored two runs for Siena Heights.

"There will definitely be more kids out there looking for a place to play," said Mike Keller, manager of the Walter's Appliance, Livonia league playoff champs. "I don't think it will have an initial impact this year, but a couple of years down the road it will happen.

"I haven't gotten any calls yet, but once the weather breaks in early May, it may happen." .

Another Livonia coach, Rey Fracassi (formerly Dufly's Plumbing), knows of one league coach having al-guys?" Fracassi asked. "I have no idea who's out there. I've had only two calls."

The Livonia league, which gets an automatic bid this summer to Johnstown, has residency rules restrictions. Livonia-based teams must have six residents, while other teams outside the city require eight insiders.

PGA director enjoys busy year

By C.J. Risak staff writer

There's a brief description Gary Whitener applies to his first year in . office as a Professional Golf Association district director: "It's been exciting."

Guess so.

What with the Shoal Creek Country Club controversy and, on local turf, the Fom Colucci affair, it's been eye-opening, to be sure. But Whitener has enjoyed it.

"I love it," the director of Livonia's golf courses said. "I really do." Whitener was elected as a district director in October, 1989, in a vote of Michigan PGA members. The district he represents includes three of the nation's 41 sections: Michigan, northern Ohio and southern Ohio. The three sections alternate electing the district director to a three-year

THERE ARE 13 district directors, two independent directors, three nationally-elected officers and the past president on the PGA's executive committee, the organization's decision-making body. And although the travel and prestige accompanying the job may seem alluring, there's an enormous work load, too.

Whitener's cramped office at Livonla's Whispering Willows Golf Course is a testimony to that. File cabinets and shelves are stuffed with notebooks dealing with issues facing the PGA, the kinds of things Whitener and the 18 other executive committee members must review and make a decision on.

The Shoal Creek controversy is a prime example. Shoal Creek was the site of last year's PGA Tournament, one of the four major tour events. When it was discovered the Birmingham, Alabama club had no black members, the public erupted.

Gary Whitener

Similar racist allegations convinced the National Football League to pull the Super Bowl out of Phoenix when the state voted against an official Martin Luther King holiday. The PGA Tournament did stay at Shoal Creek, after a local black man was granted an honorary member-SUCH DISCRIMINATION is hardly out of the ordinary at country clubs. There are clubs with only Jewish members; others are reluctant to allow women to join. Since they are private clubs, their membership practices usually go unchallenged. The PGA wants to protect the private club's right of self-determination. "We made a stand, on our feeling on that," said Whitener. Whitener wasn't connected with the Colucci case, but as a PGA official the fallout has reached him. A one-time Farmington Hills resident, Colucci has been charged in a civil suit with taking $420,000 in Michigan PGA funds. No criminal charges have been filed as yet.

The job has kept Whitener busy. Indeed, he hedged on running for the office. "I almost wasn't going to because I had this new golf course I was working on," he said, referring to the Links of Novi, a 27-hole course that he is part-owner of (it's sched-. uled to open in mid-May).

But Whitener reconsidered. "Golf's been good to me, and I wanted to give something back," the 53year-old Farmington Hills resident. . He has. In his first year on the job, Whitener figured he'd been to the PGA's headquarters in Palm Beach Garden, Florida, a half-dozen times. There have also been trips to Shoal. Creek for the PGA Tournament; Palm Springs, Calif.; and Atlanta. COMMITTEE MEMBERS fry to conduct most of their meetings during the winter months (Whitener estimated 30 days spent at various. gatherings last winter). There should : be no more than eight meeting days during the summer. This, in addition to conference calls and daily fax There's a lot of hassles and loads of work, but there are enough plusses to offset the problems — the beautiful resort locations of the meetings, for example, and the perks associated with the job. Those aren't what Whitener has treasured most, though. "The camaraderie and friendships are just super," he said.

Indeed, though he has yet to reach. the mid-point of his term, Whitener has already discovered the worst / part of the job. It will last, he esfimated, "about 30 seconds." It comes at the end of his termo when he gives his farewell address.

He's witnessed others present their parting speech, and it's usually very emotional. "I'm already preparing my speech, and it's for two years from he's looking forward to.

Pat Leavy, left, of Farmington Hills, removes a hook from the day of a special catch-and-release fly fishing only trout season jaw of a rainbow trout prior to releasing the lish. Leavy was among several dozen anglers in the water Monday on opening at the Proud lake Recreation Area.

Special day

Fly fisherman gets out on Huron River

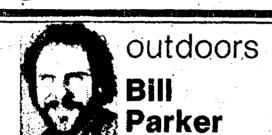

UST LIKE big league batting champs need spring training to tune up for the regular season, fly fishermen need a little pre-season practice before the opening day of

My wife listened with skepticism Sunday night as I offered the above explanation for my plans the following morning. But she must have taken the bait. The trout sure did, as I found myself waist-deep in the Huron River at daylight Monday, enjoying the action on opening morning of the special catch-and-release fly fishing only trout season at the Proud Lake Recreation Area.

Nymphs were the bait of choice early in the day, but the fierce fighting rainbow and brown trout lunged gluttonously at just about every type of fly that drifted by.

"I've been catching them on everything, but they're really hitting this nymph," said Farmington Hills resident Pat Leavy. "They'll hit just about anythying right now, but after a few days they'll get more selective and you'll have to work a little harder."

THE SPECIAL SEASON began, "10 or 15 years ago when the gas prices were real high," said Carl Glotzhober, a founder of the Livoniabased Michigan Fly Fishing Club which initiated the program. Several members of that club were tired of high gas prices and the sky rocketing costs of a weekend fishing trip up north and decided to initiate a program to bring fly fishing a little closer to home. Through the cooperation of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the two agencies combined efforts and came up with a special fly fishing only, catch-and-release

Between 2,000 and 5,000 brown and rainbow trout are now planted each spring on a two-mile stretch of the Huron River between Moss Lake and the Wixon Road Bridge. From April 1 to the opening of the regular trout season (the last Saturday of the month) this area of the river is open to fly fishing only. All fish must immediately be released. General trout fishing rules apply to the area when the. regular season begins on April 27. (Check the DNR Fishing Guide for specific guidelines).

THE PLANTED FISH, most of which come from farms and batcheries, range in size from 10 to 16-inches. Although certainly not as jittery or finicky as a wild trout, the planted fish provide great action and a quality opportunity to warm up for the regular season opener.

Grand Rapids resident Rob Tibbett, who was visiting family in Ann Arbor and decided to join the fun on opening morning. "It's a nice way to introduce a kid to fly fishing," said John Lobel of Frankenmuth, who was fishing with his son, Greg. "You can come here, learn about the sport and really catch some

"It's a good way to relieve spring fever," said

Dearborn's Russ Cecil was enjoying a spring morning in the outdoors. "I'm a firm supporter of catch-and-release fishing," Cecil said. "I just like to get out and see what's happening. I prefer to stay away from the big crowds."

CROWDS WERE PRESENT at every hole Monday since 2,400 fish were planted Friday and weren't acclimated to the river yet. As the fish become comfortable with the surroundings and spread out through the area, the crowds will also scatter, although the total number of anglers won't fade.

"We get a pretty steady crowd," said John Pettis, assistant park manager at Proud Lake. "Right now for the special season we get mostly people that are just interested in fly fishing. . . But during the regular season the number will Leavy fishes the river periodically throughout the year.

"The first week (of the fly fishing season) you can catch tons of fish," said Leavy, who had already landed "over 20 fish" by 9:30 a.m. "After a while, the fish get use to all the attention and get real picky. The last weeks you have to be more selective in your bait.

"I'll probably come back the first month of the regular season, but the trout will be here all summer. Some of them don't get caught and they'll bury themselves in the holes so you'll really have to work for them. Some will make it through the summer."

Ice fishing reports seem to underline that point. Several reports have come from ice anglers on Proud Lake who reported catching some nice trout in recent years. When the water in the river warms up during the summer the trout seek out the cooler water in the lake.

Rockers eye playoff Wave

The Detroit Rockers host the Milwaukee Wave in the first round of the National Professional Soccer League playoffs at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Cobo Are-

Tickets for the first-ever playoff game in Rockers' history are discounted at $10 ($7 for children under 16), $7 and $5. They are available at all Ticketmaster outlets (645-6666), the Cobo Arena Box Office (567-7350) and the Rockers Office flocated on the corner of Eight Mile and Newburgh roads in Livonia).

Milwaukee and Detroit finished the regular season one-two in league attendance. The Wave averaged 6,765 fans per game at the Bradley Center in Milwaukee, while the Rockers drew an average of 4,031 for 20 home games.

The best two-out-of-three-first-round series will move to Milwaukee Sunday for a 2:05 p.m. matchup. If necessary, a third game will be played at 7:35 p.m. Monday at Milwaukce.

"OUR OWNERS decided they wanted to do something special for those who supported us this year, so they decided to discount the tickets," said Rockers' chief executive officer Jim Duggan. "Fan interest has been spectacular. We don't know if we'll get what we did during the season, but that's our goal. We think it's going to be a great game."

The fifth-seeded Rockers lost three of the five regular-season meetings with Milwaukce, which enters the six-team playoffs as the fourth seed. The Wave was 20-10 overall and had a 514 game lead over Chicago in the National Division before losing seven of their last eight, costing them a division title and a first-round bye

The Rockers, led by forward Andy Chapman, lead the NPSI with 14.1 points scored per game. The Wave, meanwhile, have the league's second best defense, allowing 10.2 points per game.

Chapman's 180 points and 77 goals are both NPSI, season records, while teammate Oscar Dragulcevich is the league's highest-scoring defender with 85 points.

5 Minute Workout

Choreographer gets together with Sandy Duncan

By Ralph R. Echtinaw staff writer

ORMER BIRMINGHAM resident Kevin Carlisle is a Hollywood choreographer and exercise video pioneer.

His face is on a tape called "The 5 Minute Workout," which he produced and for which he created the exercise program. Actress Sandy Duncan offered her popularity to Carlisle for the workout and consequently her perky presence dominates the tape's cover.

Carlisle graduated from Seaholm High School (class of '53). His previous credits include workout tapes with Debbie Reynolds and Suzanne Somers.

Along with Duncan, Carlisle Is prominent as all get out on the tapefor "The 5 Minute Workout."

WHILE SOME HAVE criticized Carlisle's five-minute workout, calling it a warm up in disguise, Carlisle said the tape is aimed at older and/ or sedentary folks to whom Jane Fonda's trendy paeans to spandex seem reminiscent of the Bataan Death March.

In fact, that's a big part of why the 55-year-old Carlisle is in the video. "I think it's really important for people to see that you don't have to let yourself fall apart because you're over 40," he said.

Myrna Partrich, owner of The Workout in Bloomfield Township and member of the President's Council on Physical Fitness, praised Carlisle's workout for content but said the title is misleading.

"It's a very valid tape," she said. "It's a safe tape. And that's a big plus. A lot of them aren't as safe as. they should be. I don't agree with the name. It's very misleading."

Most of the criticism, Carlisle said, has come from fitness fanaties, who critique the five-minute workout as if it were meant to compete with all other workout videotapes, when in reality it was designed for fitness neophytes.

THE TAPE DEBUTED in February and Carlisle said sales (at $19.95). are brisk. Part of the success, to be sure, can be attributed to the cameraderie between Duncan and Carlisle and the natural good humor between good friends.

At one point, Carlisle announces that he and Duncan will perform the exercises in sequence as soon as they change outfits. Duncan returns dressed in sequins only to learn how dangerous it can be not to listen-

Perky performes Sandy Duncan demonstrates exercises with Kevin Carlisle on "The 5 Minute Workout" video.

Although he was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., Carlisle moved to the Detroit area with his parents when he was 1. Upon graduation from high school, Carlisle was offered a scholarship to Stanford University in California, but chose the Juilliard School of Music in New York instead, where he received a partial scholarship.

Three years later, with a fouryear degree in dance and music, Carlisle realized that Ethel Merman was right and there really is "no business like show business." He began with summer stock troupes in Cleveland and Detroit in the late 1950s as a dancer, singer and actor but soon turned to the behind-thescenes work of choreography,

"It's a precarious thing to be a performer," he opined. "If you're a good choreographer, you can stay there as long as you want. It doesn't always depend on the public liking

or disliking you."

WITH A LIST of credits that consumes four pages of single-spaced type, and a 20-year-old company, the arts-and-croissant crowd as a man who does a bang-up job, and perhaps, just as important, knows in Sterling Heights.

how to keep his mouth shut.

Asked for anecdotes about performers he has worked with such as Barry Manilow, George Burns, Bob Hope, Rich Little and Dom DeLuise, Carlisle politely declined. "I respect the fact that they would like to have some privacy in their lives."-

However, he mentioned that Duncan, DeLuise and ManHow are three of his favorites. "They really care a great deal about the people they perform for," he said.

Carlisle has worked with Manilow since 1978, choreographing all the singer's stage shows, seven television specials and three music videos. Carlisle won an Emmy award for "The Third Barry Manilow Special"

THE DUO'S latest collaboration, "Barry Manilow on Broadway," can be rented from most video stores.

Admittedly, working with megastars isn't always easy. "It's like dealing with race horses," Carlisle said. "There are different ways you deal with them to get the best out of them." Apparently, Carlisle knows his race horses.

As busy as he is, Carlisle doesn't return to Birmingham often, but he mentioned a 1983 trip for his 30th class reunion. He was surprised to learn that a former classmate, Bob Appleford, was mayor pro-tem; an impressive station, the choreographer thought...

An uneven match at Meadow Brook

Performances of the Meadow Brook Theatre production of "Sleuth" continue through Sunday, April 21, on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. For ticket information, call the box office at 377-3300.

By Cathle Breidenbach special writer -

When evenly matched adversaries pit will against will and match brain against brain, that's gamesmanship at its most exciting. Anthony Shaffer's "Sleuth" dramatizes an articulate, suspenseful game between fairly matched rivals - Andrew Wyke, a rich, egocentric and aging writer of detective fiction, and Milo Tindle, a handsome, bright, but poor-er travel agent in his prime:

Like bucks bashing antiers over a doe, Wyke and Tindle trade jibes and insults about Marguerite, Wyke's wife, and Milo's lover. The audience never meets the beautiful, spendthrift prize they both claim, but she nevertheless raises the emotional ante in their high-stakes match. The dynamics of Shaffer's play, just like the dynamics of any good game, depend on balancing the wit, the cleverness, and the will to win of worthy opponents.

Mismatched players in Meadow Brook Theatre's production of Shaffer's 1971 Tony-award-winning play diminish the tensions as the two men joust with words and use deceit to best one another. Fine acting, Peter Hick's opulent manor house where the action is set, and energetic staging in the Meadow Brook production can't overcome the lukewarm suspense that results from unevenly matched opponents.

Director Charles Nolte pits the formidable slinger of words and wit Arthur Beer as Wyke, against the able actor Alexander Webb as Tindle, but Nolte stacks the deck by making Tindle too gentlemanly and passive to thrust and parry with Wyke. Nolte further slants the playing field (to mix games playing metaphors) by getting Tindle drupk so the younger man, already disadvantaged because he is playing on his adversary's home turf, becomes even less a match for Wyke's aggressive, demeaning gamesmanship.

IT'S A BIT like watching Anatoly Karpov checkmate a 17-year-old contender or Jimmy Connors trounce a green ace - entertaining, but not a real contest with adrenalin jolts and stop-the-heart suspense. To be fair, the odds in Meadow Brook's production improve dramatically in the second act when Inspector Doppler takes on the case.

Arthur Beer superbly plays Andrew Wyke, the balding, bizarre writer of English detective fiction. Wyke's solitary vocation as a writer accustoms him to creating dialogue -and talking to himself, so he speaks aloud the exchanges fermenting in his brain. He plays both parts of dialogues - often in dialect. The role showcases Arthur Beer's versatility as he mimics a 1930's Chicago gangster and an Irish cleaning lady, to name but two of the dialects Wyke takes on in a play that spoofs the stereotypes and stock characters of English detective fiction.

Hoopsnakes rock the blues

Wherever-you-go, there's the blues. Even in the home of Prince, Husker Du and the Replacements.

Rest assured, blond-haired guys named Olaf bemoaning unrequited love with some Swedish babe are not from which the Minneapolis blues are made. Bruce McCabe and the Hoopsnakes are seeing to that, performing a rollicking brand of roadhouse rockin' blues.

"There's always been the blues since the hippie days," said plane player- and singer-McCabe, who '. Garry Tallent. ----moved to Minneapolis from Clinton, Iowa, in the mid-70s. "At least since I moved here."

ef since 1985, forming initially as a part-time project. Gultarist Charlie Bingham, drummer Jim Novak, bassist Mick Massof and McCabe decided to take things a bit further, releasing a pair of LPs including their latest "Jump In & Hang On" . produced by E-Street Pand member :

"We did a lot of traveling around the country in a Greyhound bus," McCabe said. "It was a lot of fun."

More than anything, though, the experience bas made the Hoopsnakes even more a light-kult outfit, Members of the band have been together for 15 years, racking up critical acclaim along the way.

McCabe won "Best Keyboards" in 1982 and 1984 Minnesota Music, Awards while Bingham garnered "Best Guitar" honors in 1982, '83, '85, '88 and '89. Aside from accolades, the band is almost like a fami-

AN OUTSIDER would seem to have a hard time infiltrating such a fraternity. Tallent, though, was a welcomed addition. The E-Street Band member used his talents to make "Jump in & Hang On" on crackling blues album.

"I sent a demo I just made in the kitchen on a tape recorder using an acoustic guitar," McCabe said. "By the time he was finished, there were horns and trumpets on the song. He took it a long way."

The feds did it - and auto makers got the blame

There was a scene in the macabre classic "Catch 22" when the hero confronts a guy who just murdered a woman by throwing her out a window. When the police crash into the scene, of course they immediately arrest the hero and let the bad guy

Somehow I got that feeling watching a recent "Prime Time 'Live" show about how many automotive seat belt systems have been redesigned to become less effective in real-world use than the old-fashioned; manual, three-point belt sys-

I've written more than a few colurrins on the subject, pointing a hopeful finger at the screwy U.S. safety regulations and policies that led auto companies to engineer these systemr, under protest.

Now comes Diane Sawyer, representing the big-time media investigative type, crashing through the door, and takes . . . you guessed it

.. domestic auto companies to. task for doing what Joan Claybrook and Ralph Nader, among others, insisted that they do.

AT THE HEART of the issue is the notion of a so-called "passive restraint," the buzzword invented by safety-advocates who insist that a seat belt that operates, more or less, without any thought or action on the part of the driver or his passenger is statistically superior to a belt system that provides superior protection but (horrors!) has to be buckled. by the user.

The "passive restraint" advocates can usually be recognized by the way their pants have a habit of dropping to the floor, unless, of course, someone assists them in buckling up. But I digress.

It took one of the most remarkable feats of engineering in the auto business to develop a fully workable, extremely effective three-point belt system and a car structure to with-stand a 30-mph impact — about the limit of most car's crashworthiness today. But superior crashworthiness wasn't enough for advocates of the "passive" philosophy, mainly espoused by former head of the National Highway Traffic Safety administration, Joan Claybrook.

Ms. Claybrook, et al, demanded extraordinary efforts to make seat belts more "comfortable" - hence more likely to be used — which prompted the development of a belt that allowed a driver to induce slack in the belt at will - problematic if there is too much slack. Another unfortunate response from auto englneers was today's silly networks of motors, door-actuated belts, etc., which do nothing more than remove the driver from responsibility for buckling up.

FOR TOO LONG, even alrhags were promoted as a "passive" device, rather than an incremental improvement over three-point belts that offers additional, rather than passive, restraint.

Ultimately, the "passive" mania prompted the creation of many belt systems that, obviously, meet all U.S. government crash standards but still were not as effective as a solidly placed, well-located standard belt system that was secured by its user. If you want to see a truly effective belt system, check out any racing car or a car prepped for a Hollywood stunt — they use a full harness, waist and shoulders, and buckle it themselves.

It's interesting that European countries never bought the "passive" argument, philosophically or otherwise, and standard European issue is. the same old three-point belt discouraged by the U.S. regulators. Also interesting is that in the United States, Volkswagen, followed by the Japanese car companies, ploneered the silly seat belts that plague us today, although most manufacturers followed suit until Chrysler led the way out of the jungle by putting airbags (and manual belts) in all its Prime Time Live, meanwhile, takes all this information and somehow manages to put the blame for the current seatbelt fiasco squarely on the domestic industry - even twisting snippets of testimony given when the domestic automakers were protesting the shift to passive systems to somehow argue that the engineers knew that passive belts weren't as good as manual belts and changed them anyway.

The fact that it was a federal agency, supported by so-called consumer groups, that forced the change to passive belt systems was Ignored by Ms. Sawyer, who seems awfully quick to grab the good guy and hustle him off, while the real culprit is left standing by the open window with a guilty look on his

The Federal Reserve, which controls the nation's money supply, has been pushing down interest rates in recent months to give homeowners, especially those with adjustable rate mortgages, more money to move into larger homes or spend time remodeling their present ones.

If this strategy works, not only will new-housing starts pick up, but such sister industries as appliance, furniture and landscaping should flourish as well, said William Decker, owner and broker of The Prudential William Decker Realtors in WOrke the Feds started loosening the fiscal screws in January, things here," said Decker. "In February, we had our best month since 1985 in terms of units sold. There's a lot of buyers out there right now."

One trend of concern, he said, was sales of homes priced above $250,000 were sluggish. "When you speak of the resale of higher-priced homes, that usually means transferees," he said. "We've seen a lot of transferees, and in this area it usually means those who have ties to the auto industry, leaving for other jobs, but not as many transferees coming back in. I'm sure that trend will reverse itself once the auto industry starts rolling again."

WITH SO MUCH of metropolitan Detroit's economy tied to the success and failure of Ford, Chrysler and General Motors, and the hundreds of area suppliers that serve them, many expect consumers to spend freely once a steady stream of cars begins to roll from dealership lots.

What makes people spend money really started to perk up around is confidence in the future," said Gordon Folimer, president of Follmer Rudzewicz & Co., an accounting firm in Southfield. "The lower oil prices are good for us, but not for states like Texas and Louisiana that rely on the selling of oil.

"This particular area depends on. the auto industry, say what you, want. As things stand, sales will most likely pick up in July and August when the new models are introduced. As for the rest of this model year, it could be a dead duck."

The general consensus among business leaders is that the economy. will begin to turn around in the summer and fall. All the ingredients are in place for a recovery - the war and the uncertainty it created are over, consumer confidence is inching forward, the stock market is climbing and the nation's money supply is expanding. Now all it takes is for consumers to spend money.

• Organize your return. Your tax return should be submitted in a certain order. Form 1040 should always be on top, followed by Schedules A, B, C, D, E, F, G, R, SE, and W in alphabetical order. Numerical forms should follow next in numerical order. Behind those comes any other statements or other unofficial documents you submit.

• Check your math. Check your return and schedule to make sure there are no errors in your math. If posssible, have someone else go over your arithmetic. If you do need to change a figure, determine if this change affects figures elsewhere on your return.

IRS allows you to round off figures to the nearest dollar. Remember that if you choose to do so, you must be consistent and round off all entries on your return and schedules.

• Sign your return. Even the smallest mistakes, such as forgetting that both you and your spouse must sign a joint tax return, can have serious consequences. The IRS may treat unsigned returns as if they had never been filed. As a result, you could be penalized 5 percent of the net tax due for each month the return is late, with a maximum penalty of 25 percent.

Construction loans harder to get in '90s

By Doug Funke

10B★

This article, the third in a series about banking in southeastern Michigan, explores lending practices relating to commercial development and home mortgages.

Bankers generally have decided on their own — without much of a push from federal regulations — to tighten the screws on developers and builders who want to borrow for new projects.

"(Federal) standards haven't changed. The environment in which the developer operates has changed," said Justin L. Moran, a consultant to the industry and a spokesman for the Michigan Bankers Association.

"For developers in the last few years, it has clearly become more difficult to get loans. That's simply a reflection that many types of development are overbuilt." Robert Heinrich, president of the Metropolitan Naional Bank of Farmington, agreed that market forces and good business sense rather than government edicts. give rise to policies in every lending category.

"When you experience losses, you start looking where they're occurring and start tightening lending criteria in that area," he said.

HOME MORTGAGES, equity loans and refinancings are more readily available because they're safer, Moran said. The collateral, the house or condo, is valued as more than just an investment. And the amount of money loaned for a residence is much less than for commercial

"Everyone has to live somewhere," Moran said. "If everything goes wrong, you (the banker) are going to recover most of what you lose anyway when you sell the

"There has never been a question on the availability of money for home mortgages," Moran added. "For the last 56 years, qualified buyers have had no problem. In the last few years, it has been easier than ever."

More mortgage money has become available due to secondary financing markets and the rise of federallychartered, privately-owned companies like the Federal National Mortgage Association.

"I'm not really working with a (supply) limit . . . because I'm selling off and always getting money back to work with," Heinrich sald.

MOST BANKS sell their residential mortgages fairly quickly, Moran said. "The (secondary) market is so busy, so active, you can't get your arms around it."

Banks that sell mortgages on secondary markets make their money on origination fees and a small monthly fee for continuing to service the mortgages. The packagers like GNMA, FNMA and other syndicates, earn a small cut by packaging the mortgages.

Secondary mortgage buyers, which can be pension funds, insurance companies and maybe even other banks, lock in long-term interest income at perhaps a half percentage point less than the original mortgage

When interest rates skyrocketed in the late '70s and early '80s, banks responded with adjustable rate mort-

"Qualifications for buyers I don't think are more stringent today than 10 years ago," said Sam Kreis, vice president of construction lending for Comerica.

GENERAL RULES of thumb - no more than 28 percent of monthly gross income applied to the mortgage payment (interest, principal, taxes and insurance) with total debt not to exceed 38 percent of monthly gross. Mortgages also can be used as balt.

"It's an ideal vehicle for a bank to make good customer relationships," Kreis said. Customers with a mort-' gage at a bank are likely to have a checking account there as well as a credit card and maybe a money market account.

Bankers use some basic principles on loan decisions whether the applicant is a first time buyer looking for a starter home or a veteran developer/builder of a multimillion dollar office complex.

"The essence of being a lender is managing risk." Moran said. "They look at character, cash flow and col-

Cash flow is especially big.

"BANKS ARE very worried about the ability of real estate developers to sell, lease or rent properties," Moran said. 'In the last couple of years, it's very hard to demonstrate cash flow on buildings unless you have tenants to line up."

Richard Roeser, a Birmingham office developer and president of the Building Owners and Managers Association, recalls the days when structures went up on spec-past," he said. "They (banks) are probably (requiring) preleasing of 60-80 percent now and banks will take a hard look at the credit worthiness of the leases," Roeser

Developers also have to put more of their own money into projects now before even applying for a construc-

Like 30-50 percent compared to 0-20 percent during the building boom, said Ketth Sant, manager of the Southfield branch of Cushman & Wakefield, a commercial real estate firm.

"THE MORE equity a landlord has to put to a project, the less risk is perceived for the lender," Sant

Developers typically finance a construction loan through a bank for 18-24 months at a rate one or two percentage points above prime. The money is doled outas the project progresses, with the developer paying monthly interest on the butstanding balance.

During construction, the developer tries to line up: tenants and permanent financing from insurance companies, pension funds, real estate investment trusts and maybe even other banks,

. The permanent loan is pald back from rents. That loan is usually at a lower interest rate than a construction loan since it's less risky, Roeser said.

Bankers like a shorter payback period, three to seven years with a 10-year maximum, for even a permanent loan, Moran said. The payback period may be 15-25 years from other lending sources.

Developers who are doing commercial projects now are scrambling for an equity stake before even pitching banks for construction loans.

-"Money is not as readily available in the development community as well as in all business communities,"

So partnerships and syndicates are formed for even seed money.

Spending by consumers to bring end to recession

struction.

When will the recession end? With the advent of peace at hand, lower oil prices and affordable interest rates are expected to buoy consumer confidence and revive everything from auto sales to new-home con-

That's the optimistic outlook, at least. But with such vexing problems as unemployment, reduced overtime, a nationwide credit crunch and embattled real-estate and banking sectors, the economy could be down for months.

"A recession is always a tough thing to shake," said Tim Brennan, a professor of economics at Madonna University in Livonia. "Once a few industries start to slow, and the media picks up on it, all of a sudden you have a national crisis on your hands.'

Most consumers, said Brennan, are confused. They want to know which way the economy will go and when the recession will end, But with so much conflicting data, there was the sole spark leading to the are no easy predictions.

"There's plenty of money out there, but it's not being spent," Brennan said. "People see the stock market going up, but at the same time unemployment is rising. For the economy to recover, consumers have to start spending money again."

WHILE THE STOCK market had been heading toward all-time highs with a few downturns following the allied liberation of Kuwait - a sign, if history is a reliable guide, that a comeback is in the making - disturbing trends still linger.

Since June, 1.6 million Americans have lost their jobs. In addition, consumers have held tight to their credit cards as installments dropped $2.4 billion in January, meaning people are borrowing and spending less, a fact underscored by sluggish retail

Spending is vital to-a recovery, sald Brennan, as consumer expenditures account for two-thirds of the nation's gross national product and comeback from the last recession a decade ago. But how to convince consumers to reach deep into their pocketbooks? And will consumer spending again be the catalyst for economic growth?

David Provest, president of the Bank of Bloomfield Hills, cautions against optimistic predictions. Baby boomers, he said, who were part and parcel of the economic expansion during the '80s, are aging and saving money for retirement and their children's education.

"Spending by baby boomers is much more conservative today than it has been since 1984," said Provost. "Instead of flashy purchases like caviar, baby boomers are stepping back and making more conservative purchases."

ANOTHER SIGN of fiscal restraint - since Iraq invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2, deposit transactions have risen sharply at the bank while lend-

April can be the cruelest month, thanks to the arrival of the taxman. But you can look back on the tax season without remorse if you review this last-minute filing checklist drawn up by the Michign Association of CPAs, based in Farmington Hills.

• Don't deduct reimbursed expenses.Pat's annual medical ex-. penses came to $3,700. As he understood the tax law, these expenses were deductible to the extent that they exceeded 7.5 percent of his adjusted gross income (AGI), which was $36,000. Thus, on his tax return, he deducted $1,000. What he failed to take into account was that his insurance company had reimbursed $3,000 of his medical costs. Because of that, Pat could not deduct a single cent of his unreimbursed expenses.

From Russia, with love

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Icons are sacred images, painted in hushed tones and in vivid detail. But that's only to an outsider's eye.

To a member of the Orthodox Christian Church, icons symbolize the beauty and divinity of God's kingdom expressed in a material

St. Innocent Orthodox Church in Redford has numerous icons, but four in particular stand out at the front of the altar. They are ones of Christ, the Virgin Mary, St. Nicholas and St. Innocent of Irkutsk, which were painted in 1983 and are gifts from the Russian Orthodox Church.

"Look at the face and look at the eyes," said church member Jane de Vyver, transfixed by the icon of St. Innocent. "You can sort of enter it and feel a sense of tranquility and a sense of calm.

"When you feel that calm, you're better able to enter into and experience the divine realm."

She likens the icons to having one foot in the material world, and one in the spiritual realm. Sort of like the American Orthodox Church itself.

In addition to icons, the physical radiance of the small church can be heard through music and worship. Services are in English, although the music 'is in the Slavic tradition. Members sing a capella because 'the voice is the instrument God created,' according to de Vyver.

"IT'S A VERY close knit family," said the pastor, Rev. Roman Star, who has been a priest for seven years at the small church on West Chicago, off of Telegraph. "There's a willingness to help one another."

St. Innocent's has experienced gradual growth through the years while maintaining traditions of the Orthodox Church.

This time of year is a particularly joyous occasion in the Orthodox Church, celebrating the resurrection of Christ.

Easter in the Orthodox Church is celebrated a week after Western churches mark the holiday. The Ecumenical Council in 325 set the criteria for Easter to be the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal (spring) equinox.

The Orthodox faith believes the resurrection should not be celebrated until the completion of Passover.

"You can't have the new until you've completed the old," said de Vyver, who is a lecturer on Eastern and Western Christian Thought and Arts at Marygrove College.

Holy Week started Saturday, March 30, and features services at the church throughout the week. Pascha, known as the "Fest of Fests," culminates at a special Friday afternoon service.

THE PRIEST brings out a shrouded, nearly life-sized icon, painted to symbolize the entombment of Christ. The shroud is placed on the tomb—where there are flowers.

Later Friday night, the tomb is carried outside in a procession around the church. There is singing and chanting, marking the funeral of Christ.

On Saturday night, there is a transition from the lamentation of the crucifixion to the joy of the resurrection. A few minutes before midnight, members sit in the church in darkness waiting for the new light.

The priest lights a candle in the sanctuary, symbolizing the new light. Then he proceeds to light the rest of the candles held by members.

Another procession is led outside the church, which stops at the closed doors to re-enact the holy women going to the tomb and finding Christ gone. Christ's resurrection is then pronounced.

People begin singing an Easter hymn: "Christ is risen from the dead/trampling down death by death and upon those in the tombs, bestowing life."

Once back inside the church, the lights are turned on and the tomb is gone. A family meal takes place until 5 a.m. Sunday.

"It's the most glorious day of the year," de Vyver said. "It is indeed the Fest of Fests. Of course, I'm tired after singing three hours but it's an enormously joyous occasion."

THE ORTHODOX Church has a 2,000-year history, establishing roots in the Middle East and Mediterranean. Orthodoxy spread through to Russia and surrounding regions.

Until 1054, there was one Orthodox church. A split occurred along political and regional lines, which was led by pope and patriarch of Rome and the autonomous Orthodox Catholic churches, according to de

The Orthodox Church conjures up other images, mostly ethnic ones. Some 70 members of St. Innocent Church come from diverse backgrounds, according to Star.

Some have been lifelong members, following in the footsteps of their parents. Others like de Vyver are converts.

Part of the reason for de Vyver joining 17 years ago from the Episcopal church was the physical and spiritual beauty of the Orthodox church. She wanted to find out the theology behind the icons that led people to produce the works of art.

"THEY JUST reached out and grabbed me just by their spiritual presence," de Vyver said.

The four icons from the Russian Orthodox Church particularly stand out among the rest. Some of the most visual icons are of the Virgin Mary, who plays an important role in the Orthodox Church.

"Unlike the Western Church where you have the Virgin Mary isolated and portrayed alone, Theotokis is almost always shown holding Christ," de Vyver said. "This shows her as the birth giver of God."

Letters are in the halo of Christ, a Siovlanic variation of Greek. Part of the translation is Yahwe, God's name in the Old Testament.

No shadows are depicted in the icons in order to be illumined by the divine, according to de Vyver.

To the point His needling restores health

By Sue Mason staff writer

Dr. Michael Nadolny is a needling kind of physician. But don't expect a line of witty repartee from him; he is more into giving a patient a charge — of an electrical nature.

The osteopathic physician is one of three doctors in the metropolitan area who practice acupuncture. Certified in Ryodoraku, or Japanese, acupuncture, he has been practicing acupuncture for 18 years, first in Westland and now in Livonia.

Nadolny discovered acupuncture medication and recommendate a year after word of the Oriental treatment reached the United States in 1972, following then President Richard Nixon's historical visit to it if it helped me."

to the People's Republic of China.

AT FIRST skeptical but constantly fielding inquiries from patients, he decided to attend a seminar to find out more about it. Plagued with back problems for which he was being treated, he also decided to be the "guinea pig" and undergo acupuncture treatment while at the seminar.

"I told them I didn't believe in it; that it doesn't make a difference," he said."

"They told me to stop taking my medication and receive treatment for seven days. I did and I felt wonderful. It turned me around to where I figured there had to be something to it if it helped me."

He decided to study Ryodoraku (meaning line of good points) acupuncture in Japan under a Japanese neurologist who wanted to come up with an acupuncture system that was understandable to Western medicine.

WHAT HE came up with was a graph that by using a small electrical wand charts the energy pathways (meridians) of the body and shows what is going on at the time. The chart provides a readout that the doctor uses in placing the needles to "re-program" the energy flows

I am very curious about how you tell so much about a person by their handwriting alone.

I am a 33-year-old right-handed female who is very fascinated with graphology. I read your column in The Observer regularly and hope to hear what you have to say about my bandwriling.

Thanks so much.

Farmington Hills

Dear L.W.,

A controlled and self-protective personality comes to my mind as I scan your handwriting. You are more cautious than spontaneous in your daily interaction with others.

Seemingly, you grew up in an atmosphere where you felt forced to hold back your true feelings in order: to feel worthy before your parents. And you continue to monitor your behavior to gain the acceptance of those who mean the most to you.

"There's no danger to the patients. There's no wires hooked to a 220 line and they don't jump around?"-

THE INITIAL examination or workup takes about an hour. In addition to the chart, Nadolny also looks at the patient's lifestyle and dietary considerations.

The initial therapy is 12 acupuncture treatments within 30 days. Once the body's meridians are reprogrammed, maintenance treatments are used to keep them flowing normally. Each treatment takes about 20 minutes.

Nadolny gets many of his patients by word of mouth. Some are referred by other physicians.

Many are people who have "been through it all" medically in hopes of finding relief for their maladies. They're "tough cases, challenging cases that respond nicely" to acupuncture treatment." Nadolny claims an 80-percent improvement rate among those cases.

"The patients have a sense of relaxation after the first few treatments. Some have had such spasms that after the first few treatments -break the cycle, they feel good."

Dr. Michael Nadolny discovered acupuncture in the '70s and has been practicing the oriental ACUPUNCTURE TREATMENT is applicable to any condition. It can be used as pain control for cancer patients and is "superb" for muscles, joints and migraine headaches, Nadolny sald.

It also is an effective tool for smoking cessation and weight loss, and acupuncture of the ear has been found to be an effective tool in the treatment of drug addiction.

Nadolny got his start at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine, where he received his degree in 1964. He interned at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital for two years and was in charge of its emergency room for several years before going into private practice.

He added acupuncture to his specialties in 1972 - "Blame it on Richard Nixon," he said. He moved his practice to the Livonia Pavilion three years ago.

Christians follow path of the cross

By Julio Brown staff writer

> HRISTIANS FROM throughout the world gathered in recent days for Good Fri-

On Easter Sunday, Christians celebrate the resurrection of Jesus. The day marks the end of Lent, a season of penitence.

Good Friday worship services were of St. John's Episco; al Church in Plymouth Township and at many other area churches March 29. Christians took time from their busy day to worship and reflect.

"In the English-speaking world, "this day is known as Good Friday," said the Rev. Robert Shank Jr., rector at St. John's Episcopal Church.

The name is an odd one, given the somber meaning of the day.

"How can we call such a day

In other parts of the world, different names are used to acknowledge Christ's pain and shame on Good Fri-

"We are not primarily followers, we are beneficiaries," Shank told worshipers during a Good Friday liturgy. "His death is not our death."

Good Friday is a somber day for Christians, preceding the joyous celebration of Easter.

Worshipers participate in a Good Friday service at St. John's Episcopal Church of Plymouth.

JESUS DOESN'T need the sympathy or the tears of Christians.

"We look rather at the results of the day, the fruits, the consequences of his death."

Worshipers at St. John's Episcopal * Church observed Good Friday with an early afternoon service of prayers, lessons, hymns and communion. An offering was taken to support the work of the Episcopal Church in Jerusalem and the Middle'

Christ's death and resurrection sent a new power of life flowing into the world, Shank told the worshipers. The rector read passages from the Bible, reminding Christians of what Good Friday and Easter mean.

JESUS WAS humble and capable of regeneration, much like the sycamore described in the Old Testament book of Isalah. The Gospel of St. John, in the New Testament, describes the hyssop, a shrub that is humble in appearance and modest in its demands. The plant is able to grow out of cracks in stones with little encouragement.

"It makes do with very little." Shank invited worshipers to ponder the humility and strength of the sycamore and the hyssop.

On Good Friday, Christians are reminded in graphic terms that greed and selfishness "are inappropriate for those marked with the sign of the cross in baptism." Instead, Chrisctians are to strive for God's kingdom, Shank said.

Depersonalization of charity is cause for concern

Our streamlined civilization has applied its genius for efficiency in have difficulty expressing sentiments of friendship on birthdays and anniversaries by way of commercially printed cards.

I know this practice saves time, but something within me is offended by the idea of letting a professional card-writer or poet speak Society has relieved us of many duties by professionalizing functions which each of us would have had to assume in past centuries.

In the religious tradition with which I am most familiar, worshipquestionable areas. For example, I is ers are reminded daily of their personal duties to "practice kindness, show hospitality to strangers, provide dowries for poor brides, attend the dead to the grave, visit the sick, comfort mourners, and make peace between fellow men."

> In the interest of efficiency, we have created social agencies to care for many of these needs on our behalf.

moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner -

with relatives who dread lonellness. We provide professional nurses to take our place in the care

I do not want to criticize these WE HIRE "companions" to be professional deputies of our own duties since, even with the best of intentions, we cannot always-han-dle personally our responsibilities.

But the trend should be curbed, not encouraged. There is no substitute for the unique qualities of spirit and concern which each of us can bring to those in need.

It is vastly more efficient, of course, to send a check and let pro-fessional staff do to to on our be-half. But I worky depersonalization of charity.

The needy, deprived and humili, ated require more than material help. The sick, the infirm and the aged yearn for the comfort and presence of those who can break the bonds of isolation and despair. Who will offer the gifts of the heart — sympathy, encouragement and companionship? Who will lift up the faith and hope of the despondent?

Our communities should provide opportunities and programs for concerned people to visit shut-ins, to counsel the heavy-laden, to reach out to the neglected among

The quality of our communal life will be enormously_enriched if we release the healing power of love and compassion that is realized by acts of benevolence.

Rabbi Irwin Groner is with Congregation Shaarey Zedek in Southfield.

Cabaret to benefit Livonia Symphony

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

Thursday, April 4, 1991 O&E

Leave the blustery winds of April behind with a ticket to the Livonia Symphony Orchestra's spring fund-raiser: "Come to the Cabaret."

The Livonia Symphony Orchestra, under conductor Francesco DiBlasi, presents its 18th annual cabaret concert, "Suddenly It's Spring," 8 p.m. Saturday, April 13 in the Activities Center at Madonna University, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia.

Guest soloist for the fun-filled evening is soprano Julie Fitzpatrick. Master of ceremonles is "Fat Bob" Taylor. Guest conductors are Madonna University president Sister Mary Francilene and Ernie Jones, a Detroit advertising executive and longtime Livonia Symphony supporter.

Selections on the evening's program include "Russian Easter Overture" by Nicholas Rimsky-Korsakov, excerpts from "Carmen" by George Bizet, "Voices of Spring" by Johann Strauss and selections from "My Fair Lady" by Frederic Loewe.

"April in Paris" will be conducted by Sister Mary Francilene. Ernie Jones will conduct Strauss's "Voices of Spring."

? THE NAME of a guest conductor will be drawn during one of several drawings at the

"The winner of the conducting drawing will conduct Sousa's 'Stars and Stripes,' DiBlasi said.

The fund-raising evening is meant for friends and fun. "It's all fun," DiBlasi said. "Fat Bob" Taylor, aka the "Singing Plumber," is the featured baritone soloist for the cabaret. Taylor is a former Detroit tems with his show, "Fat Bob's Kitchen." "This is Bob's eighth year with us," Di-Blasi said. "It also will be Bob's 23rd season

Soprano Julie Fitzpatrick and Taylor will sing selections from "My Fair Lady" by Frederic Loewe. Fitzpatrick graduated from Madonna University in 1988.

"She's a former Miss Livonia and a runner-up for Miss Michigan," DiBlasi sald. "She returned only last week from touring the country as a narrator for one of the major car companies."

FITZPATRICK OFTEN sings the national anthem at Detroit Pistons games.

"This is one of our bigger fund-raisers," said Lee Alanskas, on the board of the Livonia Symphony Society. She also is publicity and promotion chairwoman for the Livonia Symphony.

"Another big fund-raiser is our Infinity Yacht Cruise coming up June 15," she said.

Pizza, snacks, desserts and beverages will be available for purchase during the spring cabaret. Drawings for various prizes will be held throughout the evening.

Glass as art: a 30-year retrospective

Second of two parts.

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

★ LASS, THE great seductress, lady of 3,500 centuries, temptress in disguise, she begs you to touch her as she lures you deep inside with flashing prisms of light, which run the spectrum of a rainbow from red to yellow to blue.

Is it any wonder that nearly 30 years ago contemporary artists fell in love with her cold beauty? The love affair otherwise known as the contemporary studio glass movement now spans nearly three decades of American history.

March 23, 1962, is noted by many artists, collectors and admirers alike as the birth of contemporary glass art.

In a gardening shed behind the Toledo Museum of Art, a weektong, hot-glass workshop with Harvey Littleton, Dominick Labino and Harvey Greenleaf touched off a flicker that lit the way for individual artists working with

"As far as glass, up until 1962 it was art by committee," said Ferdinand Hampson, president of Habatat Galleries in Farmington Hills and Boca Raton.

A leading authority on the contemporary studio glass movement in art, Hampson has written such books as "Glass: State of the Art II" and "Insight, A Collector's Guide to Contemporary American Glass."

HAMPSON HAS lectured on contemporary glass in the United States and Europe. As president of Habatat Galleries, he has orchestrated 50 museum, university and art center glass ___ exhibitions.

At the turn of the century, famous glasshouses such as Steuban (later purchased by Corning) and Tiffany employed glassblowers, working in teams to create one-by-one, handcrafted pleces of glass art, usually vessels.

Until the early '60s, most considered use of glass as a craft. That's when Littleton, Labino and Greenleaf came together at the Toledo workshops and changed how the world and artists viewed

"Harvey Littleton is known as the father of the contemporary glass movement," Hampson said .---

AT THE beginning of the workshops, Littleton built a furnace that ended with a botched batch of glass because of insufficient heat. Labino, a vice president of the Johns-Manville Corp. attending the workshop, suggested a solution.

"Labino invented a glass that

World invitational set

For the 19th year, Habatat Galleries hosts its annual international glass show featuring the work of more than 100 artists from around the world, all housed in 25,000 square feet of space at two separate locations.

The 19th annual International Glass Invitational, the oldest and largest annual exhibit of contemporary studio glass art in the United States, opens with three preview days April 4-6. It continues through May 5.

Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. From April 7 through May 5, Habatat will open on Sundays from hoon to 5 p.m.

would melt at a low point," Hampson said. "He brought 475 glass marbles, which he'd invented, to the workshop."

With the addition of "Harvey Greenleaf, an experienced glassblower from Illinois (who) brought technique," the pipe dream of individual artists creating glass art, outside a factory setting, became reality.

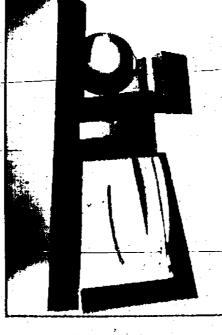

At the same time, American artists were experimenting with glass as art. In isolated pockets throughout the world, such as Italy, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Germany, artists began using glass as a material.

"In Germany, Erwin Eisch started using glass to paint with," Hampson said. "In the early '70s, Americans began to use different materials, building smaller furnaces and annealing ovens:

At a 1973 convention, glasshandling techniques were there, but glass lacked creativity. Blown glass dominated the exhibit.

"In 1974, at the International (Glass Invitational), nearly all the exhibited glass used Tiffany's fuming techniques," Hampson said.

IN 1975, it was difficult to denote the glass artist because each piece looked like the next. Hampson almost cancelled his International Glass Invitational exhibit begun in 1972 as the National Glass Exhibition. But in 1976, the glass movement took a turn toward creativity.

"By now, the artists had enough control over the glass to experiment; to become creative," Hampson sald. "At this point, unfortunately, the more adventuresome the work, the less of a market for it."

Artists, like Littleton, struggled to survive, choosing not to commercialize or standardize their work as did some of the artists on the West Coast, who succumbed to fashioning "glass objects which were heralded as the antiques of the future."

The late '70s was an exciting time for glass artists as they began to cast glass, fuse glass and slump," developing hot-glass techniques. They also "started using different techniques on blown

ONE OF the discoveries by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration furthered the creativity of artists working with glass. "A great discovery was laminate glues and the use of laminated glass," Hampson said.

Artist William Carlson is known for using laminated glass, granite and Vitrolite in his geometric mixed media sculpture. "Carlson uses Vitrolite in his sculpture." Hampson said. "In the 1920s, Vitrolite was used on the facade of storefronts."-----

"One thing the artists learned is they don't have to stick with one technique. They can use cast (glass) with blown, and commercial glass with Vitrolite (glass)."

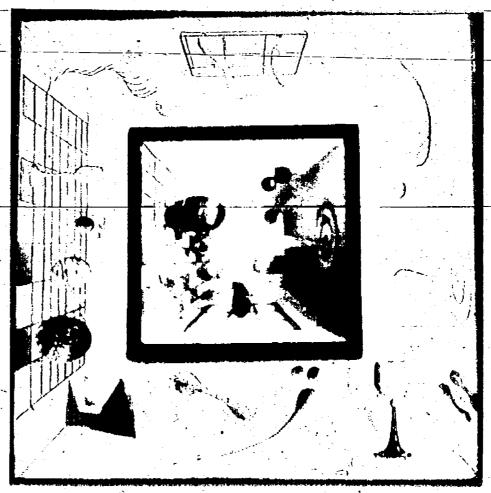

For a time, physical strength did not permit women to enter easily into the studio glass movement. "Most of the techniques are incredibly difficult," Hampson said. "But there's a real influx of women becoming involved."

Mary Shaffer is known for slumping glass, then slipping the sheet of slumped plate glass into a wire cage suspended from the ceiling.

Vladimira Klumpar of Massachusetts created this eye-catching piece using the hot-glass technique of casting glass in a mold. The design begins on the outer wall, leading inward in a swirling, dizzying path.

Left: Fred Birkhill of Pinckney entitled this mixed media piece "Fantasy Frame." It's priced at $3,500. The exterior is a painted box with a lampworked interior.

EMILY BROCK fuses, slumps and fabricates glass to create replica - places such as soda shops and libraries, rooms and their furnishings right down to the books on the shelf.

"You can't really talk about studio glass without mentioning Chihuly," Hampson said. "In 1971, Dale Chihuly started Pilchuck, a school for glass artists. Chihuly brought in painters, philosophers, great glass handlers. In a short time, Pilchuck became the learning center for glass."

Studio glass has progressed far . beyond anyone's imagination since its inception nearly 30 years ago.

Hampson predicts that glass's rapid growth will continue with "the idea of mixing material and increasing scále.

'It's significant to note that in the 1980s, Christy's and Sotheby's became involved in auctioning. glass; sanctioning the fact there is an after-market for glass," Hampson sald. "Glass is proving itself as a very viable material to make art with." The contemporary studio glass art movement came out of nowhere, because men like Littleton, Labino, Chihuly and Hampson feared for the day when glass would no longer be warmed by the touch of a hand until after it showcased functional glass; vessels. In 1991, contemporary studio glass art created by individual artists in their studios contain elements that range from painting to sculpture.

The Toledo workshops, Labino's glass formula and the invention of a small glass furnace combined to stimulate an international studio glass movement, which used glassas an art material.

· Glass: beauty that she is, with sparkling gleam in her eye, creates mystery. She can be fragile as a new puppy, yet rendered bulletproof as well as heat-resistant. Artists are creating new worlds from glass-worlds never thought imaginable.

Check used equipment carefully

Substantial savings can be made by keeping your eyes open for used photography equipment and accessories as long as you can distinguish between bargains and problems.

The best sources for locating used camera gear are photo stores, classified ads and local-photo flea mar-

With basic items such as tripods, camera bags and darkroom equipment (trays, tongs, measuring cups), very little can go wrong, so buying them is a pretty safe bet.

But with cameras and lenses, you need to be more careful and check them closely. Here are some tips on how to do it.

First, inspect the exterior of the camera you're interested in. A lot photography Monte Nagler can be learned from its general condition. Worn corners and marks from neck-straps is normal. Just be sure the wear isn't excessive.

But be wary of dents, large scratches and distortion of the camera body. Such problems indicate a dropped or abused camera and more serious damage could be concealed

LOOK THROUGH the viewfinder to ensure that, all read outs are clearly visible. Check the battery compartment for any damage from old, corroded batteries. Wind the advance lever and snap the shutter at all speeds. It should operate smoothly down the scale.

Now open the camera back and check for cleanliness. Set the shutter at "B" and watch through the opened camera back as the shutter closes. There should be no sluggishness.

At different ASA settings, check the meter out by using a spare or friend's - camera - as - a - reference. Readings should be within one half Finally, focus at infinity and look through the viewlinder. Distant objects should be clearly in focus. If not, there may be a serious problem.

Any lens you're interested in should focus easily and be free from scratches. It should also mount smoothly and easily to the camera

New film traces cultural-threads of Hmong

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Things get lost. Sometimes, it's trivial items like keys and wallets and sunglasses; sometimes, it's important things. Sometimes, people get lost.

Detroit-area filmmaker Kathryn Vander doesn't want to see that happen. She is determined to see that the Hmong people are not lost.

"Threads of Survival," a 25 minute film about the Hmong and their way of life as told through the culture's weaving and stitching, will premiere 3 p.m. Sunday, April 7, at the Detroit Artists Market in the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"Threads of Survival" tells the story of a displaced people. "When the film is released, I hope people will gain an appreciation not only for Hmong art, but for who the Hmong are," Vander said.

Originally from northern China, by the 16th century the Hmong people migrated to the mountain regions of Laos, where they established a mainly agrarian society separate from other cultures.

There, they remained until the early 1950s, when they were caught in the middle of the Vietnam War. Some chose to side with the Communist north, but a vast majority of the Hmong worked with the Central Intelligence Agency and sided with Americanbacked forces trying to bolster the South Vietnamese government.

At the close of the conflict, when U.S. forces left, the Hmong found themselves on the losing side. Fearing persecution, and very likely death, they Hmong became refugees without a country.

MANY ESCAPED to Thailand, where they lived in refugee camps before they were able to emigrate to other parts of the world.

Today, southeast Michigan is one of a handful of areas with a large population of Hmong people, along with California, Rhode Island and Minnesota, "The potential is there for (the culture) to die away, Vander said.

Vander, a Farmington Hills resldent, said she has wanted to make a film since her days as a University of Michigan film student. But it wasn't until three years ago she determined she would make a film about the Hmong craft and culture.

Vander conceived the idea for the film after reading an article about a local woman receiving the National Endowment of Arts National Heritage Award.

That woman, Nhu Fang Yang, a master weaver, became a central character in "Threads of Survival."

She, along with her daughter-inlaw and apprentice, Ia Mona Yang, and story cloth seamstress, Yeng Yang, are archetypes for the cultural progression of the Hmong people, Vander sald.

THE VENERABLE stitching and weaving styles of the Hmong, who have no written language, serve as a recorded history of the people. "The Hmong wetnan, through their art, are becoming the culture's historians," Vander said.

Preserving the Hmong culture is why the film is being made, Vander said. "They realize they may not be around forever."

"Threads of Survival" was a labor of love for Vander and the film crew. John Prusak, director of cinematography for "Threads of-Silence" and, among other films, "Roger & Me," said he got involved when Vander, a participant in a workshop he was presenting on filmmaking, approached him about the project.

"I'm glad she did. It was a great idea," he said. "When you see a story that needs to be told and isn't being told, it's a real opportunity. These people have no way of telling their story themselves," he continued. "There world as they know it has deteriorated. The Hmong are almost a lost people."

Hmong art is a utilitarian art. It pervaded the Hmong culture's. Hanging tapestries or story cloths, that once adorned the walls of a Hmong dwelling told the story of the people, of the clan, or of the family, Michigan State University art historian Marsha MacDowell

MacDOWELL, WHO served as consultant for "Threads of Survival," said the film is important for several reasons.

First, the film documents the migration from rural southeast Asiato urban centers and what that means to their culture. "Any person who moves from one place to another brings with them the traditions of the past,"

-Any culture transplanted from a rural land to an urban cityscape is going to encounter challenges and problems that threaten its existence. At the very least, the culture will change.

As that culture changes, the individuals sense of identity and affiliation with a group changes as well. "Threads of Silence" is about coping with that change and preserving the Hmong culture.

Vander said everything about the Hmong culture has been chal-lenged by their to eed migration.

The Hmong's agricultural way of life, their language, their diet everything has been effected in some way by the force migration that brought them to the United States.

Producer/director Kathryn Vander (right), director of cinematography John Prusak (middle) and assist director of cinematography Vic Spicer (left) prepare a shot for the new film "Threads of Survival," about Hmong cul-

"Even their clothing was steeped in the cultural," she continued. "It is part of everyday life."

A YOUNG Hmong girl might spend an entire year on a garment for the New Year celebration. "All woman in the Hmong culture would learn to sew. (In that culture), if you're good at it, you're considered a good woman."

During the New Year celebration, clothing was used to attract a prospective husband - a wellmade, handsome garment was considered to be a sign of a good fami-

The importance of weaving and stitching in the Hmong culture also extended to the Hmong spiritual beliefs. The Hmong people consider it a necessity to weave and stitch a replete funeral outfit, which they believe must be worn so that their ancestors would recognize them, Vander sald.

The funeral outfit was also considered important because the precision of the outfit determined one's station in life after reincarna-

"Here in this country, people don't make their clothes because they have some special significance," Vander said. "Here, people go to Kmart to buy their clothes.

"These people don't do things that way. The Hmong are trying to build a life in a place that is totally alien to them."

Indulge in some just-for-fun magazine reading

What the heck. It's April Fool's week, Spring Break time, and my 150th wedding anniversary. Let's kick off our shoes, put up our feet, and indulge in some just-for-fun magazine reading for a change. Who says we have to read books all the time, anyway? And who says we have to be serious? Let's look for something definitely on the trivial side. None of that hearty, meat-andpotatoes stuff for us this week, thanks. We're headed straight for the gooey desserts.

• LEAR'S Tease your appetite with this magazine's cover-story:-a brief interview with Bill Cosby and wife, Camille, conducted by editorin-chief Frances Lear over lunch at Manháttan's Bravo Gianni (could you die?). Lear and Bill Cosby snipe at each other a bit, while Camille Cosby paints a fairy-tale picture of life with Coz.

When you're done with that, dig into "L.A. Story," and to behind the scenes at L.A.'s smartest new restaurant, Maple Drive. Owned by Dudley Moore and Tony Bill, this posh place, with its in-your-face, drop-dead decor, is definitely where the Hollywood elite meet to eat these days. Learn who goes there, what they choose from the me and how much it will cost you to do the same. Nifty pix, plus a floorplan, even, showing you at what table you can expect to find folks like Madonna, Tom Selleck and Ronnie Reagan when you drop in.

• MICHIGAN LIVING In "Michigan's Greatest Hits," learn where to find the wildest, wacklest, wonderfullest whatevers in the Great Lake State. Not exactly something that will advance civilization, but fun to read, anyhow. After all, you really do need to know where to locate the tastiest chocolate chip cookies in Michigan, you know. Ditto waterslide parks, beaches, comedy clubs, B & B's, etc., etc.

• YANKEE If you think a story about the men who fill pot-holes in the streets of Boston isn't your particular cup of tea, read "Where There's a Hole to Fill . .n. " These "ambassadors of asphalt" may surprise you,

Also check out "Devoted to Diners," a story about diner lovers who have become "diner experts," recognized authorities on the colorful, peculiarly-American eating places that originated in Providence, Rhode Island almost 120 years ago.

• TOWN & COUNTRY Experience, via the latest pretty issue of T & C, the pleasures and palaces of ..

Taybe not along the same lines as this historic centerpiece in Mill Race Village, but with equal care and quality.

And when it comes to telling a prestige audience about your current homes for sale, there is no better place than The Observer & Eccentric's Creative Living Real Estate section.

Here is a newspaper section that regularly features the largest selection of suburban real estate ads in Southeastern Michigan.

Published twice each week on Monday and Thursday for an audience of more than 350,000 adult readers in 24 affluent communities, this popular section has been tailored for our satisfied Realtors who continue to be pleased with the results they receive.

• DOGS AND DAMES

"Dogs and Dames," an exhibition of works by Canton artist Gwen Dietrich runs through April 20 at Nelson's Gallery, 16376 Middlebelt, in Livonia.

The exhibition features sensitive portrayals of people and dogs in everyday situations. The artist works in pastel, colored pencil and watercolor.

Dietrich is a graduate of Parsons School of Design in New York. Her work has been exhibited in Detroit and New York.

Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

BOOK SIGNING

John Vraniak, the Plymouth Township author of "The Polish Trivia Book," will sign copies of his book 2-3 p.m., Saturday, April 6, at Barnes & Noble in Hampton Village Center, 2921 South Rochester Road, Rochester Hills. For more information, call 853-9855.

• SPRING FAIR

The Ann Arbor Spring Art Fair will showcase 250 contemporary and traditional artists and craftspeople representing 27 states.

The fair will be Saturday-Sunday, April 6-7 in the University of Michigan Track and Tennis Building at Ferry Field on State Street.

Exhibits will feature new trends in wearable fashion accessories and home furnishing accents. Media include paintings, blown glass, pottery, sculpture, woven clothing and jewelry. Prices range from $5 to $1,000.

The Mike Berst Ensemble will entertain.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, April 6 and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, April 7. Admission is $3; children younger than 10 are admitted free.

• PIANO SUMMIT

Four jazz planists will perform in the "Detroit Piano Summmit" sponsored by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall during the Michigan Bell Just Jazz Series, 3:30 p.m., Sunday, April 7, 3711 Woodward, Detroit.

Pianists Bess Bonnier, Hank Jones, Barry Harris and Tommy Flanagan will be featured, joined by Louis Nash and Randy Gelispie on the Drums and George Mraz and Paul Keller on bass. Tickets range in price from $8 to $21.50 each and may be obtained at Orchestra Hall box office or by calling 833-3700, from Hudson's Harmony House and TicketMaster or by calling 645-6666.

Realtors promote arbitration to settle disputes

By Doug Funke staff wilter .

Disputes over defects discovered after a house is sold or what's to become of carnest (deposit) money if a deal falls through may soon be dirocted to arbitration rather than the courts or mediation.

"Litigation is expensive," said Carol Frick, president of the Birmingham Bloomfield Board of Real-. tors. "I don't think the public likes going to court. I know Realtors don't."

"It will take care of matters in a more expeditious manner and be less costly," said Nancy Howell, president of the Rochester Board of Real-

'Arbitration is basically a binding situation where mediation isn't." said Allen King, president of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors.

Not that buyers, sellers and agents cheat each other left and right. The overwhelming number of sales transactions - upwards of 95 percent, according to Frick - close without incident and the principals. live happily ever after.

BUT IN THOSE few cases where problems arise, it doesn't hurt to have an alternative to the courts, where lawyer fees can make a filing. Ident for the American Arbitration impractical, or to mediation, which doesn't always reach a conclusion. That's why the Michigan Association of Remors and the American Arbitration Association are promoting binding arbitration addendums to purchase agreements.

Buyers, sellers and agents must agree in writing that a trained arbitrator, who could be a builder, contractor, lawyer or real estate professional, would decide disputes if they arise.

Evidence would be heard in a more informal, relaxed atmosphere at the actual site of the dispute. Decisions are promised within 10 days ' money back if he were to win the of the hearing. Mary Bediklan, regional vice pres-

Association, outlined the benefits.

"IT'S MUCH MORE economical

- you don't necessarily need lawyers," she said. "Once you institute a case, it can be disposed of in 30-45 days. It's much faster than courts, The finality aspect is one which we would consider important."

Complaints would be filed through the American Arbitration Association. The fee, ranging from $350 to $700 depending on the amount at dispute, would be paid up front by the person bringing the claim.

The plaintiff would receive his arbitration. The defendant would then pay the fee.

The arbitrator gets $125 for his efforts, the arbitration association keeps the rest for administrative expenses and processing fees.

Arbitration decisions are appealable only on the basis of fraud, collusion or arbitrator misconduct,

Don Freels, executive vice president'for the Michigan Association of Realtors, estimates that the average claim would range between $1,000 and $2,500.

"THE BEAUTY of the program is the person selected to arbitrate the case has expertise in the area - and they literally go to the house , . . and look at things firsthand," Freels sald. "It's fast, extremely afford-

Of 180 real estate cases arbitrated in Minnesota in 1989, only 17 were awarded totally in favor of the 'claimant, 24 were totally denied and the rest were ruled partially in favor of the buyer and seller.

. Nationally, real estate arbitration filings nationally rose from 510 in 1987 to 548 in 1988 to 1,125 in 1989, the American Arbitration Association reported.

Jane Bally, executive director of the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association, agreed that arbitration may be an alternative litigation for disputes involving small amounts of money.

But people should know they give up the right to a jury trial when opting for arbitration, she added.

-- "We believe in meaningful, educated choices," Bailey said. "It has to be a true choice and an educated decision on a person's part.

Taping may compromise client/attorney privelege

Our monthly meetings are held at board members' homes and are open to the general membership. I would like to tape record the mostings. Isthis legal or do I need to ask permission of the other members?

Because your attendance at the meetings of the board of directors is at the discretion of the board, I believe that tape recording of the meetings would also be discetionary - that is, only with the board's permission. Whether it is a good idea for the board to have its meetings taped is something that the board should carefully consider as well as whether it wishes to have the general membership attend its entire meeting. This may, in certain instances, compromise the association's ability to maintain an attorney/client privilege. I do not know why you want to tape the board's meetings. You may wish to consider running for the board if you are concerned about the way in which the association is being operated.

. We are a small condominium development and recently formed an association and have taken over all responsibilities from the developer as a vast majority of the units are occupied. But the developer still owns and maintains the model and claims that he does not have to pay the monthly association dues. All association benefits such as snow removal, insurance, landscaping services are being done at the model just like any other unit. .

ing the condominium documents. Generally the developer attempts to relieve itself of the responsibility of paying the monthly assessment on a unit unless there is a certificate of occupancy issued in which case it should have to pay the full assessment. Most documents, however, require that the developer pay the ac-It would be difficult to give you a tual maintenance costs attributable to units owned by it even if a certifi-cate of occupacny has not been issued or the unit is not occupied. In your situation. I believe that the developer, more than likely, should be making some contribution and the documents should specifically address this issue, assuming that the. provisions of the documents are reasonable and proper. You-are-bestadvised to retain legal counsel to represent the association in regard to this and various other issues, including the conducting of the various audits necessary.

Recently my condominium and connecting units were destroyed by fire, which left me in an apartment for nine months. I did not use any of the services that the maintenance fee covered, but the management company is insisting that I am responsible for them, with the exception of gas... I reviewed the bylaws, but there is nothing that refers to a fire disastér.

It would appear that you continue to be responsible as a condominium co-owner for the maintenance fees, -even-though-you-have-been-deprivedof the use and enjoyment of your premises. While there is not any clear authority on it, it appears that the fact that you did not occupy the unit is not necessarily an exemption for you. If your insurance covers your maintenance fees, they will be responsible to the association. You should double check with legal counsel as to the interpretation of your condominium documents.

Onions like it cool threatening and the gardening bug bites, plant onions. They grow best in cool weather and can stand frost, so they're among the earliest crops to go into the garden.

All onions aren't created equal, said Michigan State University master gardener specialist Tom Stebbins, so "know your onions" is good advice at planting time.

The three basic types of onions are scallions or bunching onions (picked before they develop bulbs), yellow or white storage varieties and large sweet onions.

Spanish and Bermuda, are good for use in salads or on hamburgers, as well as in onion rings. The white and yellow globe types tend to be hotter and are most often used in cooking. Green onions can be eaten as is or used in salads or stir-fried dishes.

Other members of the onion family can also be grown in the home garden.

Leeks, grown from seeds or transplants, have a mild, delicate flavor that lends itself to use in soups and stews.

Garlic is grown from the cloves that make up the garlic bulb.

VERYTHING THAT can ever be done with flowers and gardens has been done. Don't believe it. Nurseries, exhibitors, florists, designers, horticulturists and educators at the second annual Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show will dazzle even the most skeptical ncophyte horticulturist.

The event, April 11-14 at the Yost Ice Arena, is presented by the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens, said Judith... Corkran Katch, show manager.

Show hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

"This year, the show has a totally different theme from last year's 'A Secret Garden. " Katch said. "Exhibitors and designers are being asked to depict gardens one might find in other areas of the world after this year's theme, 'A Gardener's 'Holiday.'

The theme is developed each year in a brainstorming session between her and Mike Hommel, show designer and production coordinator.

Varying themes is one of the things that separates the Ann Arbor show from others. "It is intended to make each show different and stand on its own." Katch said. "People may say,.. Well, Lwent last year.

"Yes, you did go last year, but this. will be different from last year." she

THE IDEA, said Margaret Vergith. promotion coordinator, "is rather than leaving home, you can step into something different in your own back

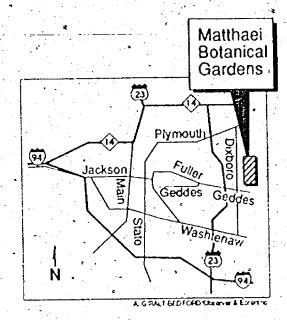

Seven elaborate gardens designed by nurscries and professional landscapers following the holiday theme -- in this case they represent a trip to far away and exotic lands will highlight the show.

But there's far more to the Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show then leoking at the elaborate gardens of professionals.

Plant societies like the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, the Garden Club of America and the Women's National Farm and Garden Association will showcase exotic flowers and plants from around the world/

But perhaps the biggest crowd pleasers are the amateur designers. individual and club affiliated, who will demonstrate what can be done in even a small space with a little talents and inspiration, Vergith said.

"The design areas are almost as important as the major exhibits," she

Unlike the major exhibits, where designers have a large area to work with, designers in the smaller exhibition areas may be asked to depict a New Orleans or French Country Side backdrop against a very small area.

KAY BRIGGS of Farmington Hills is building an exhibit called "The Seven Seas." an underwater design with partially submerged water plants and other materials.

Briggs said she got involved with. flower design as a hobby after retiring seven years ago. Looking for a way to occupy her time, and always having enjoyed flowers; she joined a local

"It's a very enjoyable way, a relaxing way, to spend your time," she

What began as a hobby, however. has become a passion. "The only way to get-good at it is to practice." she

She went from an enthusiast to a practitioner. Now she is even a judge for the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan.

FOR A Bonsai enthusiast like Gordon Hoialmen of Bloomfield Township, designing a miniature' landscape was bound to be a challenge I must admit I'm not very experienced. This is my first one."

But that lack of experience doesn't make his efforts any less enjoyable, Hoialmen said. In fact, he's combining his love of miniature trees with his project: a Japanese tea house surrounded by a landscaped Zen garden.

What's interesting about his current challenge is that a miniature landscape is taking Bonsai a step further. "You have to make everything to scale," he said.

Not only are the plants and sligubbery small, but they must look right next to the tea house, he said.

things and getting new ideas. "And , growing plants is fun and easy:"

GEORGE CROMER and his wife. Julie Garcia of Southfield, are breaking new ground at the flower show. Married in life, they are marrying their hobbies.

"I have always liked model trains: her hobby is gardening." he said. "To spend more time together, we joined our hobbies together."

Meanwhile, Marge Taylor of Plymouth will give a lecture/ demonstration 3-4 p.m. Sunday, April 14, on "Designing Bouquets for Your Home."

VISITORS TO the show also will have everything they need to emulate what they see at their disposal in "The Marketplace." in a pavilion adjacent to Yost Ice Arena. It will offer a full array of gardening tools, plant materials, gifts, topiaries, Bonsai specimens-house plants, seeds. decorative planters and bulbs.

Local Observer & Eccentric participants in The Marketplace _ include: Eaton Nursery, a landscape services firm in West Bloomfield; Botanical Images, a shop specializing in wearable botanical art in Troy; the Garden Path Nursery, a garden center specializing in Japanese Maples m Union Lake: Good's Nursery, a garden center in Canton, which is bringing a variety of perennials; and Nature's Reflections in Farmington Hills, which specializes in botanical and wildlife art prints.

. Show tickets are $8 for adults, $6 for children age 12 and younger. Tickets will designate dates and time periods to visit the event. Although tickets will be available at the gate, only advance tickets guarantee immediate entry. Advance tickets are available at the Michigan Union Ticket Office, all Ticketmaster outlets and Hudson's department stores.

To order tickets by telephone, call 763-TKTS (Ann Arbor area) or 645-6666 (Detroit area). In the interest of public safety, strollers will not be permitted inside Yoot Ice Arena during the show.

Directions: Free parking for the flower show is available at the Briarwood Mall on State Street and at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School, 601 W. Stadium Blvd. Shuttle buses will run regularly to and from both lots to the show. Shuttle fares are $1.

Take I-94 west to State Street and travel north to Briarwood Mall or I-94 west to Ann Arbor-Saline Road heading northeast toward Ann Arbor to Main Street, yeer left heading north to Pioneer High School.

Sowing a garden reaps healthy fun

By Keely Wygonik staff writer

IRED OF being a couch potato? Want to turn over a new leaf? Sow and you shall reap the many rewards of · home gardening. Sounds corny, but it's true.

Gardening is good exercise and relaxing. "You get the variety you want, the best tasting, and freshness, said Vera Sullivan horticulture consultant for the Wayne County. Extension Service.

 You don't have to be a farmer to grow vegetables, all it takes is a little effort and planning.

"People who say a garden is too ... much work are usually right. Their gardens were too much work because they tackled larger gardens than they could handle with the available tools and labor," said Tom Stebbins, a master gardener specialist in the department of horticulture at Michigan State University.

"It's always better to have a successful small garden and wish it was bigger than a big garden that disappears under a carpet of weeds in June or swamps you with more beans, tomatoes or summer squash than you can use or give away."

Once you've decided to have a garden, hold the shovel, there's some groundwork to cover before you dig in.

Is the soil in your yard the stuff good gardens are made of - welldrained, loamy and full of organic material? If you're not sure, test it by scooping up a handful.

If it's thick and clings together in a ball like clay, plant roots will have a hard time penetrating and die due to lack of air and water. If the soil runs through your fingers, it's light and sandy. Water and nutrients will drain away too quickly to benefit plants.

DON'T DESPAIR, you can nurture your soil by adding peat moss, about a two inch layer, into the top six inches of soil, and rescuing coffee grounds, grass clippings, vegetable and fruit peels from the trash. These will decompose and make your soil richer.

Keep in mind gardens need 6 to 8 inches of full sun a day to be fruitful, and water. They don't have to be in the back yard or all in one place. Some can be grown in patio planter boxes or hanging baskets.

The possibilities are endless. Plant a row of leaf lettuce behind the yellow and orange marigolds you put in front of your shrubs every year. The lettuce will accentuate the marigolds, and the marigolds will keep the bugs away from the lettuce. A match made in heaven.

Instead of geraniums or petunias, put some cucumbers in your hanging planters. The leaves are as nice as any trailing plant, and as a bonus, you get pretty yellow flowers that turn into · » cucumbers

These are a few of the vegetables that can be combined with, or used in place of flowers in beds or for borders. Some others to consider are bush and pole beans, radishes, beets, Swiss chard, spinach, lettuce and tomatoes.

They are among the easiest to grow, Sullivan said:

BUT WAIT, there's something else you need to know. Most vegetables are either cool or warm-season crops, said

Mike Bovio, nursery department manager at English Gardens, 6370 Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield.

Cool season vegetables grow best in spring or fall and can withstand some frost or freezing temperatures. Lettuce, spinach, radishes, beets and turnips can be planted as soon as the ground can be worked in the spring. usually late March or early April.

For most vegetables, a small packet of seeds will produce enough for a family of four.

Warm-season vegetables such as cucumbers, melons, squash, peppers and tomatoes are sensitive to cold temperatures and will be killed by frost. Buy seedlings of these vegetables at your favorite nursery and plant them in mid to late May when the evening temperature hits 55. degrees.

Not only is this a timesaver, but Bovio said it allows the gardener to avoid any problems with seed germination.

DON'T CHOOSE transplants that already have flowers or fruits on them, said Bernie Zandstra, Michigan State University extension horticulturist.

"Transplants need to concentrate their energies on establishing a large. strong root system. If they've already switched from vegetative growth to fruit production, they will not be able to do this and will struggle to produce fruit on an inadequate root system."

According to Sullivan, four tomato plants could supply a small family with fresh fruit for most of the summer. Pick an early-maturity variety, like Early Girl, that will be . ready in (60-65) days, cherry tomatoes for salads, and beefsteak which taste great on hamburgers, but take longer to mature (about three -months after planting) . Try a couple varieties of peppers too.

"Handle plants so as to avoid injuring their stems or roots as much as possible," Zandstra said. "If plants were grown in peat pots, soak the pots completely before planting. Then bury each pot completely under the soil. If part of the pot is left exposed, it will serve as a wick and dry out the pot and the soil mix around the roots."

Plants in multi-compartment containers should be well-watered and then carefully removed from their individual cells. If two or more plants were grown in one container, they need to be divided. When the soil mix is dry, cut the plants apart with a sharp knife.

The Master Gardeners of Wayne County are presenting a seminar "Gardening in the 90s" 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 13, at First Baptist Church of Plymouth, 45000 N. Territorial Road. Cost of $15 for adults and $7.50 for children includes box lunch. For more information, call 453-7374.

Settings: urban to trails

Major Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show gardens include:

• A "Hydro-linear Garden" by the Alexander Nursery in Mount Clemems - a modern garden in an urban setting, viewed from within a building. Designed as an abstraction of geometry using the elements of plants and water. Elements of water with vine walls replicate Muslim gardens of Spain circa 1300 A.D.

• An "Oriental Oasis" by Arbor Knoll Nursery in Ann Arbor - a Far East adventure in the illusions of nature uses large Japanese flowering plants, a wooden bridge arching over a dry stream bed and a teahouse nestled in a pine forest.

• "Welcome" by John Hollowell &

Associates - an entry garden ideal for use in office and business settings incorporates a low stone wall and copper clad entry arch, which defines and encloses an intimate courtyard with a moving water sculpture with a backdrop of hemlock and cherry trees and a garden floor covered with vibrant spring blossoms and soft green mosses.

• "Help Wanted: Part-time Gardner" by K.C. Runciman, landscape architects in Milan — This leisure garden is the perfect choice for the low maintenance gardener emphasizes natural elements as an integral and beautiful (though often unappreciated) part of the environment from saplings to decaying
